U.S. FLAG SHOT FROM STAFF IN JAPANESE RAID

Planes Destroy Mission Property; American Reported Slain.

STAFF HID IN DUGOUT IN EXPLOSIVES RAIN

Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.

Peiping, China, April 19.—A terrific aerial bombardment by Japanese planes devastated United States mission property flying the American flag at the village of Miyun-Hsien, the Rev. Mark W. Brown, secretary of the North China Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, reported today.

Coincidentally with report of the raid, the Chinese military issued a communique declaring a United States missionary had been killed by Japanese bombs.

However, the United States Legation, investigating the raid, said that no American missionaries were registered at Miyun-Hsien, although Americans possibly are aiding Y. M. C. A. war relief workers in the danger zone, menaced by the new Japanese advance below the Great Wall.

U. S. Flag Shot Down.

The Rev. Mr. Brown reported that the Methodist mission property was hit repeatedly during the bombardment. Numerous buildings, he said, were destroyed.

The missionary and Chinese assistant hid in a dugout, he said, while the mission buildings crumbled under the attack and the United States flag fluttered to earth.

"I was working at the mission in Miyunhsien when 12 airplanes arrived," Mr. Brown said in describing his experience. "They dropped 80 bombs, devastating the city.

"The bombs were very large ones. For example, one bomb knocked down a 30-foot brick and stone wall surrounding the mission compound.

"The air raid was continued after I fled from Miyunhsien. I believe the American Mission property there must be a total loss."

Diplomats May Leave.

The pastor said that no American missionaries had been at Miyunhsien for several weeks. He doubted the Chinese communique reporting an American had been killed, although he said the tragedy might have occurred during a raid at some other mission in the war zone.

The United Press correspondent canvassed the foreign legations, asking the ministers what action they intended to take in the event the Japanese occupied Peiping.

They agreed in the event of alien occupation of the ancient capital, it would be necessary for the ministers and their staffs to proceed elsewhere.

Japanese Reestablish Base at Port Arthur

Tokyo, April 19 (A.P.).—The navy office today announced the reestablishment of the Japanese naval port at Port Arthur, Manchuria, at which will be based the second overseas squadron, charged with the defense of Japanese lives and interests on the coast of Manchuria and north China.

Recent events in north China increasing the need of such protection necessitated the establishment of a permanent base of forces engaged in this duty, the navy office explained. Japan's previous naval port at Port Arthur was abolished in 1922, after the Washington conference.

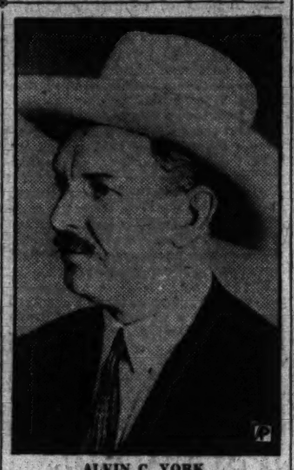
York Guards Broken Tomb

Graves of Kin of World War Hero Violated in Hunt for Gold.



ALVIN C. YORK.

Jamestown, Tenn., April 19 (A.P.).—A legend of buried treasure nearly a century old, was recalled today when Sergt. Alvin C. York, World War hero, reported he had found the tombs of his great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Coonrod Pile, and her daughter opened and wrecked.

Last night Sergt. York, Sheriff J. M. Peavyhouse and several others stood guard beside the opened graves in a cemetery near here, in the belief grave robbers might return to search other burial places in the family plot for a quantity of silver and a "keg of gold," which tradition says was buried by Coonrod Pile shortly before his death almost 100 years ago.

The two graves, brick lined and formerly covered by heavy stone slabs, were found open yesterday. Into the grave of Mary Pile, Sergt. York's ancestor, had been thrown bricks and other debris from the grave of her daughter. Mrs. Pile was buried in 1843.

Coonrod Pile was one of the earliest settlers in Pentress County, and reputedly wealthy. During his last illness, legend says, he told an aged slave, "Aunt Mary," that he would reveal to her the hiding place of the gold. Treasure hunters have dug over most of the land owned by Pile, but nothing ever was found.

One version of the legend was that the treasure, or part of it, was buried in the grave of Mary Pile or that of her daughter. Sergt. York expressed the belief that violation of the graves was due to the treasure legend.

2 DIE AND ONE SHOT BY GUN OF FATHER

Son, 3, Killed and Estranged Wife Dying; Barricaded, Man Ends Own Life.

Oregon, Ill., April 19 (A.P.).—Frank Gunder, about 42, shot and killed his 3-year-old son, Frank, probably fatally wounded his estranged wife, Frances, 40, and then shot himself through the head tonight as sheriff's deputies sought to force him from his house where he had barricaded himself. Gunder died later in a Dixon, Ill., hospital.

Mrs. Gunder was struck by four bullets from an automatic rifle. A physician said she had slight chance to live.

The shootings occurred in the house where Mrs. Gunder moved after the separation from her husband. Mrs. Gunder was the mother of six other children. The child was shot through the head.

After the shooting, Gunder fled to his own house and barricaded himself, defying Sheriff Frank Murray and deputies to oust him. Deputies finally tossed tear gas bombs into the house. Gunder, Dr. Warmortz said, had shot himself through the head when deputies reached him.

Mystery Shrouds Shooting of Man

Supposed Brother of Police Inspector Davis Is in Serious State.

Harry Davis, 49, said to be a brother of Police Inspector O. T. Davis, was mysteriously shot and seriously wounded in the abdomen early today at Ninth street and New York avenue northwest. Police apparently were in the dark regarding the circumstances surrounding the shooting, although a lookout was broadcast for one George Hardy, 25, for questioning.

The mystery of the shooting was matched by the victim's sudden disappearance afterward. By the time police arrived at the scene the man was gone, but a check of hospitals failed to disclose his arrival at any of them.

Later, however, he was taken to Sibley Hospital, where an operation was performed to remove the bullet. It was stated he had first been taken to the office of Dr. Anthony Deeping at 941 Massachusetts avenue, subsequently being removed to the hospital when an immediate operation was found necessary. His condition was regarded as serious.

Widow of Walsh Loses Son in Cuba

Telephone Message From Isle Tells Her of New Bereavement.

(Associated Press.)

Informed by telephone last night of the death in Cuba of her son, Regino Peres Chaumont de Truffin, whose illness for more than a year delayed her marriage to the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, Mrs. Walsh prepared to leave for Havana at 3 a. m. today.

The widow of the Montana senator and Attorney General-designate of the Roosevelt administration, who a little more than a month ago lost her husband while they were en route back to the United States after their marriage in Cuba, had been concerned over her son's condition throughout the day. She had arranged through the Cuban Embassy for her passport before news of the death reached her.

GERMAN MASONRY TO OUST HEBREWS

Free Lodges to Be Put on Purely Christian Basis Under Revised Plan.

Berlin, April 19, (A.P.).—Dissolution of all free Masonic lodges in Germany and their reformation on a "purely Christian basis" was announced tonight by the national grand lodges.

The word "Free Mason" will be retained temporarily, as will the ritual based on the Old Testament, after which they are likely to disappear, it was decided.

The lodges will be reorganized under the name "National Christian Order of Friedrich the Great." Jews will not be permitted to join the new order. A statement said that "in deference to the times" the grand lodges had decided upon the step.

This sweeps away Masonic tradition almost 200 years old in Germany. The first lodge was established in Hamburg in 1737 and the second in Berlin the following year. Berlin's "Grandmother Lodge of Three Worlds" was founded by Friedrich the Great.

"For 200 years the lodge has protected its Christian groundwork and denied Jews entrance to lodges (affiliated with it)," the statement said "In order to avoid all misunderstandings the grandmother lodge has dropped the name Free Mason. Loyalty to its old connections and to the old bonds with the Hohenzollerns shall be the duty of the new lodge."

Meanwhile, Hitler's cabinet was invoking further the Aryan law, which bars nearly all Jews from civil service and degrades them to second-class citizenship.

A law was being drafted regulating the admittance of Jewish students to universities and other institutions in proportion to the ratio of Jews to the entire population.

Lindberghs Reach Baltimore by Air

Baltimore, April 19 (A.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh flew to Baltimore today from Newark, N. J., on the first leg of their announced transcontinental trip and remained overnight here.

Their plane was taken out of the steady rain that had fallen on the city all day and placed for the night in one of the city's hangars at Logan Field, the municipal airport. The colonel was at the controls when the plane came down on the sloppy field and he at once left with his wife in an automobile with H. V. Thaden, official of the General Aviation Corporation.

They inspected a transport plane under construction at the General Aviation plant for the Transcontinental Western Air Line. Col. Lindbergh is a technical adviser for the company, and his trip is in the nature of an inspection tour for the line.

Two Killed, Third Hurt As Wind Wrecks Home

Chickasha, Okla., April 19 (A.P.).—Two persons were killed and a third critically injured tonight when a windstorm struck the home of Jake Mutz, about 8 miles southeast of here.

Mutz and his wife, an elderly couple, were killed. Their grandson, Gravely, injured, was brought to a Chickasha hospital.

SLASH IN MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT HIT

Report Asks American-Made U. S. Flags; Endeavors in District Told.

By VYLLA POE WILSON.

Ten representative American women were nominated for high office at the session of the Forty-second Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Constitution Hall last night. The offices for which these women are contesting and for whom the delegates will vote today are seven vice presidents general and two vacancies in the ranks of honorary vice presidents general.

Flowers, laudation and the plaudits of their followers featured the nominations of these women, their delegations rising loyally to their feet when their names were mentioned by feminine orators placing their names before the congress. That oratory is not a lost art, after all, among American women was proved again and again last night in the brief but effective nominating speeches. The candidates themselves, arrayed in handsome gowns and carrying huge bouquets, sat in a row at the front of the platform so the delegates might see the choice of the States for these high offices.

Names of Candidates.

Those nominated for the post of vice president general included:

Mrs. Howard Bailey, Missouri; Mrs. John Carroll Coulter, South Carolina; Mrs. Hoover H. Hanger, France; Mrs. James Trottman, Wisconsin; Miss Helen Harman, District of Columbia; Mrs. John W. Kirkpatrick, Kansas; Mrs. Lue B. Spencer, Nebraska, and Mrs. Victor L. Warren, of Maine.

Only two candidates were nominated for honorary vice president general, Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, of Connecticut, and Mrs. James T. Morris, of Minneapolis, Mrs. Cassius C. Cottle, of California, withdrawing her name as a candidate.

In no uncertain tones, the Continental Congress went on record yesterday as favoring national defense in a resolution in which the D. A. R. opposed "any reduction in the personnel and efficiency of our Army, Navy, Marine Corps, National Guard, organized Reserve Corps, R. O. T. C. or C. M. T. C., as such reduction would seriously weaken our national defense."

The resolution further stated that, whereas the President is being asked "to use the extraordinary power vested in him to reduce our defense forces it is believed the President will welcome an expression of opinion from this society on this vital subject." A copy of the resolution is to be sent to the President at once.

American-Made Flags.

Spurred with patriotic endeavor to reduce the debt on Constitution Hall despite the "hard times" prevailing throughout the membership, the delegates yesterday pledged $17,034.94 for

U. S. LEAVES GOLD STANDARD AS FIRST STEP TO INFLATION; LONDON AND PARIS ALARMED

Counterattack Is Planned in British Loss.

FORCING DOWN POUND IS GOAL

France Is Astonished by Roosevelt's Act at This Time.

London, April 19 (U.P.).—The British government was reported tonight preparing a "counterattack" against today's developments in the United States toward depressing the American dollar.

Persistent rumors said that Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in presenting the annual budget next Tuesday, would "budget for deficit."

The most likely effect of such action would be again to forpe the pound sterling down on foreign exchanges.

The United Press learned authoritatively that the government had sought in vain to stem the decline of the American dollar early in the afternoon with huge "equalization fund" purchases of dollars.

Government Loss Heavy.

This heavy buying of dollars failed to check the slump, however, and it was understood that the government probably would sustain a considerable loss as a result.

Although operations involving this equalization fund are always kept secret, it has been persistently reported recently that the government lost a large amount of money through its efforts to manipulate foreign exchange with it.

In well-informed quarters, it was estimated that as high as 50,000,000 pounds sterling ($186,000,000 at today's closing) out of the original fund of 150,000,000 pounds had been lost in manipulation efforts.

Reflecting the dismay with which British banking and manufacturing circles generally view Washington's move, most of the British press warn that the United States' action may lead the world into dire straits.

French Astonished.

Paris, April 19 (U.P.).—French financial quarters were astonished tonight at reports from Washington quoting Secretary of the Treasury Woodin as saying the United States has abandoned the gold standard.

The leaders failed to understand how it was possible Mr. Woodin could make such a statement prior to the conversations next week between President Roosevelt and former Premier Edouard Herriot, now on the high seas en route to Washington.

The isolated gold position of France would immediately and gravely affect trade, it was feared.

Speculation was widespread whether it will be necessary for France to adopt some degree of inflationary measures.

Wisconsin Brewers Pay $1,000,000 in Taxes

Milwaukee, April 19 (A.P.).—Federal taxes paid by Wisconsin brewers and beer dealers since the legalization of 3.2 per cent beer today passed the $1,000,000 mark, A. H. Wilkinson, revenue collector, said today.

Court May Decide Justice Of Shoemaker's Haymaker

Minnesota Member of Congress Accused of Avenging His Ears by Closing Radio Listener's Eye; Rover Studies Case Before Taking Action.

Whether or not Representative F. H. Shoemaker, Farmer-Labor member of the House from Minnesota, who boasts of his days as a convict, will have to face a charge of assaulting Theodore Cohen, his neighbor in the Chastleton Apartments, will be determined today by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, who yesterday was made acquainted with the mass of details surrounding the encounter.

So ready was the congressional punch that Cohen was treated by Dr. James Coupal, former Presidential physician, and several stitches were taken under the recipient's eye. Police Court attaches defined the eye as being "one of the most developed black eyes" they had ever seen.

Assistant United States Attorney Milford Schwartz, of Police Court, conferred with his chief, Mr. Rover, yesterday relative to the issuance of a warrant. Mr. Rover preferred to take the whole affair under consideration before he took action.

The story, as told by persons who visited the District attorney's office, is that Shoemaker's congressional ire was aroused Tuesday night by a radio in Cohen's room. Cohen, it was said, had been clandestinely warned over the phone to stop the music, but, standing on his rights, he continued the musical machine until——

There came a knock on the door.

"I'll give you 30 minutes to get out," out," commanded a gruff voice. The radio continued its melodic tunes.

The 30 minutes came and went. Then another knock, and this time there was action galore. Cohen was struck in the eye. The blow knocked him into the arms of friends, who today are ready to swear he was not the instigator of the trouble.

Representative Shoemaker served nine months in Leavenworth Prison for sending scurrilous matter through the mails. He was admitted to his seat in the House after mild protests had been filed against him.

Inflation Is Expected To Aid U. S. in Parley

Statesmen of Britain, France and This Country to Study World Exchange Situation to Find New Gold Standard.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt's dramatic move yesterday in cutting loose the dollar from its gold moorings is expected to greatly enhance the possibility of agreement between the United States and Great Britain on the financial phase of the forthcoming White House conversations. The statesmen of France, Great Britain and this country will begin a study of the international exchange situation which is expected to result in striking a new gold exchange standard between them. At the present time this is the most important work to be accomplished in preparation for the world economic conference, although the subsidiary factors of tariffs and disarmament are just as important in the final agreement.

The economic issues between the two Anglo-American countries have been placed in a fair way towards agreement also by yesterday's announcement, because it virtually improves the condition of international trade exchanges and enables American farmers and industrialists to compete in foreign markets on better terms than heretofore with Great Britain.

Naturally, the White House decision to let the dollar shift for itself on the international money market, has accelerated the necessity for an early agreement on the gold standard. The fact that the United States has virtually abandoned the gold standard has only served to spread the area of fiduciary instability to the dollar.

NIGHT PARLEY MAPS NEXT DOLLAR STEPS

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt mapped out new steps in his drive for controlling inflation at a lengthy conference last night with State Department, Treasury and congressional leaders.

In the meeting, which broke up after an hour and a half of discussion, were Secretary Woodin, Undersecretary Phillips, of the State Department; Director Douglas, of the Budget, and Senators Pittman, of Nevada, and Byrnes, of South Carolina, both Democrats.

Legislation will be introduced, probably today, giving the President broad authority to exercise the controlled inflation toward which the administration moved swiftly yesterday.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, and administration advisers yesterday drafted an amendment to the farm bill to give the President broad powers to inflate the currency.

It was learned that Senator Thomas, sitting with Senators Byrnes and Pittman and Prof. Moley, substituted the principle of the Pittman silver bill in place of the Thomas provision for free silver coinage.

The original Pittman measure would permit the President to accept silver in payment of war debts to the United States. It specified that this silver payment should not exceed $100,000,000 from Great Britain and her dependencies. Silver value would be fixed at about 50 cents an ounce.

The rewritten measure would permit the President to issue bank notes in denominations ranging from $1 to $10,000 similar to the legal tender authorized in 1862, but broader in the sense that it could be used in payment of public as well as private obligations. No limits were prescribed. The President

Morgan Approves Roosevelt's Action

Defeat of Deflationary Forces Way Out of Slump, He Says.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan, in one of his rare public statements today, indorsed President Roosevelt's action in suspending gold exports.

"I welcome the reported action of the President," he said in a written statement, "and the Secretary of the Treasury, in placing an embargo on gold exports.

"It had become evident that the effort to maintain the exchange value of the dollar at a premium as against depreciated foreign currencies was having a deflationary effect upon already severely deflated American prices and wages and employment.

"It seems to me clear that the way out of the depression is to combat and overcome the deflationary forces. Therefore, I regard the action now taken as being the best possible course under existing circumstances."

STOCKS AND PRICES OF COMMODITIES UP

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

New York, April 19.—With latest moves in Washington interpreted in Wall and La Salle streets today as indicating determination to restore commodity prices through a managed dollar, stocks and staples boomed.

With gold exports definitely stopped, and the dollar declining swiftly in terms of other leading currencies, there was a rush in the New York Stock Exchange, in the Chicago Board of Trade, and other domestic markets, to convert funds into shares and commodities.

In the bond market, highest grade issues declined, as investors converted their funds into speculative media to take advantage of rising prices. Other bonds, however, particularly industrial and foreign issues, were mostly strong. The turnover was close to $20,000,000 par value, the largest for any day since September, 1931.

In the share market prices registered the most sweeping advances since March 15, the day trading was resumed after the banking holiday, and the turnover exceeded 5,000,000

President Slowed Up Little by Cold

(Associated Press.)

A slight cold yesterday slowed the pace of work that President Roosevelt has maintained day in and day out since he entered the White House.

He received newspapermen for one of the regular semiweekly conferences, however, giving them the news of the administration's decision on gold. The meeting was in the oval room at the White House proper instead of in the executive offices, where the conferences ordinarily are held.

The President spent most of the day resting. His malady was not regarded of sufficient importance to call a physician, and late in the day Mr. Roosevelt had recovered sufficiently to see Senator Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada, and Senator Byrnes (Democrat), of South Carolina, along with Secretary Woodin, for a discussion of currency problems.

WORLD-WIDE BASIS SOUGHT

Woodin Can Not Forecast Length of Embargo.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Abandonment of the gold standard was formally announced by President Roosevelt yesterday.

The decision to refuse further licenses for gold shipments abroad in settlement of trade and banking balances was reached last Saturday, it was explained officially at the White House.

The step is the first in an inflationary program which has been under official consideration at the White House for several weeks.

As yet officials have not determined what the next step in this program will be. Much will depend upon the course of commodity prices at home during the next week or so. Meanwhile, the President is determined that controlled inflation shall be attained, in one form or another. He is hopeful, also, that eventually the principal powers may take concerted action to advance price levels generally throughout the world.

Stocks and Prices Rise.

The revalorization of the gold dollar is the plan which has been most favorably considered as a means to the general lifting of prices, but this step must await international agreement. Meanwhile, the United States Government will proceed with its own plan to raise prices at home.

Although the reduction of the gold content of the dollar has not been formally determined upon, the principal congressional advocates of this method of inflation were informed at the White House earlier in the week the President would support such a step at the proper moment.

The first effect of the White House announcement touching the new gold policy yesterday was an immediate and sharp upturn in stock and commodity prices. This was expected, and was hailed in official circles as evidence that the banking and business community had correctly interpreted the action—as the first step toward a positive policy of currency and credit inflation.

Effect on World Parleys.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, who has hoped since the banking holiday last month that inflation might be avoided, said yesterday he could not forecast the duration of the absolute gold embargo.

In other official quarters it was said that the present gold status would rule until President Roosevelt's economic conference with European statesmen here, this week and next, point the way to the general revalorization agreement. Such an agreement, in the opinion of President Roosevelt's closest advisers would pave the way for an almost indefinite expansion of currency in every country, depending upon the mobility of the gold reserves under the new basis.

At the same time, the prospect of a remonetization of silver on a world-wide bimetal standard was discussed by Treasury officials as another possible step in the world economic conference. A world-wide agreement on a silver-and-gold exchange standard, at a fixed ratio, is being discussed as an alternative proposal if some of the principal European powers find themselves unable to

REPORTS ARE MADE ON C. A. R. PROJECTS

Harriet Lothrop Chapter Building Fund Now Totals $5,000.

Reports on major projects of the Children of the American Revolution consumed the greater portion of yesterday's session of a three-day convention in the National Red Cross Building.

Mrs. J. A. Van Orsdel told of the Harriet Lothrop Chapter building fund, and reported $5,000 on hand. Although no building plans have been completed, she explained, the fund will be added to by the children during the coming year.

Work of immigrant children at the Ellis Island Kindergarten was described by Mrs. John P. Mosher. She told how the character of the work had changed because of the immigration restriction. Besides toys and handiwork, the children are taught to absorb American ideas and ideals, she said.

The convention evidenced great interest in the report of Mrs. John M. Kerr, who is in charge of furnishing the Mary Ball Washington room at Wakefield, restored house of George Washington's birth.

More than $1,000 has been furnished by the organization for this work. Mrs. Kerr described a four-poster bed and a cradle which had been in the Washington family for 175 years. Herself a member of the Washington family, Mrs. Kerr said the cradle was used by her great-great-grandfather, born 25 years after the birth of George Washington.

Mrs. Gertrude Bowman related the house's history, pointing out that it was a replica of the home of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home."

The convention will close today when the delegates are received at the White House by Mrs. Roosevelt.

Farewell Dinner Tendered Crosby

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retiring District Commissioner in charge of the Police and Fire Departments, was tendered a farewell dinner by the public order committee of the Washington Board of Trade last night at Sholl's restaurant.

Testimonial speeches were made by Odell Smith, chairman of the committee; Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superagricultural fair as the principal tan-intendent of police; Inspector E. S. W. Burke, Inspector B. A. Lamb, William A. Van Duzer, director of traffic; Joseph Burkhart, Robert J. Cottrell, Charles E. Waters and others. Claude W. Owen, vice president of the Board of Trade, presented Gen. Crosby with a pipe on behalf of the committee.

The Blanton bill for abolition of the Police Trial Board was opposed by the committee. Considerable discussion of the police retirement law was held. Recommendation was made that retirement be left to the judgment of the Commissioners.

It is probable the measure will be offered as an amendment to the farm bill, although the group also has considered the possibility of attaching it to the 30-hour-week bill in the House, or making it a separate measure.

Yesterday's action followed Thomas' withdrawal of his amendment to the farm bill Tuesday. Tuesday night both Senator Thomas and Senator Byrnes were in conference at the White House. The redrafted amendment was sent to the White House following yesterday's conference with Prof. Moley at the Capitol.

shares for the first time since September 13 last. It was the largest volume of trading for a rising market since August 8 last, and some 250 issues registered new high levels for 1933 or longer. As measured by price averages, the market level came close to the peak of last January. Many issues ended the day $1 to $9 a share higher.

The average price level of principal speculative commodities reached the best level since early last October. In an extraordinary buying stampede, wheat futures at Chicago shot up nearly 5 cents a bushel, and closed with net gains of around 2 cents. Cotton at New York gained some $2 a bale.

Bar silver at New York had a rise unprecedented in recent years of 3½ cents an ounce. Crude rubber futures jumped about ½ cent a pound in the largest turnover in the history of the New York Rubber Exchange. Similar advances occurred in hide and copper futures. Raw silk jumped 15 to 17 cents a pound; coffee futures, between ¼ and ½ cent; the spot raw sugar market advanced 1-16 of a cent to 3.20 cents a pound, the highest of the year; wool top futures jumped about 3 cents.

Pending clarification of the administration's program to manage the purchasing power of the dollar, financial quarters were highly confused as to the probable level at which the American dollar would be stabilized. It was suggested that stabilization of currencies generally might await the world economic conference.

Inflationists had since the banking holiday been urging that support for the dollar in the foreign exchange markets be abandoned, so that it might seek its own level, permitting the United States to enjoy the inflationary effects which Great Britain derived from its suspension of gold payments in September of 1931.

International bankers, however, pointed out today that the dollar might logically be expected to turn strong in the exchange markets again, after the current flurry of selling, inasmuch as this country is both a creditor nation and has a favorable balance of trade. Thus, technically, the dollar is much more strongly situated than was the pound sterling when England suspended gold payments. Also, of course, the United States has huge supplies of gold, while Great Britain at that time was faced with a shortage.

The effect of a lower dollar on commodities, over a period of time, was also regarded as problematical, pending further developments.

D. A. R. MAKE NOMINATIONS

The voteless District appealed for a helping hand from the D. A. R. in support of a constitutional amendment to bring the vote to Washington through a speech made by Frederic William Wile, political writer and broadcaster, yesterday morning. Mr. Wile urged the delegates to support this amendment if it comes before the country for ratification.

"Five hundred thousand Washingtonians," he told them, "to whom liberty is as dear as it is to you, are taxed without representation. We have all the obligations of American citizenship, but are denied its most priceless boon—the vote. You will be true to all your fundamental ideals if you cast your influence in behalf of national representation for Washington," he concluded.

American flags "made only in America" were urged in the annual report of Mrs. Arthur D. Wall, national chairman of the correct use of the flag committee. She stated that her committee is constantly receiving protests against foreign-made American flags.

That news of unemployment in America is doing much to discourage emigration to this country was pointed out in the annual report of the committee on Ellis Island, of which Mrs. J. Warren Perkins is chairman. Another thing that is holding down immigration totals, too, she explained, is the fact "that consuls abroad are discouraging immigration by granting visas only to those foreigners who are assured of employment or support upon arrival in America. The work of the Department of Immigration in rounding up aliens entering the country illegally was praised in the report.

Old Jewelry Asked.

Only 35,500 aliens came to this country in 1932 for permanent residence, while 10,000 aliens left it, was another fact presented by the chairman.

Mrs. Grace Lincoln Hall Brosseau, chairman of the Constitution Hall Memory Book, asked that the D. A. R. in every State collect and send in pieces of useless gold, such as old jewelry, chains and rings, to make beautiful clasps for the Memory Book, which will record the names of all donors to Constitution Hall.

A profit on the official organ of the society, the Daughters of the American Revolution Magazine, was reported by Mrs. Jean J. Labat, national chairman on the magazine. Its editor, Miss Natalie Sumner Lincoln, spoke on its historical value, stating that it was used as an authority in many libraries.

Except for the nominating speeches the evening session was given over to the inspiring recital of the progress of the D. A. R. in the several States of the Union. It was a roll call of devoted service to home and country. Everywhere the tale was the same, how the chapters and State organizations were keeping their ranks together to battle with depression, depleted funds and difficult economic conditions at their very doors. Constantly the promise was reiterated that these women of the D. A. R., despite the parlous times, would advance in advocacy of national defense, patriotic education and the general security of this country.

At the morning and afternoon sessions the same keynotes of patriotic education and national defense had been sounded in the reports of the chairmen of national committees.

The splendid work of the D. A. R. in assisting schools for mountain whites made up a thrilling portion of the afternoon session when Mrs. William H. Pouch, chairman, told what was being done to assist hundreds of children in this way. Among the approved schools being assisted are the American Indian Institute, Wichita, Kans.; American International College, Springfield, Mass.; Berea College, Berea, Ky.; Berry Schools, Mount Berry, Ga.; Blue Ridge Industrial School, Bristol, Va.; Carr Creek Community Center, Carr Creek, Ky.; Crossmore School, Crossmore, N. C.; Hillside School, Marlboro, Mass.; Hindman Settlement School, Hindman, Ky.; Kate Duncan Smith D. A. R. School, Grant, Ala.; Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tenn.; Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn.; Montverde School, Montverde, Fla.; Northland College, Ashland, Wis.; Pine Mountain Settlement School, Pine Mount, Ky.; Schauffler School, Cleveland, Ohio, and Tamassee D. A. R. School, Tamassee, S. C.

Most of the afternoon was given over to the reports of the committee and those in charge of the approved schools sponsored or aided by the D. A. R. A feature of this session was the presence of many of the representative students from the schools, who made short addresses, played musical instruments or sang.

John Ellis Franklin, a student of the Carr Creek (Ky.) Community Center, a handsome lad of about 16, and a descendant of a Revolutionary soldier who fought at King's Mountain, said that his people, the Kentucky mountaineers, were God-fearing people, proud of the history and traditions of their country. He said the early settlers, among whom was his Revolutionary ancestor, came to Carr Creek, built a church, which still is used and in which the ancient rite of foot washing is in vogue.

Oxford, Ohio, Memorial.

Dr. Clapp, of the Schauffer School of Cleveland, Ohio, thanked the D. A. R. for the contribution of $21,000 in eleven years for its Americanization work.

Other schools represented by directors and students were Berea College, Pine Mountain Settlement School and Hindman Settlement School.

In her report on preservation of historic spots, Miss Lucille Foster paid tribute to the work along this line that has been carried on by the Ohio Valley States.

In the absence of Mrs. Walter L. Tobey, of Hamilton, Ohio, the report of the Memorial Caroline Scott Harrison Liaison Committee was read by Mrs. Herbert Backus, of Columbus. The memorial is in honor of the wife of President Benjamin Harrison, who was the first president general of the D. A. R. This committee is composed of Mrs. Tobey, Mrs. James Lathrop Gavin, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Edward Lansing Harris, Mrs. Robert A. Hicks, Mrs. F. Ellis Hunter, Mrs. John G. Lippleman, Miss Jennie Richey and Mrs. Martin H. Schmid.

Mrs. Tobey's report related the fact that Mrs. Harrison was born in Oxford, Ohio, seat of Miami University, of which the memorial is the woman's dormitory. Her father, Dr. John Witherspoon Scott, was a member of the faculty of Miami University.

Last night State songs and banners were in evidence when the reports of the State regents were read.

Mrs. Grove Honored.

One of the best State reports heard was that of the District of Columbia, which was read by the State regent, Mrs. Harry Colfax Grove. Mrs. Grove was presented with a handsome floral tribute by the State delegation, which greeted her with an ovation when she appeared on the platform to read the report. High points in the report were as follows:

The Americanism committee in cooperation with the Americanization School has furnished milk and soup daily for the feeding of 25 undernourished children attending the school besides promoting patriotic education among foreign-born adults and children.

The approved school committee furnished $3,029.16 last year for that work in patriotic education.

The local D. A. R. last year planted two trees in Potomac Park, a white ash, dedicated in honor of Miss Helen Harman, retiring State regent, and the other a sugar maple, in honor of Mrs. Harry C. Grove, the present State regent.

Two hundred and seventy-eight members of the society in the District subscribe to the D. A. R. Magazine, and a number of gifts have been made to the District of Columbia room in Continental Hall.

There is a Girl Homemakers Club of nearly 100 little girls under the auspices of the local D. A. R. with an average attendance of 60 at the meetings each week.

Nine hundred and thirty-five copies of the Manual for Immigrants were distributed by the State organization among the foreign-born last year. Five hundred and fifty flag codes have been given to schools by the correct use of the flag committee of District D. A. R., and they have distributed many flags among the schools of the city.

Mrs. Henry Zoller, jr., State regent of Maryland, brought an interesting report of the activities among the D. A. R. of her State.

Splendid progress was noted also in the report of Mrs. Charles Blackwell Keesee, State regent from Virginia.

Kiwanis Stag Night Program.

The Kiwanis Club of Washington will have a stag night program tonight at the Indian Spring Golf Club, instead of the usual weekly luncheon program at the Raleigh Hotel. Dewey Zirkin, president of the club; Mark Lansburgh and Joseph R. Harris are in charge of the program.

Downward Movement Of Dollar Accelerated

(Associated Press.)

Restoration by President Roosevelt of the embargo on gold exports from the United States Wednesday accelerated the downward movement of the dollar abroad.

In London the dollar dropped from Tuesday's close of $3.47¼ to the pound to $3.55 before news of the Government's action reached England. Afterward, there was a fall from $3.63 to $3.64.

An official close in Paris of 24.60 francs was the lowest since November, 1925. In later unofficial trading the dollar declined to 24.30 francs.

Rome banks offered 18.80 lire to the dollar at the close of business, against a close of 19.32 Tuesday. The official exchange close was 18.51.

MONETARY CHANGE SURPRISES FRENCH

Herriot Aid Says Gold Ban May Make Economic Parley Useless.

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

Aboard S. S. Ile de France, En Route to New York, April 19.—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, chief delegates in the French mission to Washington, and his aids were surprised today at reports of drastic monetary changes in the United States on the eve of the economic conversations at the White House.

Charles Rist, under-governor of the Bank of France, and one of Herriot's closest advisers, said he could not understand the resumption of inflation-of-the-dollar talk at this vital juncture. Rist insisted that inflation would render any international economic conference useless.

The banker, known as Europe's "sick money doctor," told the United Press that any inflation of the American dollar would prove costly and useless. However, he praised the plan attributed to President Roosevelt for a Treasury bond issue to finance public works as "a classic godsend."

Sees European Injury.

"The United States has seen three costly greenback experiments," Rist commented. "We really can not understand what you could hope to get by inflation beyond merely a temporary reaction in prices of raw materials.

"Europe would certainly suffer from the dollar's inflation, particularly the Dutch and Swiss currencies.

"A definite statement by Mr. Roosevelt on this right now could clarify the atmosphere."

Dispatches from Washington reported the program for his Washington visit had been completed. It will be featured by a dinner attended by Herriot, Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald at the White House next Tuesday evening.

Herriot dines at the French Embassy Sunday and Thursday, and at the White House Monday and Tuesday. He has important conversations with Secretary of State Cordell Hull scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

France May Offer Billion.

S. S. Ile de France, en route to New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Informal speculation among the entourage of former Premier Edouard Herriot, en route to the economic conferences at Washington, today included a figure of between $800,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 as a possible lump sum payment that France might make in settlement of the American debt.

It was believed by persons in a good position to know that the plan for final settlement of the debt by one payment is now the favorite idea of the French government and of the special ambassador.

S. S. Berengaria, at Sea, April 19 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, en route to Washington for discussions with President Roosevelt, tomorrow will speak by telephone to Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to Washington, about arrangements for the conferences.

Estelle Taylor Says Motor Mishap Cost Her Career

Dempsey's Former Wife Shows Head Scar Suffered While Riding With Theater Agent; She Wants $150,000 Damages.

Los Angeles, April 19 (A.P.).—Estelle Taylor, movie actress and former wife of Jack Dempsey, described on the witness stand today the Christmas Eve, 1931, automobile accident in connection with which she is suing her escort, Frank Joyce, theatrical agent, and his chauffeur, Noel Scott, for $150,000 damages.

She illustrated her story with expressive gestures. At one point she took off her hat and walked before the jury box with bowed head to show a 4-inch scar on her scalp.

She said she and Joyce had attended a dance at a hotel. In answer to a question she said she had not drunk any liquor and did not see Joyce take any.

"We left the hotel about 2 a. m. and were driving along talking about a picture I was to make when suddenly we crashed into something," she related.

"I went through the air and hit my head terrifically—I think on the top of the car, and then I became dizzy."

By request of counsel she then showed the jury her head scar. Her actress friend, Sue Carroll, helped her part her hair at the right place.

Back on the stand, Miss Taylor said: "The treatment that followed over several months was terribly painful. They took me to Evelyn Brent's house first and there I lay with an iron halter around my chin that pulled my head toward the ceiling, and which was held in place by a lot of weights."

Miss Taylor said she had not been able to ride horseback since the accident and that this has lost her screen contracts.

"What was the salary you were paid for 'Cimaron'?" she was asked.

"Two thousand dollars a week for ten weeks," she said, "and I averaged about $2,500 a week for about three years before that. But since my accident I have been able to work only very little."

Among the spectators at the trial were Tom Mix and Pauline Starke, of the movies.

U. S. LEAVES GOLD STANDARD, FIRST MOVE FOR INFLATION

The projected silver-and-gold standard would require every nation to exchange the two metals indiscriminately on the basis of the arbitrary ratio fixed by the international conference.

Although the Federal Reserve system has no authority in the decision for or against inflation, the presence of the twelve governors of the Federal Reserve Banks in Washington yesterday was of the utmost significance. Upon these twelve regional banks, primarily, rests the responsibility for shaping the banking policy of the United States. Members of this conference, which will continue through today, indicated last night no decision had been reached on what part, if any, the national banking system would take in the inflationary program.

Another proposal to which the President has given some thought, it was said officially at the White House, is that the gold reserves behind the dollar should be reduced, thus to permit a considerable expansion of the currency on the existing gold dollar basis.

Vital Message Forecast.

This step would require legislation, for the present reserve ratios are fixed by law, as is the existing weight and fineness of the gold dollar.

Pursuant to the plan to move forward as swiftly as possible in the inflation program, according to party leaders on Capitol Hill, the President will send a special message to Congress at an early date recommending a grant of extraordinary administrative powers to deal with the monetary situation. In some quarters last night it was intimated such a message might be forwarded today.

The Federal Reserve governors were astonished by the White House announcement yesterday morning. They had been summoned to Washington to present surveys of the general business and banking situation in their respective districts. A general note of returning confidence and reviving business was dominant in these informal conference exchanges, which took place in the Federal Reserve Board rooms in the Treasury Building. Many of the Federal Reserve governors had assembled under the strong impression that some step forward relinquishing the stringent gold embargo might be proposed. Last night some members of this conference expressed the view that banking credit probably would be sharply restricted until such time as the new monetary policy of the administration is presented in precise form.

Football Strategy.

No real interpretation of yesterday's action can be attempted, it was explained officially, until the next step in the program is announced. As President Roosevelt sees it, the problem is like that on the football field. The general objective of the game is well known. In this case, it is a pronounced advance in commodity prices. The absolute abandonment of the international gold standard represents one shift in the game. But the next formation can not be decided in detail until the results of the first plunge are clearly determinable. Then, when the field is clear again, the next formation may be signaled. Thus far, the whole program is entirely experimental, and the future course must be worked out from day to day.

Whatever the next step may be, yesterday's action checked the vociferous demand on Capitol Hill for immediate inflation by printing new money. President Roosevelt has taken a determined stand against what has been called "printing press" inflation. He insists, on the other hand, upon controlled inflation for both currency and credit.

Secretary Woodin now is in complete accord with this view. He is open minded on inflation, but feels strongly that whatever method is finally decided upon, must be controlled to prevent the indefinite skyrocketing of prices. But the inflation should be strong enough and sufficiently direct to start buying generally.

President Roosevelt has not decided what formula shall prevail in the matter of controlling the proposed inflation. He thinks that the 1929 price level was too high on many commodities. But he seeks a positive and well-managed control of prices by the manipulation of credit and currency.

It is widely anticipated that before such a policy is definitely announced, however, the price level which it is desired to attain will be fixed.

GREATER BARGAINING POWERS FOR U. S. SEEN IN INFLATION

between the President and Mr. MacDonald. As the dollar declined on the foreign bourses, the pound went up, although the Bank of England made strenuous efforts to retain sterling at its previous rate.

In between the shifting dollar and the mounting pound, the French franc was at a disadvantage in being practically pegged on a gold standard basis and therefore deprived of the commercial advantage which accrued to British exporters using the depreciated pound sterling, as well as the American exporters who promptly began reaping the benefits of the cheap dollar.

Disarmament Problems.

British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay terminated his preliminary talks with the Secretary of State yesterday and put the finishing touches to the informal agenda that has been drafted by him and Secretary Hull in anticipation of the White House meetings of their respective chiefs.

A substantial amount of agreement has been reached even at this time on the chief points involved in the world conference agenda. However, there are a number of subsidiary points which are outside of the scope of the London meeting but are nevertheless of great interest to the two statesmen. One of these factors is the disarmament problem. It was learned yesterday that while the President has been chiefly concerned with the economic and financial aspects of the White House talks, he will also review the disarmament situation on the basis of Mr. MacDonald's disarmament plan presented to the conference last March 16. The MacDonald disarmament plan is in reality a composite picture of the disarmament projects embodied heretofore.

The British prime minister has even included some points of the Hoover arms reduction proposal. It is on the basis of the MacDonald disarmament plan that the White House talks will gravitate to this subject.

Powerful Instrument.

However, the President suddenly came into possession of a powerful instrument, which, together with the tariff bill now in process of preparation, will enable him to go into the White House conversations with the most potential bargaining points.

The release of support for the American dollar indicated to the European nations that the United States intends to compete with them in the international market where depreciated currency, British, Japanese, Italian, has heretofore taken the trade markets away from dollar exports.

FIRST LADY SPEAKS ON JOBLESS CURES

Report of Man With Package Brings Police Guard to Mrs. Roosevelt.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt concluded a lengthy address on government and community relief work today by declaring she hoped "that some of the things which are being undertaken as emergency measures we will soon be able to do away with, because we have achieved a real betterment of conditions to all our people."

The President's wife discussed in considerable detail her ideas of what the Federal Government should do to aid the unemployed, as she addressed 3,000 women at a luncheon given by the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies.

Several thousand women were turned away for lack of space.

"Programs for any kind of work which the Government can legitimately start, which can be self-supporting in the future, will, of course, be started, not only by the National Government but by whatever States can afford to do so," Mrs. Roosevelt told her audience.

Mrs. Belmont Speaks.

Mrs. August Belmont, who is soon to complete her work as chairman of the women's division of the Gibson relief committee, gave what she called her valedictory address and prefaced it by saying she intended to speak frankly.

"I believe there should be a change, and a drastic change, in handling emergency relief. Dictators are coming into fashion and I have wondered what I would do if I were dictator of relief in New York."

A rumor that a mysterious man with a package he wished to present her had been seen loitering about the hotel where the luncheon was held and that his presence had called out ten police cars and twenty uniformed police did not reach Mrs. Roosevelt until she was leaving the Travelers' Aid meeting.

Mrs. Roosevelt Guarded.

Half a dozen detectives had appeared at the luncheon, but she and the other guests thought they had come to get her through the crowd. A couple of them, with representatives of the hotel, escorted her through the crowd as she left, and she went to a nearby tea room, had an orangeade, and strolled down Park avenue to the Flagler home.

"I don't believe it," was her comment when she heard about the "man with the package."

Mrs. Roosevelt left for Washington by rail at 6:40 p. m. and was unnoticed as she hurried through the Pennsylvania Station to her train.

Bride Vetoes Hucksters' Plan of Selling 3.2 Beer

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday advised the District Commissioners that the sale of beer by hucksters in Washington would not be in conformance with the District beer act.

Application for a temporary permit to sell beer in this fashion was turned over to the corporation counsel for a ruling.

FLOOD IS SPREADING OVER COTTON FIELDS

New England Towns Also Menaced as Death Toll Mounts to Five.

(Associated Press.)

Cotton fields in Dixie and textile towns of New England were menaced by the floodwaters of swollen streams last night.

Thousands of acres of rich Mississippi cotton lands along the Tallahatchie River lay under water, the lake of mud widening hourly as backwaters surged through a gap dynamited in the levee.

Two companies of National Guardsmen patrolled the broken dyke near Glendora, Miss., to prevent further blasting that would menace the farmers at the head of Black Bayou. The guardsmen had arrived last night just as a group of dynmiters with spades and explosives were preparing to set off another charge near the crevasse.

A 30-foot break in the levee, blasted open by a mob of 300 Tuesday, widened slightly and the levee guards made no efforts to close it, fighting only to prevent further crumbling. The civilian guards kept busy bolstering the dyke while the State militiamen drove out the dynamiting gang and sought to quiet the feud between farmers of opposite banks of the Tallahatchie.

The peak of the New England floods moved from Vermont into Massachusetts and New Hampshire, imperiling industrial centers.

Five lives have been lost in New England, George Ross, 54, being carried to death at South Royalston, Mass., Wednesday, while working at a dam near a factory of which he was superintendent.

Rain continued to fill the brimming banks of the Connecticut River Valley in western Massachusetts and the Merrimack Valley near Lawrence and Lowell, and only the mill dams held back disaster from many lowland communities. The highest waters in 20 years were reported by some power company officials.

Railroads and highways were under water in Vermont, and in Massachusetts city and State police kept vigil along the principal rivers to warn the populace of any sudden danger.

SHOALS POWER BILL IS READY FOR HOUSE

(Associated Press.)

Legislation designed to fulfill President Roosevelt's program for developing the Tennessee Valley emerged last night from the House Military Committe, but only after its scope was narrowed by many pencilled amendments.

Government power distribution and fertilizer production—the most hotly contested provisions—remained in the bill of Representative Hill (Democrat), Alabama, which the committee approved on a 15 to 6 ballot.

The vote was strictly partisan, with all Republicans present voting against the Democratic plan for disposing of Muscle Shoals. They cast their votes in the negative even after many restrictions had been added to the bill introduced when Mr. Roosevelt messaged Congress more than a week ago.

Chairman McSwain said he would report to the House today the bill written by the committee in three days of hard work behind locked doors. Also, he will ask the Rules Committee to prohibit all amendments when the measure reaches the floor.

Many Changes Included.

Democratic leaders plan to begin consideration of the measure in the House Saturday.

Just as the President requested, the approved bill would create a Tennessee Valley authority. This Government corporation would operate the Muscle Shoals properties and build the Cove Creek Dam on the Clinch River, Tenn.

Important limitations, however, were written into the Hill bill. Chiefly, they were:

The corporation first must try to lease, purchase or condemn existing electric transmission lines before building its own as originally proposed.

It must try to lease the shoals nitrate plants and operate them only if leasing fails after an 18-month period.

Other Limitations.

Either the corporation or the lessee must produce 10,000 tons of nitrogenous plant food for the first three years.

Except for Cove Creek and Dam No. 3 at Muscle Shoals, other dams constructed by the corporation on the Tennessee River must first show "a reasonable market demand" for the power output that would amortize power's share of the dam's investment in 60 years. Or—

The corporation could proceed with dam construction after obtaining a lease to pay for it in 60 years on a self-liquidating basis.

The bill still authorizes the corporation to sell $50,000,000 worth of bonds and appropriates $10,000,000 out of the Treasury for starting the project. Of the appropriation, $4,000,000 is allotted to starting Cove Creek Dam, which past engineer reports have estimated would cost $34,000,000.

Grand Jury Indicts Three Insurance Men

The District grand jury yesterday indicted three former officials of the National Benefit Life Insurance Co. on perjury charges. The insurance company, once rated as the largest colored organization in the United States, is now in the hands of receivers.

Robert B. Rutherford, president and treasurer, and Samuel W. Rutherford, secretary, were charged with swearing to a false statement of the company's assets on March 14, 1931, and Mortimer F. Smith, assistant secretary, was charged with "aiding and abetting" the perjury.

Bees Seize Courthouse; Then Are Routed by Gas

Modesto, Calif., April 19 (A.P.). An army of bees captured the Stanislaus County Courthouse and all the trees in the vicinity. When the advance guard scouted the courtroom, the County Agricultural Commissioner counterattacked with tear gas, causing thousands of bee casualties.

During the gassing the wind shifted and Jack Irvine, the janitor, got a whiff of it, coughed himself off a ladder and sprained one foot.

REVISION OF LABOR CONTROL BILL SEEN

Industry and Union Leaders to Be Heard at House Hearings Monday.

(Associated Press.)

Revision of Secretary Perkins' unprecedented plan to reduce the hours of labor, establish minimum wages and permit Federal control of production was predicted last night by members of the House Labor Committee.

These members expected that in hearings beginning Monday big manufacturers and organized labor will demand the changes. They also believed that an amendment will be asked to prevent the importation of goods manufactured by workers on the job more than 30 hours a week.

"If we forbid interstate transportation of articles made in domestic plants where men work more than 6 hours a day or 30 hours a week, we must extend the same prohibition to imports," said Chairman Connery of the committee. "If we don't, foreign goods manufactured at less cost will flood the country and we will have 23,000,000 unemployed instead of 13,000,000."

Senate Backs President.

The ranking Republican on the committee—Welch, of California—agreed, remarking that after Secretary Perkins had told the committee last week that President Roosevelt opposed the ban against foreign imports the committee voted, 11 to 4, for it. The Senate, however, by a 41-to-39 vote decided to abide by the President's wishes before passing the bill now before the House committee.

These questions are to be taken up with representatives of the Labor Department, organized labor and industry. Among the witnesses who Chairman Connery said "will probably address the committee" were Henry Ford, Gerard Swope, of the General Electric Co.; Alfred P. Sloan, jr., of General Motors Corporation; Franklin W. Hobbs, of the Textile Foundation; Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and William Green, Matthew Woll, Michael McDonough and Charles Howard, representing the American Federation of Labor.

Prison for Violation.

It was likely, committee members asserted, industrialists would accept that section of the bill giving the Labor Secretary power to restrict the total number of hours a week any one plant could operate if the administration would agree to withdraw its objection to inclusion of the foreign products.

As the Perkins bill now stands, no mine, quarry, mill, cannery, workshop, factory or manufacturing establishment could transport its product in interstate commerce if its workers were on the job more than 30 hours a week. Violators could, upon second offenses, be fined as much as $1,000 and sent to prison for a year.

GREAT BRITAIN PUTS EMBARGO ON SOVIET

80 Per Cent of Imports to Be Barred Because of Sabotage Case.

London, April 19 (A.P.).—An 80 per cent embargo on Russian imports was proclaimed today through King George as a result of the trial in Moscow of six British electrical engineers.

Shortly thereafter, however, there were authoritative indications that the action might be revoked if prison sentences of two of the Britons would be commuted to banishment from Russia.

Soviet Ambassador Maisky, chairman of the Russian trade delegation, and his chief assistants conferred with Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, and the board of trade today in an effort to avoid a break because of the crisis.

The British labor ranks, aroused by the threatened rupture, summoned leaders of trades unions to a conference with the Labor Party and Laborite members of Parliament to consider the whole question of the embargo.

Petition Is Presented.

The defense counsel for L. C. Thornton today presented a petition to the Soviet central executive committee asking that the prison sentences of Thornton and William M. MacDonald, who were convicted in Moscow of sabotage, bribery and espionage, be commuted to life banishment from Russia.

Three other British engineers were ordered deported and the fourth was acquitted.

Great public interest was aroused by this latest phase of the crisis in Anglo-Russian relations.

If the embargo is carried out, 80 per cent of Soviet goods intended for importation into Great Britain would be banned, including all important commodities except furs.

Policy of Protection.

The government's drastic action was based on a policy of protection for British citizens in the Soviet Union, and so far it has been considered successful since the Metropolitan-Vickers employes received light sentences.

One of the most disappointed and disillusioned principals in the whole situation is Ambassador Sir Esmond Ovey, who, as a friend of the late Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, went to Russia in 1929 with the hope of fostering a policy of conciliation and friendship between Great Britain and Russia such as Mr. Morrow had achieved between the United States and Mexico.

The embargo, which would become effective April 26 unless countermanded, would bar at current figures imports totaling £9,600,000 (currently $33,600,000) annually. The measure was signed by King George at Windsor Castle and published in the London Gazette.

Among the Soviet importations it would ban are timber, oil, butter, certain grains, poultry, raw cotton and articles made from wood.

Gotwals to Recommend New Street Widenings

Several important repaving and street widening projects will be recommended to the District Commissioners for approval today by Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner.

Among the resurfacing items are Eighteenth street northwest, from K to M street; Ninth street southwest, C to D streets, and probably F street northwest from Ninth to Fourteenth streets. Ninth street southwest is to be widened 10 feet on the west side from Maryland to Virginia avenues, and C street southwest is to be widened 10 feet on the south side from Seventh to Ninth streets.

probably to Shanghai or Nanking, leaving custodians to protect valuable properties in the diplomatic quarter here.

The National University authorities here ordered the immediate packing of books, scrolls, rare manuscripts, scientific apparatus and archives preparatory to shipping them to Shanghai in the event of occupation.

Stringent martial law maintained order in Peiping.

The Japanese Charge d'Affaires, S. Nakayama, in response to a storm of protests and formal representations by the Chinese authorities regarding the bombings at Miyunhsien and elsewhere in China proper, replied:

"There will be no further Japanese aerial activities in the Peiping area."

The Japanese Legation confirmed that Manchoukuo, the puppet state, has established a bureau in the Japanese concession in Tientsin.

Railway communications officials in Peiping announced that Japanese troops attempted to cross the Luan River north of Luanchow, but were unable to say whether their push had been successful. The reports said the Japanese were heavily bombing Luanchow, and that the war-torn town was practically evacuated, 80 per cent of the populace having fled.

Japanese Arrest U. S. Sailors Using Camera

Tokyo (Thursday), April 20 (A.P.). A Rengo (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Mukden, Manchuria, today said that a Japanese detachment at Chinwangtao last Sunday picked up two American sailors who, they alleged, they found taking pictures of Japanese troops.

According to a Japanese military report, the sailors were released immediately, but the camera was retained. Japanese officers said the camera will be returned shortly and the affair settled without difficulty.

Expert Advises Senate Body How to Rehabilitate Nation

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—At the request of the Finance Committee of the United States Senate, Dr. Warren M. Persons, prominent economist, has submitted a "program for the rehabilitation of our economic system" which, among others, envisages a controlled dollar.

Dr. Persons, pointing out that "since the spring of 1931 industry and finance in the United States have been battered and tossed about by a financial hurricane of a violence never before experienced in the history of this country," makes the following suggestions to the committee:

"1. Continue the embargo on gold and the suspension of gold redemption in the United States;

"2. Remove the restrictions on foreign exchange insofar as they do not involve the export of gold. Discontinue the efforts to keep the gold dollar at par with other currencies;

"3. Announce that it is the intention of the United States Government to adopt measures which will restore the general price level to, say, 90 per cent of the level of 1926;

"4. Announce also that the gold content of the dollar will later be changed to maintain that level;

"5. Abandon a fixed weight of gold as the monetary unit and substitute therefor some form of the tabular standard, based not on one commodity, gold, but on the several hundred commodities that we produce and consume;

"6. Appoint a stabilization board for carrying out this objective:

"7. Announce that measures will be immediately adopted to secure the reemployment of idle men at their old jobs; and to this end—

"8. Adopt the plan suggested by Fred I. Kent for retoring confidence and initiating industrial and credit expansion.

"9. Tax the holders of bonds carrying the clause 'payable in gold dollars of the present weight and fineness,' who elect to demand payment in gold, an amount equal to, say, 105 per cent of gains resulting from such payment as compared with payment in currency. Distribute all except the 5 per cent of the proceeds of such tax among the payors of the bonds. Let the Government keep the rest for enforcement.

"10. Do not wait for the international economic conference before taking the steps above enumerated. Let the United States take immediate independent action."

As a preliminary to his plan, or the adoption of any other plan for stopping continued deflation, Dr. Persons is of the opinion that it may be necessary to "take definite action for preventing runs on banks." In this respect, he holds: "It may be necessary for the Government and the banks to guarantee, temporarily, the deposits of those banks which are allowed to open."

Summarizing for the committee, the economist says:

"The alternatives before us are: First, voluntary deflation; second, unplanned-for deflation and further unsettlement of confidence as a result of tinkering with various piecemeal measures designed to correct specific maladjustments; third, controlled credit and industrial expansion with the object of attaining a definite general price level, specified in advance, and the future stabilization of general prices at the specified level; and, fourth, uncontrolled fiat money inflation.'"

Dr. Persons advises the Senate committee that, in his opinion, the third of these alternatives should be adopted.

SENATE REGULARS WIN FARM VICTORY

Effort to Limit Items in Bill Gain as Peanuts Are Barred.

(Associated Press.)

In answer to the fighting call of Democratic leaders, party stalwarts in the Senate and a few Independent Republicans yesterday won, at least, a temporary victory in seeking to limit sharply the products to be dealt with in the Roosevelt farm relief bill, but the campaign delayed a final vote on the agricultural aid program until today.

The victory yesterday centered upon the peanut issue. It constituted the test on whether products to benefit from the measure should be confined to the seven approved by the Agriculture Committee, and by a vote of 43 to 39, after a day of much confusion and rising tempers, peanuts were eliminated from the bill.

Sugar cane and sugar beets, added in the morning by a 44-to-37 vote, were the next target of administration forces, who intended to remove them if possible. Their removal would leave in the bill wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, tobacco, rice and dairy products.

Peanuts were put into the bill Tuesday by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, without a record vote, but were removed yesterday through an unusual parliamentary maneuver by Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, after the Glass amendment had been reconsidered, 41 to 39.

Robinson moved to table Glass' amendment. An effort to limit debate had been blocked by objections from Long (Democrat), Louisiana, who wanted peanuts to stay in so that sugar cane and sugar beets, in which he was interested, could remain.

Norman Baxter Named R. F. C. Publicity Man

Norman W. Baxter, former managing editor of The Post, yesterday was named administrative assistant to the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He will have charge of general publicity in connection with the various activities of the corporation.

Mr. Baxter was connected with the Democratic national headquarters in Washington during the presidential campaign and was in charge of publicity for the inaugural committee. Prior to the Democratic convention he was in charge of publicity in the campaign of Gov. Ritchie of Maryland for the presidential nomination.

Cummings Confers With Dry Director

Dalrymple Called In as Step in Keeping Gangs Out of Beer Trade.

(Associated Press.)

Calling A. V. Dalrymple, the Prohibition Director, to his office for a conference of several hours' duration, Attorney General Cummings yesterday set out definitely on his investigation to determine whether racketeers and gangsters are meddling with the beer business.

The Attorney General has focused his attention directly upon the New Jersey situation, where a well-known gangster was revealed to have obtained a brewing permit and where five breweries have been cited to show why their licenses should not be revoked. But he plans to extend his independent inquiry into the issuing of beer permits generally, with the pledge that only "decent and responsible" persons shall be entrusted with licenses.

Dalrymple said as he left the Justice Department that he had been instructed to prepare lengthy memoranda both on the beer permit situation and his action in shifting of northern California prohibition administrators without the foreknowledge of the Attorney General.

Collier's Confirmation By Senate Is Expected

(Associated Press.)

John Collier, of California, for years active in Washington in behalf of America's Indians, last night seemed certain of early confirmation by the Senate as Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

His appointment was approved yesterday by the Senate Indian Committee by a unanimous vote after Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, who had objected to his appointment, withdrew his opposition.

Beer Seized

In Fairfax County While en Route to Carolina From Baltimore.

Joseph Councilman, 30, of Sanford, N. C., is in the Fairfax County, Va., jail and Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby has a truckload of real beer to guard pending the settlement of a question relative to the Virginia prohibition law and interstate shipment of the beverage.

Councilman was arrested yesterday by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams on the Washington-Richmond highway, near Accotink, when he failed to produce evidence that the truckload of beer was an interstate shipment. The load contained 45 cases and a keg of beer.

According to Councilman's story the beer had been purchased in Baltimore by a druggist of North Carolina. It was to have been taken to South Carolina for sale. After paying for the load the druggist left Baltimore ahead of the truck and continued to his home in North Carolina. He was notified of the seizure yesterday and is returning to satisfy the local authorities that it was a legal shipment.

Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr, of Fairfax, contends that all such shipments through Virginia must be accompanied by evidence of interstate transportation in order not to conflict with the Virginia statute.

Three Indicted for Indecent Show.

Because of their part in the staging of an indecent performance in a hall at Tenth and K streets northwest, Benjamin N. Livingston, Ralph Rimes and Julius Rosenfeldt, all were indicted by the District grand jury yesterday on charge of violating the Mann act.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

THEY call this Be Kind to Animals Week, a week set apart in which to remember to be kind to animals. What a commentary on so-called humans!

A story taken from British war records which appeared in one of our national magazines soon after the great war had to do with a yellow dog, a nondescript little animal that had been trained to assist in locating wounded soldiers who were unable to attract the attention of stretcher bearers. After a particularly bad time doctors and orderlies were hurriedly gathering up suffering men, the orders being not to stop for the bodies of those from whom life had gone.

As they proceeded a small dog hobbled toward them (one of his own little legs had been severely injured) and succeeded in drawing attention to the body of a man lying on the edge of a shell hole. One of the surgeons made a cursory examination, shook his head and passed on his way, leaving the dog whimpering over the body of his silent charge. A few minutes later the surgeon looked back and noticed that the little animal was diligently licking the soldier's face.

Realizing that the faithful creature might have sensed a flicker of life in the seemingly inanimate body which his own hasty examination had overlooked, the doctor went to work with restoratives, and a life was saved. So much for a "yellow dog."

Stories abound of horses that have been faithful to masters even unto death.

A pity it is that we humans do not oftener pause on our way to watch a robin hurry across a grass plot and listen to the song that pours from his happy heart. If we better knew our neighbors of the animal world, do you think we would need to be reminded to be kind to them?

I wish to contradict some of the figures given in your column on Government-building cafterias, including the Eighteenth and D streets cafeteria. I have been eating at this cafeteria for 18 years and know that the prices are the same on most dishes as during the war.

The only vegetable served in this cafeteria for 5 cents is potatoes, others are 8, 10 and 12. Salads are 15 cents, as during war times. Ususally one 15-cent meat is served during a meal, while all others are 20 and up. These prices have also prevailed during the period I have been eating there.

I recently planned to take all my breakfasts there, but found that all fruit juices were 10 cents, and two slices of bacon were 10 cents, as compared with 5 cents for the same in another cafeteria not in a Government building, so naturally I eat at the other cafeteria.

I am not complaining of the prices because this cafeteria is operated in a Government building, but because higher prices are charged than in many outside cafeterias, where expenses are more for the operators, I continually hear the same complaint from other workers, who are forced to eat there because of lack of time to go elsewhere. Ballard N. Morris.

"I propose to be active ten years or more yet," said Mr. Morris yesterday, as he inspected his office in the District National Bank Building, where he will resume law practice.

But then Mr. Morris became active at an early age. At 12 he was in Government service. He took bar entrance examination at 18, and on his nineteenth birthday anniversary he was appointed to third assistant examiner. Every promotion he got was by competitive examination. He was graduated from Columbian College, now George Washington, in 1886. He is a member of all courts in the District of Columbia.

"Harrowing," responded John Temporary

"Suppose," retorted Joe, "the Big boys are preparing for a new crop?"

"You've said a mouthful," replied John.

OPERATION TO SAVE GIRL'S LIFE LOOMS

Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., April 19 (A.P.).—Two-year-old Helen Vasco, who is doomed to an early death in the opinion of physicians unless a malignant tumor is removed from her left eye, probably will be taken to a hospital next week for the operation.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court ruled yesterday the Westchester Children's Court was within its power in ordering the operation, despite parental objections, and today the child's legal guardian accepted that decision as final.

After debating for 24 hours whether to carry the case on to the Court of Appeals, Frank Fay, who was appointed by the Children's Court to act for the child, announced he had decided against such a course.

Meanwhile, recovering in a hospital from an operation himself, Judge George Smyth, who made the original decision in Children's Court, prepared to set a date for the operation on Helen.

Fay and police were busy during the day trying to locate the frequently disappearing Vasco family.

The legal guardian sought to bring Judge Smyth and the adamant Mrs. Vasco together for a discussion of the case.

Although the girl's father, an itinerant laborer, has wavered back and forth—first siding with his wife and then agreeing that the operation should be performed—Mrs. Vasco has been loud in her refusal to sanction the surgery.

The NEW Gas REFRIGERATOR is AIR-COOLED

Quick Facts ABOUT THE NEW AIR-COOLED ELECTROLUX

1. Costs less to operate
2. Permanently silent
3. Temperature regulator for quick freezing
4. Non-stop defrosting
5. Trigger release trays
6. Split shelves.
7. Uses no water.
8. No moving parts
9. Two-temperature chilling outfit
10. Constant, steady cold

These are only a few of the convenience features of Electrolux. There are a host of others.

You owe it to yourself not to buy before seeing the new Electrolux. Or at least before considering carefully the points contained in the complete descriptive folder which will be sent to you on request. Telephone, or come in—today.

No noise! No machinery! Electrolux, the gas refrigerator, operates with only a tiny gas flame, and a liquid refrigerant that produces perfect cold. It is the simplest refrigerator made. And because the new Electrolux is air-cooled, it costs less to operate than any other automatic refrigerator.

Air cooling now takes the place of water, formerly used as the cooling agent. We urge you to see this amazing refrigerator, to compare it point by point with other refrigerators. You'll find that it has for quick freezing. This control permits regulation for rapid freezing of ice cubes and frozen desserts.

Non-Stop Defrosting

By turning the regulator to the word defrost, the temperature will rise just enough to melt the frost on the chilling unit—but refrigeration continues, and food is preserved during the process.

Plenty of Ice Cubes

At any hour of the day or night, there is always plenty of pure, sparkling ice cubes.

Trigger Tray Release

VIRGINIA NARCISSUS EXPOSITION BEGINS

Miss Martha Harris Gains 78 Points Toward Cup at Alexandria.

Miss Martha Harris, of Stoke Aldie, Va., won 78 points yesterday toward the coveted sweepstakes cup of the Garden Club of Virginia, presented by Mrs. Leslie Gray, and to be the permanent possession of the winner three times in succession. Miss Harris was the winner in 1932, and this year's award is waiting on the result of the Lynchburg show. Miss Mary Beirne, of Ashland, was the winner in 1931.

The annual narcissus show of the State organization opened yesterday afternoon in Gadsby's Tavern, Alexandria, this historic old building being transformed into a bower of wonderful blooms, and visitors were present from throughout the United States. Throngs of the members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in annual session in Washington, were in attendance as guests of local and State members of the Garden Club.

Mrs. Floyd Harris, of Aldie, chairman, Narcissus Test Committee of Virginia, was assisted by Mrs. Gardner Lloyd Boothe and Mrs. Richard Hammett as cochairman, with a number of subchairman from the Alexandria club. Mrs. Francis Carter, president of the local club, was official hostess.

In class one, exhibit of trial collections of narcissus, the two prizes, silver cups for the 1931 collection and for the 1932 collection, both went to the Garden Clubs of Fauquier and Loudoun Counties, exhibiting together.

In the flower arrangements exhibits the following awards were made:

Small arrangements—Mrs. Thomas B. Cochran, Alexandria, first; Mrs. Sinder, second; Mrs. W. M. Irvine, president of the Garden Club of Chevy Chase, D. C., third, and Mrs. Willoughby Reade, Seminary, honorable mention.

Large arrangement — Mrs. Nathaniel Burrus, Hot Springs, Va., first; Baroness Rosenkrantz, Hot Springs, second (both are members of the Warm Springs Valley Garden Club); Mrs. Walter DuBois Brookings, Alexandria, third; Miss Elizabeth Snowden, Alexandria, honorable mention.

Arrangement of white flowers—Mrs. Gardner Lloyd Boothe 2d, of Alexandria, first; Mrs. Willoughby Reade, Seminary, second; Mrs. Richard Hammett, Alexandria, third.

Black containers—Mrs. Joseph G. Walker, Woodberry Forest, Va., first; Mrs. Thomas B. Cochran, Alexandria, second; Mrs. Louis S. Scott, Alexandria, third, and Mrs. Willoughby Reade, honorable mention.

In the Alexandria club winners were Mrs. Malcolm Matheson, two blue ribbons, the first prize; two red ribbons and two yellow ribbons. Mrs. Richard Hammett, two blue, one red and three yellow. Mrs. Louis S. Scott, one blue, three red and four yellow. Mrs. D. Mauchlin Niven, one red and one yellow. Mrs. Thomas B. Cochran, two blue, one red. Mrs. Gardner Lloyd Boothe 2d, one blue.

Owing to the large number of exhibits and the interest displayed, the exhibit will continue open today from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Cadet Corps and Auxiliary Raising Fund for Trip to Apple Festival.

The cadet corps and girls' auxiliary at Washington-Lee High School will stage their annual frolic at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the school auditorium. Maj. Robert C. Rollings will be master of ceremonies.

A feature will be a play, "Thank You, Doctor," with John Green, Phyllis Moore, Roger Ford, Katherine Fitts and Robert Coe taking leading parts. The program will include dances by Warren Dodd, Dote Moreland, Robert Selby and Delly Johnson; tap dances by Dote Moreland, Delly Johnson, Eloise Sunderman and Kitty Reid; solos by Howard Graninger and Hamilton Fauntleroy. Music will be furnished by the school orchestra.

The proceeds will be applied to the expenses to the Apple Blossom Festival at Winchester of the cadet corps and girls' auxiliary.

First Still Seized By Fairfax Police

Lynchburg Man Accused of Having Huge Whisky-Making Outfit.

For the first time since the advent of prohibition in one of the "driest" of "dry States," the police of Fairfax County, Va., yesterday seized a large still while it was in transit. J. W. Russell, 22, of Lynchburg, Va., is in the Fairfax Jail charged with the possession of a still in violation of the Virginia prohibition law.

The still and complete equipment, with a steam boiler, was seized on the Washington-Richmond highway near Accotink by Capt. Heywood J. Durrer and Carl McIntosh, of the county police, on a large truck. The still was rated by police as having a 700-gallon daily capacity.

According to the story told police by Russell the complete outfit had been purchased in Maryland and he was en route to a point near Lynchburg, where the still was to have been assembled and placed in operation to take care of the local demand for "hard liquor."

Hams Saved

Firemen Rescue Big Stock at $7,000 Blaze in Fairfax.

The volunteer firemen of Fairfax, Va., saved the hams and bacon early yesterday morning when fire destroyed the home and outbuildings of J. W. Crisman living near Burke Station.

Crisman was awakened before dawn by smoke to find his room in flames. He hurriedly awakened the other members of his family barely in time to rush from the structure before it caved in. Running to the house of a neighbor a quarter of a mile away he summoned the Fairfax department. The flames had made such headway before the firemen could arrive very little could be done.

The firemen arrived in time to carry about 300 pounds of hams and bacon from the burning meat house before it caved in and to save a small chicken house. The other buildings were demolished. Loss was estimated to be about $7,000. The firemen said yesterday they could certify the meat was well smoked and cured.

LEGAL BEER SELLING TODAY OVER COUNTY

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Beer today will pass legally over the counters of Montgomery County's stores and restaurants for the first time in some 50 years. The drought will end at 9 a. m. when Clerk of the Circuit Court Clayton K. Watkins begins distribution of 36 permits to purvey beer under the provisions of the State-wide beer act passed by the last session of the Maryland Legislature.

The first permits to be issued are those of Albert Buehler, Silver Spring merchant, who will receive permit No. 1 for off sales, and to Frank Abbo, proprietor of Villa Roma, on Rockville pike, who will receive No. 1 permit for on sale.

The 36 have complied with the county law which requires that applications for permits must be published in a county paper for six days prior to issuance. Unless there are objections filed by neighbors, the permit is issued on the seventh day. Objections having been filed, the applications of 17 merchants have been referred to the license board in Baltimore for a hearing.

County merchants and restaurant keepers have felt keenly their inability to sell beer. They have been forced to sit idly by and watch their customers drive over the District line to slake their thirst, as well as purchase food.

Watkins and his two deputy clerks, Miss Margaret Scherrer and James Cummings, jr., worked several hours after closing time last night in order that the eagery awaited permits will be ready at 9 a. m. today. They could not prepare them until after 4:30 p. m., when the deadline for objection filing was passed, and were unwilling to make the sorely besieged merchants wait any longer than was necessary today.

Among the seventeen licenses which were objected to were two country clubs, the Congressional Country Club and the Columbia Country Club.

SEIZED ASTROLOGIST SEEKS POISON DEATH

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 19.—William Franklin, 63, alias "Prof. Ernest Langaner," alleged astrologist who is reported to have operated for 20 years in this section of Virginia and adjacent West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, took a large dose of poison this afternoon while passing through Winchester in the custody of two Washington detectives who were taking him to Waynesboro, Va., to stand trial on a warrant charging he received money there under false pretenses. His condition tonight was reported grave.

Arrested late yesterday in Williamsport, Md., by Private Detectives W. E. Maloney and Charles Barrie, of Washington, with a Maryland officer, Franklin waived extradition and this morning the two officers started with him for Waynesboro. A few miles south of Winchester, Franklin collapsed. The prisoner was rushed to the office of Dr. Speigle at Strasburg, who said Franklin had taken poison and urged his removal to a hospital here. At the hospital Franklin fought the efforts of nurses to pump the contents from his stomach.

While detectives waited outside the hospital room, Franklin crawled from his bed late this afternoon, got part of his clothes and was looking for a means of escape when a nurse walked in. He was put back in bed and all clothing taken from him.

Franklin, who also is said to have practiced astrology under the name of Ernest Rainer, is reported to be a native of New York. At one time he is said to have practiced his trade in Washington, D. C.

TAKOMA PARK BEER LIKELY VOTE ISSUE

Wet-Dry Fight Seemingly Is Headed to Maryland Court for Ruling.

Beer looms as one of the chief issues of the town elections in Takoma Park, Md. Candidates for the three two-year terms and the one-year term as members of the town council will find this question confronting them when they begin campaigning.

Three town establishments have applied for licenses to purvey beer. Each of the proprietors has been served with a notice that he must comply with the new ordinance adopted Monday night by the council and obtain a town license. Although the notices did not state the amount, such licenses will cost $1,000, the town council decided Monday after receiving a petition from residents.

In addition, objections have been filed to each of the three applications by residents of the town, one on the allegation that it was too near a church, and the three proprietors will have to wait until the license board in Baltimore can hold a hearing and act upon their application before they obtain a permit, if then.

Whether or not any of the three will be hardy enough to brave the overwhelming dry sentiment of the town, headquarters for Seventh Day Adventist denomination, one of the most militant dry churches, and carry through his application to completion, pay $1,000 for a town permit and face the almost certain prospect of having the town go dry in the next election remains to be seen.

The legality of the town's imposition of a license fee is a moot question, however, and it is possible that the merchants will refuse to obtain licenses and then carry the case to court for a ruling. Even the town corporation counsel, E. Barrett Prettyman, is dubious on the question. He informed the town council that the provisions of the State-wide beer bill apparently override all local option laws and the right of communities to prohibit sale of beer.

The town council, however, has not prohibited the sale of beer, but has merely exercised a right which apparently is bestowed in the town's charter, that of licensing for revenue.

A special meeting of the town council is to be held within a few days, according to Dr. Frederick L. Lewton, mayor, to appoint a successor to Irvine H. Ware, who resigned the council Monday. The successor will serve until June 1, when a duly elected successor will take office to serve out the remaining year of Mr. Ware's term.

Separate lists of candidates will be made at the town caucus Monday night and the Ware candidate will be kept separate on the ballots from the candidates for the three posts which will be open.

ALIEN PROPERTY JOB TO GO TO WOODSON

(Associated Press.)

Urey Woodson, of Owensboro, Ky., is definitely slated to be the new alien property custodian.

Mr. Woodson long has been a member of the Democratic national committee and is a former newspaper publisher. He is closely identified with the Roosevelt administration and was a caller yesterday at the White House. He declined to comment on his prospective appointment.

Alexander W. Weddell, Richmond, Va., is reported in reliable quarters to be President Roosevelt's choice for the post of Ambassador to the Argentine, to succeed Robert Woods Bliss.

Weddell was a Foreign Service career officer for nineteen years and retired in 1928. He served as consul general in Mexico City, Calcutta and Athens and represented the United States in many important international conventions. He is 57 and a native of Richmond. He was educated at George Washington University, Washington, D. C. Early in his Foreign Service career he was stationed at Copenhagen and Zanzibar.

Weddell is wealthy and built Virginia House in Richmond from the material of the Old Priory at Warwick, England. He presented this notable house to the Virginia Historical Society.

Rumors persist that Ira Nelson Morris, of Chicago, former Minister to Sweden, will be given the ambassadorial post at Istanbul, Turkey, recently vacated by Charles E. Sherrill, of New York City. Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, is reported in responsible circles to be booked for the ambassadorship at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, which now is held by Edwin V. Morgan.

MOVE TO IMPEACH DRY JUDGE KILLED

West Virginia House Rejects Resolution Aimed at Trial of McClintic.

Charleston, W. Va., April 19 (A.P.). A resolution to memorialize Congress for the impeachment of Federal Judge George W. McClintic apparently was killed today by the House of Delegates which voted 58 to 21 to postpone consideration indefinitely. The resolution was introduced by Delegate Beacom (Democrat), Cabell, father of the State beer act.

Citing Judge McClintic's charge to a Federal grand jury yesterday upon the State beer act, the resolution recommended to Congress that he "be forthwith impeached for high high-handed and notorious misconduct in office."

The resolution said the judge "publicly threatened with prosecution" any person bringing beer into the State. In his charge to the grand jury Judge McClintic said the State beer act was unconstitutional and directed the grand jury to investigate shipments of beer into the State under a provision of the Federal beer act giving protection to dry States.

(Associated Press.)

Commenting on the resolution in the West Virginia House of Delegates calling for the impeachment of Federal Judge George W. McClintic, Senator Hatfield (Republican), West Virginia, last night declared "they might as well try to scare a lion in the jungle."

"As a member of the Senate, I would have to sit as a juror should this proceeding be carried through," Senator Hatfield said. "For that reason I do not wish to say anything which would disqualify me.

"I might have a high regard for Judge McClintic's ability as a lawyer, however, and, knowing him well, I can say that if this is a move to scare him off they might as well try to scare a lion in the jungle.

OFF THE GOLD STANDARD.

The United States has slipped off the gold standard with a simple announcement from the White House that no more gold will be allowed to move abroad to support the dollar. The value of the dollar in terms of European currencies has been falling for the last week. Now it must seek a level on its own strength in the exchange markets, just as the pound and the yen have done. Foreigners holding dollars can no longer convert them into gold.

Redemption of currency in gold within the United States has not been permitted since the banking holiday. In other words the great volume of currency in circulation has been divorced from gold. Its value now rests upon the faith of the public in the Government. The administration has put the country on a managed currency basis.

President Roosevelt's refusal to allow Europe to drain away the American gold supply is to be commended. He was driven into a position where it was necessary to take drastic action to preserve this country's gold. President Roosevelt had to meet the same problem that President Hoover met last July. President Hoover was able to let Europe take all the gold it could command because the threat of inflation was at that time further in the background. Nothing has been done in recent weeks, however, to check the headlong rush toward inflation. The President refused to make a determined fight to save the gold standard. Under these circumstances a gold embargo was the only practical course that could have been taken. If history indicts the present administration for allowing the dollar to be debased, the indictment will lay against those forces that have sped the country on toward deflation and not against the executive act of suspending gold exports.

It is the earnest desire of the President to control the value of the currency and not to let inflation run wild. In doing this he hopes to raise the price level of commodities, and ultimately to tie the paper dollar to gold again, through agreement with other governments. The influence of this program has already been reflected in higher commodity prices and a boom on the stock market. People are rushing to convert their money into goods or stocks before its value depreciates. The danger of a speculative boom and of rapidly rising commodity prices has not been overlooked, but it remains to be seen whether the Government will be able to maintain the value of the paper dollar. All inflation movements have been launched with the best of intentions, and yet disaster has been an almost invariable result.

Much will depend upon the type of program now adopted by the administration. Judicious and conservative handling of the currency problem might keep the dollar near par, even though it is not redeemable in gold. But the circulation of a large amount of new paper money with insecure backing would undoubtedly take the dollar so far below par that an early return to gold would be difficult.

It is of the utmost importance that the whole problem be handled with a view to an early return to gold. When monetary values are unstable business must operate on the hand-to-mouth basis and international trade is in chaos. A few weeks ago the administration was confronted only with the problem of stabilizing industry and business. To that problem has now been added restabilization of money. It is a grave responsibility.

SHACKLES FOR INDUSTRY.

Secretary Perkins' bill for the regulation of wages, hours of labor and industrial production goes so far beyond the bounds of reason, practicability and constitutionality that it can be discussed only from the academic viewpoint. No doubt it is merely intended as a warning to industry with a view to encouraging voluntary adoption of shorter hours, equitable wages and stable production.

The bill proposes the most sweeping grant of power over private industry that has ever been offered for consideration of Congress by a Cabinet member. It would make Secretary Perkins a czar over industry, just as the farm relief bill would make Secretary Wallace a czar over agriculture. Three remarkable provisions would put virtually every factory in the country under the thumb of Federal bureaucracy.

No commodity or article manufactured by an establishment permitting workmen to labor more than 30 hours per week could be shipped in interstate commerce; provided that in cases of "extraordinary need" an "hours-of-work board" could grant permission for employes to work for 40 hours per week for an aggregate of not more than 10 weeks in any one year.

The bill then sweeps on to regulation of industrial output. If the Secretary of Labor should find that any plant or enterprise is "disturbing or preventing a fair balance of production in the industry involved and is bringing about overproduction or unfair competition in interstate commerce by reason of excessively long periods of operation, and thereby causing extraordinary hardship to other plants or enterprises in said industry with consequent substantial injury to the general welfare," then the Secretary of Labor "shall be authorized to specify a limitation that should be imposed upon the total hours of operation of said plants so as to bring about a more equitable adjustment of production within said industry." In other words, if any one concern should show too much enterprise and begin to take business away from its inefficient competitors, Miss Perkins could step in and apply an industrial allotment plan.

The third provision would authorize the Secretary of Labor to set up wage boards to determine what the wages in a given industry should be. Such boards might be put to work whenever the Secretary might find that employes in any industry were not receiving wages "fairly and reasonably commensurate with the value of the services rendered or sufficient for the maintenance of a reasonable standard of living." The formula on which these boards would be selected is peculiarly Perkinsian. There would be only three members. One would be a direct representative of organized labor. Another would be a direct representative of the Secretary of Labor, and the third would theoretically represent the employers. But this member would be selected by the Secretaries of Labor and Commerce acting jointly. That would make two and a half representatives for labor and one-half for industry.

This entire measure is a product of hysteria. The idea of putting industry and labor under the domination of a bureaucratic czar in Washington is revolting to employes and employers alike. It is impossible to believe that this wild dream outlined by Miss Perkins is really a part of the administration's program of economic recovery.

FOREIGN DEBTORS.

Undoubtedly various proposals looking to an adjustment of the debts owed to the United States by European nations will be submitted at the forthcoming conversations in Washington. The attitude of the administration, it has been made clear, will be to receive and consider such propositions, but until Congress gives the President authority to negotiate settlements, or takes some action itself upon this troublesome question, no executive commitment can be made. Furthermore it is authoritatively stated that there is no disposition here to permit the debt discussions to submerge the other vital economic questions to be considered at the preliminary conversations or at the forthcoming world conference.

It might be well to take into account in this connection the relative importance of the debts of nations and the private debts owing to this country. What would be the position of foreign debtors if the so-called war debts were entirely wiped out? Payments on these debts for interest and principal due annually amount to about $250,000,000. America's private loans abroad, although approximately the same size as the war debts, call for annual payments more than twice as great. This is due, of course, to the extremely low interest rates on most of the national debts.

The point is made by Dr. Alonzo Taylor, of Stanford University, that if the war debts should be canceled the private debts are of such magnitude that payments still remain impossible without other drastic, and, in his opinion, improbable economic changes. An extremely conservative estimate places the yearly payments on private debts at $550,000,000. This amount plus the war debt payments make a total of $800,000,000 as the annual amount due for interest and amortization from foreign nations.

This sum can be secured by increasing American imports by that amount, by adding to the expenditures of American tourists by the same figure, by lending the $800,000,000, or by selling in this country that amount of long-time investments held by foreigners to the extent of nearly $5,000,000,000. But all of these methods, Dr. Taylor holds, are impossible of attainment at the present price level. His conclusion is that if the war debt payments should be canceled national opinion, which is not disposed to take foreign goods in payment, makes the payment of these debts improbable if not impossible. In brief, it is held that if nations and private debtors together can not pay $800,000,000 a year, private debtors can not pay the two-thirds portion that applies to them.

Settlement of the war debts would not be a complete solution of the foreign debt question by any means, nor should they be allowed to assume preponderant importance in the sum total of questions to come before the economic conference.

BRITAIN RETALIATES.

The Soviet government having persisted in its propaganda to the extent of finding several Britons "guilty" of espionage and sabotage, after a trial that was a mockery of both justice and common sense, the British government retaliates by imposing an embargo upon Soviet goods. It is the only practicable retaliation possible at present, and it may induce the Soviet government to release the Britons now under prison sentence. If they should be expelled they would probably be delighted.

The Britons were charged with having damaged machinery which they were setting up. As the British company was to be paid only upon acceptance of the plant in perfect running condition, it is evident that any sabotage would work to its injury. But the company retains absolute faith in its employes and scouts the idea that they indulged in either espionage or sabotage.

A few Americans have dealings with the Soviet. They may be victimized at any time, as the Britons have been. They will have no recourse if they should suffer, as all Americans entering Russia do so at their peril, having been put on notice long ago by the Government that it will not be responsible for them.

If the British embargo should result in an attempt by the Soviet to dump its goods into this country, the antidumping law may have to be invoked. American workers and farmers are entitled to protection against the Soviet system of massing huge quantities of agricultural products by enforced labor and then dumping them upon other countries.

Just as one department of college professors perfect legislation to protect innocent investors, another department perfects plans to float a lot of bonds not guaranteed as to principal.

It is reported that the United States might recognize Soviet Russia to get the comedy film rights on the Moscow trial of the British engineers.

An "all-Woodin" program is to be played by the Navy band, but the Navy can't be expected to do it as well as the Treasury does.

Now's the chance for some American firm to take over British business in Soviet Russia and get swindled in turn.

What's the use, if the dollar goes down as fast as everything else goes up?

Every little industry is to have a dictator of its own.

SUN DISCLOSURES

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is a truism that nothing is sacred nowadays, and that all the institutions and all the personages of the world have had their weaknesses and their frailties exposed by a generation without awe.

With nothing on earth left unexposed, however, and the demand for disclosures becoming more and more insistent, it was inevitable that some terrible truths must presently be told about things beyond the limit of the earth itself.

This formidable happening occurred recently in the lecture room of the Royal Institution in London.

Sir James Jeans, famous astrologer, exposed the sun itself. Within half an hour he put the sun in its place.

What an enormous fraud this old sun has been! We believe that it is the center of warmth, the heat of all heats. In many a summer the sun has been extremely persuasive, and has got this idea directly into our heads.

Sir James explained blandly that Sirius, not to mention a number of other stars, had thousands more degrees of heat than the sun. But do not trust the stars, either, posing at their evening receptions with all their diamonds on. Some of the stars develop only some 1,650 degrees of heat, not much more than a good coal fire.

There are not a few beggarly little stars of this type, hanging on the fringes of stellar society.

Sir James Jeans made these revelations (no revelations to astronomers, of course) blandly, lucidly. He had a picture of a great round star, a gaseous globe called Omikron Beta, thrown on the screen. He pointed to a black dot on the edge of it, and explained that that was the sun's relative size.

The sun beneath his relentless pointer had the air absolutely of a single spectator on the edge of Chelsea football ground. How many hundreds of years has the sun been passing itself off on us poor ignorant folk as the largest thing in the heavens?

Sir James has a neat way with all the sun's glare and bluster. He waves aside by means of a certain machine all this business of dazzlement, and calmly uses just a strip of the sun's light to photograph and examine it by, sometimes a strip of its hydrogen light, sometimes of its calcium.

One such calcium picture showed that, as far as its calcium content is concerned, the sun looks not unlike poor old, tired Europe. There were markings like Iceland up in the corner, a pretty distinct Spain, a Caspian Sea off on the right, and the British Isles very much in the map, if a bit to the east.

Sir James spoke enthrallingly of sunspots. But the best, in a sense, of his stories of them was of how nineteenth century scientists maintained that sunspots were the dominating influence upon world trade. It was a fascinating theory, worked out through the influence of the sunspots on crops.

"His Master's Voice."

POST HASTE.

The most cheerful sentence three men will ever read is: "You are ordered deported from Russia."

Inflationists favor any plan to get easy money. It will be hard enough to get rid of it.

What price economy, if the $17.50 boys dropped from the Army should enlist in the $30 foresteers?

The way the House is tinkering with the Muscle Shoals bill it is evident that Senator Norris will have to be made a dam dictator and a nitrate czar.

It will be a pretty race to see whether appointments to Secretary Perkins' boards to regulate wages, hours and production can do more to efface unemployment than Secretary Wallace's farm and processor inspectors.

It may be a poor sporting proposition to get into a depreciated currency marathon when so many nations have a big head start, but when they are all limping their way back Uncle Sam will be in the lead.

If the control of industry is delegated to the Secretary of Labor, women will have to admit that one of their number has been intrusted with power never given to any man.

Maj. Dairymple will learn, if he remains long in office, that everything the servants of the people do is the public's business.

"New York board speeds machinery for beer control." Aren't Tammany robots always ready?

Having decreed a dry Senate restaurant, the question is, are representatives going to allow senators to dissipate the liquid assets of the south wing?

Jim Reed, having found it easy to make his pile in a few years, is planning to recapture his old seat as senator from Missouri, and, anyhow, he never had so much fun with anything as a Democratic administration.

What's the matter with the House leadership? Well, if it is looking back to 1896 in other matters as it is for ideas on currency reform, why, nuff sed.

Among the incidentals of the industrial regulation bill would be the injunction to scrap the antitrust laws and trust Miss Perkins.

Inflation precipitates a hectic rush to transform money into something more stable than the currency itself, but do your prophesying early that that is prosperity.

There are danger signs that the Hitler cranium may expand until it thinks it fits a crown.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

CERTAINTIES.

Times change, but these remain:
Friendship and love and song.
In spite of loss and pain,
Failure and plans gone wrong
Life still holds countless charms
Which nothing ever harms.

If gold had ne'er been coined
And money never known,
Lives had by love been joined.
Roses had still been grown.
Friendships had still been made,
So why be so afraid?

Over us bends the sky.
Near us the budding trees
Earth's pathways beautify,
Still toll the honey bees.
Still ripple silver streams
Where the bright sunlight gleams.

We shall go on to joy,
We shall new glories find,
Time can not quite destroy
Home ties and peace of mind.
After the present pain
We shall rejoice again.

It Isn't What He Buys But the Price He Pays That Reveals the Simpleton.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

YOU will search a long time before you find a wiser philosophy than FitzGerald attributes to Omar in the oft-quoted lines:

"I wonder what the vintners buy
"One-half so precious as the stuff they sell."

There is a price tag on every item of our civilized existence, and every individual with wit enough to be at liberty is aware of it. But each must sell before he can buy, and the art of successful living consists in buying things more precious than the things that are sold.

What does it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul?

We are a nation of salesmen, renowned for shrewd trading, yet nowhere else do people pay so much for so little.

If a man works all week to earn a sum of money and then exchanges the money for a piece of jewelry, we say that he paid a certain number of dollars for his trinket. But that isn't the whole truth. The truth is that he paid one week of his life.

The merchant advertises "One price to all," but that can't be true unless all of his patrons have the same earning capacity. Though all pay the same price in money, one will pay a week of his life, another a month and another but a moment.

Do you note the price of the things you buy?

Let us suppose that your physician has advised you to quit smoking. In this instance the thing you wish to buy is the pleasure a habit affords. All right; what will you pay? You have, as part of your natural wealth, good digestion, the ability to sleep soundly, quiet nerves, throat and lungs without blemish.

Will you give these for your pleasure? It seems a high price, but you are the one driving the bargain.

You read of heroes who "sell their lives dearly" in a fight. That is good bargaining. If a man will sell his life, he should get the worth of it. Some sell it for the morbid pleasure that vengeance gives; some for the privilege of eating too much; some for the kick in cocktails.

Men have the priceless boon of liberty and sell years of it for a few dollars of another's money; they have honor and reputation and sell both for the savings of a few simpletons; thousands sell peace of mind, self-respect and the poise of innocence for an hour's pleasure.

It is shrewd dealing if the stuff they buy is more precious than the stuff they sell. But those who pay too much for what they get are suckers.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Income Tax Returns.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

By drastic increases of income-tax rates in the middle and lower brackets, and by reducing the minimum exemptions, Treasury officials expected not only to stay the decline of tax receipts this year, but to increase substantially over last year the income of the Government from this source. Their estimate for this year's receipts was $1,010,000,000. Fairly complete returns for the March 15 payments now indicate that at the very best the yield this year will not be more than $800,000,000.

Human Nature and Laws.

Grand Rapids (Minn.) Herald-Review.

The Minnesota Legislature is a madhouse. There is not much leadership. There is some in the senate, little in the house. The governor and his group show plenty of leadership in the things in which they have a political interest and very little in anything else. The lobbyists are thicker than fleas. There is a reason for that, too. Everybody is on the defensive. There is not a business in Minnesota that is not threatened by increased taxation or regulation or adverse legislation of some kind or another. That means that most business enterprises are out defending themselves. That is necessary, undesirable as most lobbying may be. Lawmakers are very human. The making of laws brings out about all of the traits that are to be found in human nature.

Japan in China.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It is understandable that the Japanese military strategists should object to the presence of Chinese troops which might threaten their flank or rear. But it is obvious that there always will be Chinese troops of some kind on their flank or rear so long as the Japanese are in Chinese territory. If this is provocation, the Japanese will for the indefinite future have what to them is an excuse for further movements into China.

Now the Coordinator.

Boston Transcript.

It is probable that Congress will soon enact legislation that will go far in shaping the future of the railroads. It is a time for change. The country is in the mood for it, as recent events have shown. It would be strange were the railroads to be the exceptions to the rule.

Legislation which has been prepared for consideration by the President introduces the coordinator. Not until the text of the proposed law is at hand will it be possible to determine just how a coordinator differs from a dictator. The present understanding is that he is to have extraordinary power in supervising reorganizations in the railroad world. That statement of his function smacks of dictatorial authority. But "coordinator" has softer sound. Perhaps there is here suggestion of the iron hand in the velvet glove.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Sons of Jonadab Were Real Temperance Lads—Their Disappearance a Sign That Hard Liquor Flows Less Freely.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Among the temperance societies which flourished before the eighteenth amendment the one I most admired was the Sons of Jonadab. When any of its members broke the pledge of abstinence from strong drink they were thereafter forever barred from renewal of membership. They were hardy bucks with a great thirst, who were level-headed and strong-minded enough to cut out the booze when they found it impossible to hold their thirst to the quantum-sufficit limit. After taking their tee-total obligation they were, as a rule, just as loyal in the train of Folly Grapejuice as they had been to John Barleycorn.

One reason why I have never put much reliance in the wet claim that the eighteenth amendment has multiplied "the evils of intemperance" is the fact that the Sons of Jonadab has gone into desuetude. The Jonadabs belonged to a class of convivial but solid citizens who would have found it necessary to continue their organization had the sale of hard liquor been as free and widespread under the eighteenth amendment as it was in the days of the licensed saloon.

Should the eighteenth amendment be repealed and the legalized flow of hard liquor be thereafter so well regulated that the Jonadabs need not reorganize, we will have to concede that the wet crusaders have some reason for their boast that they are the true friends of temperance.

JOHN C. WILSON.

America Can Prosper by Attending to Its Own Business and Organizing Its Own Economic System.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Traced through its largest implications the question of stagnant business activity is inescapably a world-wide problem," says the Cincinnati Enquirer. Well, as a plain American, I can't see it that way. To begin with, this country is large enough and has enough different kinds of resources to be a world in itself. What makes our task specially difficult is that those resources have developed so rapidly and on so marvelous a scale that the old ways of handling them are inadequate and new methods have yet to be figured out. The shortest and best way to make the most of our great wealth is in the first place to have it serve the special needs of our own people apart from the Old World. When this country has done that, it will be the commencement of world-wide business recovery, and right now we are making a fair start in that direction.

The aches and pains of this year's depression are not strictly American. They are the result of a diseased condition contracted in an "inescapably world-wide" war. That war brought on all our economic troubles. One lesson of that sort should be sufficient. Why should we again run the risk of European contagion? If the troubles of the countries of Europe were our kind of troubles, the case would be different. But inasmuch as they are still fighting among themselves, I am glad to believe that "the question of stagnant business activity" is not so far as we are concerned "inescapably a world-wide problem."

Yes, you have guessed it. I am an irreconcilable anti-internationalist.

AMERICA FIRST.

Can't Understand Why Labor Is Willing to Go Under Yoke of Bureaucracy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a dispassionate view of certain proposed labor legislation, your "Labor and Bureaucracy" editorial rings the bell. It will be a dark day for representative government if ever the fellowship of labor and capital is disturbed to suit the dreams of college professors and work and wages are regulated by bureau dictatorship. As you indicate, the willingness of the head of the American Federation of Labor to trade the independence of his organization for a mess of bureaucratic pottage is hard to understand. If he thinks arbitrary regulation of working hours and workmen's pay by our Government is advisable, then his fear of Communist propaganda, as expressed at the meeting of protest against recognition of Russia, does not seem entirely consistent. It seems to me that Sam Gompers had a clearer conception of the labor question in America.

District Bill a Poor Piece of Work, but Senate May Improve It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: From the looks of the pending District appropriation bill I guess the present House of Representatives must have more than its share of small town congressmen. First off, the fact that this is the National City doesn't seem to bother them. Even if this were not the National Capital, their haphazard claptrap bill would be an outrage, especially with a big District surplus in the United States Treasury. But to judge by the way they have slashed the schools and the health department, I guess they don't take much stock in public education and public health anywhere. The Senate may manage to improve on the House bill a little. I hope so.

I suppose those who hacked the bill together have an idea that the folks back home will consider $5,700,000 in a year's upkeep of his Capital a mighty big donation on the part of Uncle Sam. I have never had much experience as far as small towns and rural districts are concerned, but I can not believe that any large number of voters are really quite as small-minded as that.

MISSION OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY RITES

Florence Crittenton Home Is Scene of Varied Program Honoring Founder.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Florence Crittenton Mission and the one hundredth anniversary of its founder, Charles N. Crittenton, was celebrated yesterday with a varied program at the Florence Crittenton Home, on Conduit road.

The address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. Thomas E. Robertson, president of the board of managers of the Washington home. It followed an opening song by the girls of the home. Greetings from the national organization were presented by Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith, general superintendent of the national mission.

Miss Jean S. Cole, superintendent of the Washington Home, told of its work. A feature of the program was a vocal solo by Mrs. Ethel Sharpless, accompanied by Mrs. Reid Montfort. The girls of the home presented several songs.

The first Florence Crittenton home was founded in New York on April 19, 1883, for the purpose of aiding the young women who had taken the wrong step and had been cast out by friends and family. There are now 65 homes, including the one here.

A reception and tea followed the program, which was attended by the officers and members of the local board of managers, national officers and the staff of the local home. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Frederick M. Kerby.

Prince Wilhelm Becomes Engaged

Former Kaiser's Grandson to Marry Descendant of Italian Family.

Bonn, Germany, April 19 (A.P.).—The engagement of Wilhelm, the eldest son of former Crown Prince Wilhelm, to Dorothea von Salviati was announced today. The prince's fiancee is a descendant of an old Italian aristocratic family. One of her ancestors emigrated to Prussia at the time of Frederick the Great for religious reasons.

Her mother is a member of a Hamburg patrician family named Crasemann. One of her brothers is a leader of the Nazi storm troops in Baden. The prince is 26 years old.

The Telegraphen Union commented that the prince, although he is a strong respector of family tradition, broke with the Hohenzollern House rules in that his fiancee is not of equal rank.

Georgetown's Historic Tour Starts Tomorrow

The fourth annual tour of historic homes in Georgetown tomorrow and Saturday is expected to be joined by many D. A. R. delegates in town for the Continental Congress of the patriotic organization. The tour, conducted by St. John's Church, Georgetown, will start at 1 p. m. tomorrow from Twenty-eighth and M streets northwest.

Half-hour intervals will be allowed for the departure from the starting point of each touring party. Sufficient time will be given each group to inspect the four historic homes selected.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York — Comparatively, New York's welcome to beer was much like the product—mild.

The streets and taverns were crowded early in the evening, but there was little more than normal fuss and noise. About midnight a brisk shower sent most of the boys with an urge to yodel "Sweet Adeline" scurrying for cover.

The city fathers often have revealed an inclination toward a sense of humor, but never more so than at the bureau where they were issuing licenses to sell beer. There hadn't been time to have the regular forms printed, so temporary licenses were issued on, of all things, combustible permits used by the fire department. Quite appropriate, eh?

Getting the Business.

Several firms weren't long in taking advantage of the flow of brew to stimulate trade. One of the first was a beauty parlor in the West Forties which posted a sign reading: "Free Beer With Every Permanent Wave."

One of the first of the old-time bartenders to come out of his exile was Tom Dalton, who came over from County Cork to quench the thirst of those mauve decade celebrities who used to gather at the old Bartholdi on lower Broadway.

Two of his customers were the famous architect, Stanford White, and another man not unconnected with his destiny, Harry Thaw. Others who were friends of Tom's were Tod Sloan, the jockey; William Crane, actor, and John McGraw.

Later Tom took his white apron and moved uptown to the now historic Healy's, favorite hangout of the sporting crowd. Here he used to chat with the debonair Foxhall Keene, winner of the Vanderbilt Cup races, who used to prop his tall figure against the bar and sip only mineral water.

Tim Hurst, the umpire, used Bartholdi's as his office for 21 years, and it was here one night that Tim brought in Ad Wolgast and introduced him as "the next champeen." Everybody thought Wolgast was too small, but Tim knew more about fighting than most of the experts.

Fighters' Hangout.

Tim, who, incidentally, refereed the fight between Kid Lavigne and Joe Walcott, was only one of the many who conducted their business on Tom Dalton's bar. Stanley Ketchell hung out there, Carl Morris used to lay out on the mahogany hands big enough to throttle a gorilla (and then he was flattened in his fight with Flynn).

Bob Fitzsimmons drifted in and out to pass the time of day with Dalton, as did Jack Johnson, Mike Gibbons, Battling Nelson, Terry McGovern and the late Wilson Mizner.

Beer may be back in New York, but Tom doesn't think it will bring back as colorful figures as there were in those days.

Let Us Make Awnings Now

To Meet Your Home's Requirements

Prices Are Our Lowest in Years

Awnings will make your home more livable and attractive during the hot Summer months. You will want them for the inviting coolness—for the additional attractiveness they give the exterior of the house—the protection from the sun's rays they give your draperies, furniture, wall papers.

Awnings custom-made by Woodward & Lothrop mean awning materials as nearly color-fast as possible—heavier, galvanized hardware, non-rusting—measurements taken by thoroughly experienced men—cutting and sewing done only by expert awning workmen—exactly the proper drop for each individual window—installation made by our own men, accustomed to installing awnings in scores of Washington's leading homes and apartment houses. Deferred payments may be arranged.

We also custom-tailor awnings for open terraces and porches, installing heavy pipe frames and other necessary hardware.

We also make large awnings for commercial establishments—and equip them with the most modern raising and lowering devices.

Stocks Advance 3.8 Points As Money Inflation Looms

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Stocks and commodities borrowed inflationary wings today as dollars swooped downward on foreign exchange markets in response to the Government's move toward improving domestic price levels.

A tighter gold embargo and the apparent imminence of a renewed credit expansion campaign, to which, it seems, are to be added measures for putting more money into the public's hands, gave speculators the impression that higher quotations should logically follow and markets swept upward under increasing momentum.

With the dollar dipping dizzily, staples hastened to bridge the gap, especially between our money and sterling, which had an extreme rise of some 30 cents. Stocks endeavored—and successfully—to meet the pace, closing 1 to 9 points higher in a turnover of 5,079,676 shares, the largest volume since September 13 last.

Copper, silver, steel, rubber, tobacco, chemical and motor shares became buoyant as raw material markets soared. Utilities were troubled by rate reduction talk, though they largely retraced early losses. Rails, affected somewhat by another reorganization, tended to lag most of the day, but finally pushed upward.

United States Smelting, Homestake, Cerro de Pasco, McKeesport, National Steel, American Can, Allied Chemical, Federal Mining, Firestone preferred, Hershey Chocolate, National Lead and American Smelting skyrocketed 5 to 9 points. The U. S. Steels, Case, Goodyear, American Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers "B," Corn Products, Bethlehem, Dupont, Westinghouse, Santa Fe and Delaware & Hudson finished 3 to 4 higher. Consolidated Gas of New York recovered most of a 3-point drop. American Telephone was up 2 net.

The Government's rigid control of gold, bankers pointed out, would make possible credit expansion through Federal Reserve system channels without recourse to "unsound" money. The gold embargo, leaving the dollar "on its own," leaves our currency susceptible to wide fluctuations, at least for the present, but this country has a favorable trade balance as well as abundant gold, which factors, in the opinion of some bankers, should tend to be favorable.

Quite aside from inflationary aspects of the situation, markets found considerable nourishment in the day's routine trade news. Steel production has risen to 23 per cent of capacity, the best ratio in a year, and buying has broadened beyond the automotive and tin plate industries. Chairman Wilkinson of Crucible Steel told his stockholders he believed the "tide has turned." Freight traffic last week apparently expanded, while electric power output was above the previous week.

Stocks.

A tighter gold embargo and the imminence of renewed credit expansion drove stocks 3.8 points higher. The volume of sales jumped to 5,079,676 shares.

Bonds.

The most active bond market since September 29, 1931, sent prices one-tenth of a point higher, after a battle between losses and gains. The turnover mounted to $19,744,000.

Curb.

Prices joined the general forward swing and sales climbed to 500,000 shares. Gold stocks were among leaders.

Wheat.

Cotton.

Buoyant trading sent prices 39 to 42 points higher. At one time the advance was $2.50 per bale. July closed at 6.88, after rising to 7.40.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Kaffirs weakened on the stock exchange today owing to higher sterling, but recovered fractionally later. Traders were dealing cautiously in an irregular market. Gilt-edged securities and most British issues were steady, while German bonds were easy. The closing was irregular.

Paris—Influenced by the sharp decline in the American dollar, the tone of the bourse was irregular, with prices showing a heavy tendency. The market closed irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse closed weak after fluctuating irregularly.

BONDS RECORD RISE IN STORMY TRADING

Heavy Federal Liquidation Is Feature in Sales of $19,744,000.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—The most active bond market since September 29, 1931, today greeted the gold embargo with a wide variety of sharp slumps and rallies that left prices in a highly irregular condition at the end of the hectic session.

Heavy liquidation of United States Government issues, together with pressure against many so-called "gilt-edge" corporation loans, contrasted with the accumulation of secondary or semispeculative maturities. Recoveries and declines also permeated the foreign section.

Sales totaled $19,744,000, par value, of which the Federal section accounted for around $8,450,000. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds finished with a gain of one-tenth of a point.

Heaviest trading in the Government department was in Liberty 3½s and Fourth 4¼s, the former losing 1.19 points while the latter dropped 16-32 of a point. The registered Liberty 4¼s were also unusually active at a loss of 24-32 of a point.

Drop of Dollar Abroad Laid To Restoring Gold Embargo

London, April 19 (A.P.).—Restoration of the embargo on gold exports from the United States occasioned another sharp decline today in the dollar exchange here.

As compared to a close of $3.47¼ yesterday, the final official figure today was $3.55, with the close in late trading after regular banking hours set at $3.63 to $3.64 to the pound.

After banking hours business was active. Opening at $3.51½, the dollar moved quickly to $3.57, immediately following the rumor that America might halt gold exports.

Market exchange rates are expected to be subject to erratic movements pending further developments in the United States monetary policy and the approaching discussions between Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and President Roosevelt.

Talk of inflation in the United States has had an effect on the dollar exchange, along with offerings from America and the continent by bears who have taken advantage of the uncertainty in the United States monetary policy.

The recent purchase by the Bank of England of more than £4,000,000 in bar gold was thought to have had no bearing on the exchange fluctuations. The purchase was said to represent Germany's repayment on its international banking credit.

Paris, April 19 (A.P.).—The close of the American dollar at 24.60 francs today was the lowest official figure since November, 1925.

Uncertainty as to a gold embargo in the United States was blamed in banking circles for the slump, for fear was expressed that dollars would not be convertible.

Opening at 24.80 francs, the dollar dropped to 24.50. Although it rallied to 24.55 in later unofficial trading, the tendency was said to be downward.

Through the official bourse session the dollar was supported by the Bank of France.

Rome, April 19 (A.P.).—Speculation by an Amsterdam group of Dutch and French shorts was said by bankers today to have caused a drop in the dollar exchange here.

Banks offered 18.80 lire to the dollar, as against yesterday's close of 19.32. The official exchange close was 18.51.

CURB PRICES CLIMB IN FORWARD DRIVES

Gold Stocks Join Leaders as Day's Sales Total 500,000 Shares.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—The curb market swung along with the general forward drive in prices today, with many stocks showing the most pronounced gains for many months.

Trading volume swelled to about 500,000 shares, the largest since September 13, 1932. Yesterday's dealings amounted to 148,000 shares.

Being in a mood, as other markets were, to discount inflation, trading interest converged on stocks of companies which were supposed to be well fixed on inventories and finished materials.

Aluminum Co. was an outstanding leader, soaring about 7 points and receding a point or so from the top at the close. Stocks gaining 1 to 4 points included Deere, Newmont Mining, New Jersey Zinc, Swift & Co., Swift International, Humble Oil, Standard Oil of Indiana and National Sugar.

Gold mining stocks were strong under the leadership of Lake Shore Mines, Ltd. Electric Bond & Share and Columbia Gas & Electric preferred made fair gains.

WHEAT VALUES SOAR ON HEAVIER BUYING

Market Closes Wild, With All Grains Up; Sets 1933 Record.

Chicago, April 19 (A.P.).—Feverishly advancing 5 cents a bushel maximum today, wheat showed a gain of more than 25 cents since 1933 began.

Topmost prices today on wheat, 70 cents for September delivery, came just before trading ended after hours of tumultuous buying that rivaled World War volume and was associated with spectacular jumps in foreign exchange and Washington reports of far-reaching measures about inflation. Season high price records were outdone by wheat, corn, rye, barley and oats, but part of the gains were lost in a wholesale rush to grab profits before gongs cleared the crowds of brokers out of the speculative pits.

Wheat closed wild, 1⅜ to 2¼ above yesterday's finish; corn, ½ to ¾ up; oats, ½ to ¾ advanced, and provisions, unchanged to a rise of 30 cents.

Market Factors Neglected.

Except for news regarding United States currency inflation and the soaring of foreign exchange as compared with the American dollar, traders gave relatively little heed to any market factors. A jump of about 3 cents a bushel in wheat took place the moment business started, and from that time on the fluctuations in prices were so rapid that blackboard operators were unable to keep up. Changes of as much as 2 cents within a few minutes were witnessed, one set of buyers selling out to another in swift succession.

Adding at times to incentives to purchase was word of big export demand for North American wheat and announcement that Great Britain had put an embargo on imports from Russia. It was estimated 3,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat has been bought for shipment overseas. A coincidence was that when wheat reached 70 cents, indications were that the day's trading would exceed 70,000,000 bushels, 10,000,000 more than yesterday's big total transactions. About the only ordinary influence which inspired selling except to realize profits was a report of 3 inches of rain at some points in Kansas, where drought has long prevailed.

Corn, oats and other grains were swayed almost entirely by wheat action.

COTTON PRICES GAIN IN RECORD ACTIVITY

July Closes at 6.88, With General Market Up 39 to 42 Points.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—An advance of about $2.80 per bale in one of the most active markets noted here since last August carried the price of July cotton up to 7.40 during today's trading, or 52 points net higher, and the highest level touched since that delivery sold off to 5.75 last December.

The advance was checked by realizing and Southern selling at this level, but offerings were absorbed on reactions of about 20 points, and the buying movement continued with July closing at 6.88, or within 6 points of the best.

The general market closed very steady at net advances of 39 to 42 points.

Advance Begins Early.

The opening was firm at an advance of 12 to 23 points on a continuation of yesterday's buying, which appeared to be encouraged by a favorable construction of the overnight news from Washington, and active months soon showed net gains of 25 to 29 points.

The more urgent demand was supplied by realizing or Southern selling on this bulge, but offerings were absorbed on reactions of 10 or 12 points with the market firming up again on a broadening demand which appeared to be stimulated by the policies outlined in Washington press advices with reference to the exportation of gold.

Bullish views were evidently encouraged by strength in other markets and the advances in foreign exchange rates, and the buying was general on the advance which extended to 7.27 for May and 7.64 for October, or 44 to 54 points net higher.

PENN MUTUAL LIFE AGENT SETS RECORD

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Life insurance men seeking new business often are unmindful of the fact that their search lies through a wide and unexhausted field of potential prospects. So Eric J. Wilson, agent, Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., New York City, informed members of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association at their April luncheon meeting yesterday at the Washington Hotel.

Mr. Wilson came to the metropolis a stranger and has averaged $400,000 a year in new business during his three years' association with Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. A New Zealander, he told the story of a man dying of thirst in an Australian desert on which nothing but cactus grew. When finally rescued by aborigines, he was surprised when they informed him he could have obtained all the water he desired by cutting some cactus stalks.

The meeting was the major event of the local observance of "Financial Independence Week, sponsored here by the foregoing association. The following members of the association were placed in nomination for its board of directors. Three of them will be elected directors at the May meeting: F. George Clendaniel, Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.; George T. Black, Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada; P. L. Rodgers, Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Herbert O. McLean, Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Joseph A. Marr, Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co.; E. D. Krewson, New York Life Insurance Co.

Mills Elected Member Southern Pacific Body

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Ogden L. Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury, was elected a member of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific Co. at a reorganization meeting of the board of directors today. Other officers were reelected.

The executive committee at the same time decided to institute a further reduction of 10 per cent in salaries of officers receiving more than $4,200 a year. The new reduction is effective May 1 next.

NEW YORK.

SUGAR—Raw was firmer early today with sales confirmed of 18,000 bags of Philippines for May-June shipment to an operator at 3.75. Refiners were also believed interested at this level, but there was nothing finally offered below 3.80 with rumors of business at the latter price.

Washington reports that the administration was giving considerable attention to the economic situation in Cuba and that this might be improved through raising the price of sugar led to active buying of futures. The market opened at advances of 3 to 5 points and showed additional gains of 2 to 4 points on continued buying. May sold from 3.83 to 3.88, while December rose from 3.38 to 3.40, and the market at one time was 1 to 8 points net higher, putting all positions into new high ground for the season. Although there was heavy realizing, offerings were all absorbed and the market at midday held within a point or two of the best, or 6 to 8 points net higher.

Refined was firm and although prices were unchanged at 4.20 for fine granulated, they will be advanced 10 points at the close tonight to 4.30.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

The Meanderer

Introduces Her Readers to Skillful Belgian-American Hairdresser, Linguist and Cosmopolite.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Ladies of the Belgian Court at Brussels and stars of the correct Belgian opera had their hair dressed by Guy de Leyer, who has come to Washington to practice his art. The Meanderer found this newest skillful hair dresser in a department store on Seventh street at F almost as soon as he had taken off his coat to begin his work.

Guy de Leyer.

Dapper in attire, perfectly groomed even to the meticulous waxed mustache continental in appearance, with vivacious manner and black eyes—this new hair dresser in a typically American store asked the Meanderer not to represent him as a "foreigner."

"I'm an American citizen," he said. "I served with the American Army," he added, with evident pride. "Mr. Guy," as he chooses to be called, was an interpreter with the American Eleventh and Seventy-ninth Divisions, and his citizenship papers are dated 1916. Born in Antwerp, Belgium, he has lived also in Brussels, Paris, Budapest, Vienna, Czechoslovakia and in South America. His command of English, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Dutch gave him his role as interpreter in the war.

The tedium of permanent waving then, those "awful waits" while the permanent part of the wave takes hold, may be broken if the customer so desires, with questions she may ask her cosmopolitan hairdresser about women of other lands. The much-traveled customer may compare notes with this hairdresser on what is interesting in other countries. And the woman who does not know English with fluent understanding may be finding some one who "speaks her language" in the hairdresser who knows six languages.

"Semibobs" are most adapted to the present hair-grooming needs for women, this hairdressing authority pointed out to the Meanderer. "The tiny hats tilted to one side make imperative a careful, neat treatment of the hair in a waved or fluffy manner to fill out the part the hat can not cover," he said. "But no law of hairdressing may be made to cover all women. Careful consultation, which costs the customer nothing at all, must by all means be made before the style of hairdressing is determined. I can be frank and firm," he warned, "in advising my customers. What they most want may be just what they should not have."

Curls or coils, then, may be decided upon. But coils must be mostly hidden if approved by "Mr. Guy." "The wearing of 'buns' of hair down on the neck is not to be tolerated," he said. "They make unbecoming lines."

Weeks before coming to Washington this hairdresser has been in Miami, Fla., where the mode is set months ahead of its coming to Northern cities. The summer mode of hair dress—or that for the whole year—probably will emanate from what the winter vacationers approved in Florida. Dozens of sketches of new becoming hair modes—for miss and matron—"white-haired coiffures have beautiful possibilities," the Meanderer was told—are shown those wanting hair consultations. And the Meanderer's report wouldn't be complete without saying that customers may expect to be surprised at the modest prices attached to the services of the Belgian-American, linguist-cosmopolite hair dresser.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF April 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:15 a. m. to 7:45 a. m., from 3:40 p. m. to 4:40 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 6:40 p. m.

Influences operating on this day will tend to bring out in people the boastful and overbearing sides of their nature. You may expect a good deal of gruffness from those you encounter. Not a good day to sell anything as people will be most resistant even to the most persuasive of arguments. This applies also to relations between sweethearts and more than one proposal of marriage will be turned down. The child born on this April 20 will be a joyous and happy baby, one who will give his mother little trouble. As he grows older he will be obedient, helpful and honest, not a whiner but always cheerful.

If April 20 is your birthday, you would seem to be a person who knows how to live; whether in city or country, you know what to do and how to do it in order to get the greatest enjoyment and benefit from it. You are not afraid of hard work and wherever there is work to be done the odds are that you will be found in the midst of it with sleeves rolled up. This applies to both the men and the women. The men usually have good mechanical abilities and are handy in thinking up things to meet an immediate need. The women are fine housekeepers and are rarely at a loss as to how to meet any emergency that may spring up about the house.

Born on April 20, you express a great deal of love as you go about the day's routine, both at home and in the office. You are a comfortable person to have about, as well as a comforting one in times of trial and distress. You are a clever person, and whatever your line of work may be you have a novel way of handling it and working it out. It is essential that your love-life be a happy one in order that you prosper and rise to the greatest heights possible to you, for it would seem that the love that comes into your life and the love that you shine forth are the motivating forces behind your every thought and act.

Successful people born on April 20:

Jacob Radcliff, founder of Jersey City.

William H. Furness, clergyman.

William L. Stone, author and journalist.

Cornelius Hartnett, patriot.

Court Rules Mrs. Vidor To Split Children's Cost

Los Angeles, April 19 (A.P.).—A new order in the divorce of Eleanor Boardman, actress, and King Vidor, director, was issued by the court here today, providing that she share with her former husband the $500 monthly support of their two young children, Antonio, 5, and Bellinda, 2.

By agreement of counsel half of Vidor's property, in addition to half of the community property, was made over to the actress, in return for her agreement to contribute $250 to support of the children.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Metal mesh makes the latest accessories—a cape and hat for one, an envelope purse so small that it looks just like a man's bill folder, a vanity which combines coin purse and powder puff, a belt, and odd-looking Crusade gloves.

THE business girl!

Living on her own earned income—and being chic and lovely on it, too, God bless her. I'll bet that half the readers I have are business women—and then I ask you, what am I myself?

And I think one of the most important sartorial problems of the business girl has been solved. That is, what to wear to the office, that is not out of place—yet will be dressy enough for the evening's affair that she has to attend in the same clothes. She hasn't time to go home, you see.

The best suggestion is one of those lovely ankle-length, high-necked, but subtly decollette dresses which the biggest couturieres like so well. These can have sleeves or not—usually not. And the jacket or bolero that exactly matches the frock has the sleeves if the dress hasn't, and vice versa.

Another thing which business ladies sometimes overlook is the possibility of taking a dressing case to the office, with at least evening accessories and cosmetics in it—shoes, gloves an evening hat, even, can be carried in this. And isn't it better to take a half an hour to make yourself soignee for the evening affair after working hours than to be uncomfortable and unattractive during the evening? It all can be done, you know. Just try it and see!.

As to dressing on the limited income, that is a problem—and one that can be solved, too. But it takes a wise mind—and the saving of a substantial amount of pennies for the one good purchase. Beware style fads, read your style articles and sift out of all the froth about Lady So-and-So and Mrs. Hermandingle wearing this and that to here and there—the style information that you want—which is appropriate for your needs. It's the wise stenog who knows her own boss' wife's tastes—and does not foller them!

* * * *

It is so very amusing and chic—to see Miladi Moderne wrapping herself all up again in the metal mesh—like the coat of mail! This is a fad of today—and the new metal mesh is, of course, nothing like the real coat of mail at all—save in appearance. Metal it is, and linked it is, too—and there I have sketched for you some of the new accessories that are to be found in this medium.

I for one wouldn't wear more than two accessories of this—the hat and the cape that I have sketched for you are examples—and if you dare wear a single other metal mesh accessory at the same time! Or the belt and one of the pocketbooks—one that is small and flat and made just like a man's billfold—but no man would have a mirror in his billfold—and Miladi would. The other is a coin purse and powder vanity combination, round.

As to the evening gloves in solid metal mesh—they are really charming. Never think they are heavy or uncomfortable or anything—they are as soft as silk. So there you are.

Of all the smart things in all the smart world, though, our new lingerie is it. When you can combine something practical with something frivolous—in appearance—you are doing something! And that is the something that we have done this time—in a lot of new ways. So if you are at all interested in lingerie—send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for this week's illustrated leaflet which gives you the directions for making all the clever lingerie you could want for any occasion—put the leaflet away and have it ready for every time you need new lingerie!

Au revoir!

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

855.

GETTING THE TEE SHOTS.

JAMES T. HUNTER, of North Adams, Mass., reminds me that in my most recent book I drew a comparison between the games of golf and Bridge, stating that in Bridge we omit the tee shots and that there is no driving—only approaching and putting. Mr. Hunter says that his ability as a golfer is irrelev it, but as a Bridger, he is probably a 32-handicap player—just a "duffer." He continues that most "dubs" at golf are good putters, and all golfers know that "the cash rattles in the can," and that one does not "pay off on the tee shots." Starting from this point, he ponders on why one should waste an Approach (a shot) in bidding a Bridge hand any more than at golf, and then adds that it is best to "pitch boldly for the pin and hole out, if possible."

Mr. Hunter's quarrel is with the Approach principle in bidding. He goes on to cite where partner has bid one heart, and the Responding Hand, after a pass by the adversary, looks at these cards:

Spades	A Q 4 3
Hearts	Q 6 5
Diamonds	9 2
Clubs	A K 6 4

He inquires as to what should be bid with this hand, observing that it contains 3½ honor-tricks, sufficient to make a Forcing Takeout, but spades are only four cards in length and that the distribution 4-4-3-2 suggests notrump. "A possible 'birdie' 3," he remarks, "but watch out for that bid diamond sand trap." He then advises to play from the "sure par 4"—in other words, make a bid of four hearts.

Mr. Hunter thinks that possibly this bid is too simple to bother with, but testily observes that the shifting and jumping around like a flea on a hot griddle is a stumper for him. "With the game in sight," he says, "why not forget the Approach—just force—'lay into one'—'stick it up to the pin,' and go down in one putt?"

I am very happy to answer Mr. Hunter's observation for, peculiarly enough, the same mail which brought his plaint brought also the hand below, with the Opening bid of one heart and the same cards in the Responding Hand which he suggests. The question submitted with the hand was: What should be the proper bidding? By answering this question I also disclose the superiority of the Approach over the drive in Bridge, regardless of what it may be in golf.

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A Q 8 5 ♡ Q 7 6 ◇ 10 5 ♣ A K 8 2
♠ 9 7 ♡ J 10 5 4 ◇ A K 7 ♣ 6 4		♠ J 6 2 ♡ 9 3 ◇ Q J 8 3 2 ♣ J 7 6
	♠ K 10 4 3 ♡ A K 8 2 ◇ 9 ♣ Q 5 4 3

3♠(3)	Pass	4♣(4)	Pass
5♣(5)	Pass	5♡(6)	Pass
5♠(7)	Pass	6♠(8)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—The approach.
2—Also an approach. The game is the thing, and North already knows that the combined hands will produce it. He does not know whether the game is available in hearts, spades or notrump or, perchance, even clubs. Hence this Approach bid with a slight suggestion of a drive.
3—Disclosing one sure avenue to game.
4—Perhaps Mr. Hunter would call this "jumping around like a flea on a hot griddle," but actually it is a very constructive bid.
5—Assuring partner that there is another safe line to game.
6—A very strong Slam suggestion. North has bid two suits and now shows adequate support for partner's Opening bid. What could be clearer?
7—South's hand is little more than a minimum. The only justification for the bidding he has done is in the fit which has been discovered by the series of Approach bids, some of them, it is true, accentuated ones.
8—South's responses to North's series of bids have been very revealing. Apparently, he has a 4-4-4-1 distribution, and there should be, if South can support both clubs and spades, not more than one loser in the hand.

This, as a matter of fact, works out to be the case. North loses a diamond trick, but the rest are his.

Had the player holding these cards followed the views of Mr. Hunter as to the proper bidding, it is true he would have scored a game with an overtrick, provided he played it with absolute accuracy, but he would have lost the thrill of bidding and making a Slam, and would have found out, if he were of an analytical turn of mind, that he had chosen the wrong contract rather than the right one. It is the basis of the Approach principle to find out, by a series of bids below the game level, in what contract the hand should be played. It is for that reason that we approach on the great majority of hands, and respond with Approach bids rather than make blind leaps into contracts that may perhaps be unmakable through our failure to determine honor strength and distribution.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

What should be the final contract reached by the East and West players with the hand below?

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

FASHIONS this spring are certainly giving every woman an opportunity to play up her personality and individuality. If you have even a hint to ingenuity in you, prepare to show it now. In the matter of costume, haircut, color, you can set your own style.

One and the same permanent wave when finished is set either in a masterfully masculine or fluffy and feminine fashion.

Tailored suits are simple and charming; some with a hint of the gay ninety sleeves and similar feminine touches, others designed on masculine lines that make father and brother shake their heads woefully. As for husbands, one devoted swain confided to me recently that it was the cause of the first serious argument in five years.

Be Feminine.

It takes a very exotic type to wear the really masculine styles, trousers and trimmings, with assurance and poise. The film colony may have started it. Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Marlene Dietrich and others can appear in slacks, jacket, beret and scarf and look glamorous and intriguing. Nevertheless, the exotic yet sensible Miss Dietrich vehemently disclaims any intention of launching a mannish trouser style for women. She finds them comfortable and becoming, but they are not for the average woman.

It is one thing to choose severely simple and smart clothes, and if you are the type and have the courage turn your nose up disdainfully at any criticism. But, after all, isn't it most becoming to most women to be feminine? Perfumes, sheer hose, silk finery, jeweled embellishments; these are so essentially in the feminine realm. They belong to us. They enhance us. They add feminine appeal. And, just between us, the fluffy, cuddly, clinging vine, and fainting lady of grandma's era may not be ultra-modern, but we suspect that men would sooner turn admiring eyes to them than to the masculine miss wearing a duplicate of their own straight suits. What do you think?

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

URTICARIA.

J. C. writes: I have been sick a year with urticaria. Can it be cured or not? How should I treat myself?

REPLY.

Nettle rash comes and goes, and it may do so at intervals for one year or for many. A person who is subject to nettle rash has been sensitized to something, and whenever he is exposed to that something he is liable to an attack.

The sensitization may be to some food. Other possible causes are dandruff, hair, feathers, dust.

Find the cause and avoid it and you will have no more attacks. Other treatment is liable to prove disappointing.

SNORING.

C. J. J. writes: I am a very sound sleeper, but I am told I snore and have for years.

REPLY.

Snoring is caused by vibration of the palate. The usual cause of that is sleeping with the mouth open and breathing through both the nose and the mouth. If you can acquire the habit of sleeping with your mouth closed you will not trouble your end of town by snoring.

Among the procedures that sometimes work are wearing a chin elevator held on by a head stall and sealing the lips together at night with adhesive. Sleeping on the side and front helps. When one sleeps on his back his mouth is almost certain to fly open.

PILES.

C. J. O. writes: What causes itching piles and what is the cure? Will dieting help and, if so, what food would you suggest?

REPLY.

Diet will have no effect beyond helping constipation. The sequence is constipation, hemorrhoids, itching.

In some cases unusual cleanliness cures the third of these. In others tanning with light of one sort or another cures the symptom.

If the second is cured the third disappears. This may be done by operation of one sort or another. Some cases are cured by simpler procedure.

Overcoming the first by diet and training sometimes cures the second, whereupon the third disappears.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

A 4-YEAR-OLD was entertaining a playmate.

The mother, eager that the children should have a good time, went with them into the nursery, opened the cupboard, in which a miscellaneous multitude of play materials had been piled, and got them all out.

The children fell upon each new thing with cries of delight. Within twenty minutes a railroad track had been partly laid out and abandoned, a music box had played its tune, blocks had been spilled upon the floor, a set of paints had been gotten out and a picture begun. Various automobiles, carts, animals, picture books and puzzles lay in confusion on the floor.

Yet in half an hour the children found that they had nothing to do and came fussing to mother.

Good play rarely results when children are offered too many playthings at once. They can become interested in none, the fascination being merely the momentary one of seeing and possessing as many things as possible.

For this reason it is best to keep the child's toys in good order and sorted as to type. Thus, on one shelf he should always find his blocks, on another his automobiles, trucks and trains, on still another, his animals.

Quite separate should be such things as paints, crayons and paper and, perhaps, inaccessible without help from mother, because for the profitable use of these materials the child needs at first a little guidance. Quite separate again should be his books, kept on a low shelf.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

FOR five months, beginning June 1, radio listeners all over the country will be kept in touch daily with happenings at the World's Fair Grounds in Chicago, where the Century of Progress Exposition will be held.

More than 100 radio pick-up points already have been installed by the National Broadcasting Co. Plans to give listeners the most complete coverage ever attempted for such an extended series of events are now being formulated.

Microphone connections have been installed in all places of interest, ranging from the various exhibit groups to the Children's Enchanted Isle. The court of the Hall of Science, the court of the States and Soldiers Field are expected to be the scenes of the major broadcasts.

Following the broadcast of the opening ceremonies on June 1, a number of programs, ranging from international sporting events to educational and musical programs will be heard through network stations daily.

The opening, which will be in the nature of a pageant on a giant stage erected in Soldiers Field, will, according to present plans, bring to listeners throughout the world the voices of President Roosevelt, Gov. Horner of Illinois, Rufus C. Dawes, exposition president, and the ambassadors of all nations represented at the fair.

The initial ceremonies will begin with a parade from the Loop to Soldiers Field with massed bands, singing societies, various branches of the United States military, naval and marine services, and visiting dignitaries participating.

Throughout the five months that follow, a great array of special and sports events, ranging from tennis, track and swimming to the national air races and intercollegiate football games, will be broadcast.

ANOTHER in the series of broadcasts by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra will be heard through Station WMAL, beginning at 11:30 o'clock tonight. The one-hour concert will be devoted entirely to excerpts from the works of Richard Wagner.

The orchestra, conducted by Eugene Ormandy, will open the program with the overture to "The Flying Dutchman," followed by selections from "Das Rheingold," "Die Walkure," "Siegfried" and "Gotterdammerung," the four music dramas comprising the cycle, "Der Ring des Nibelungen." The dance of the apprentices and the finale from "Die Meistersinger" will be heard in conclusion.

Harry Horlick, leader of the A. & P. Gypsies, and his featured tenor, Frank Parker, will leave for Chicago at the end of May to take part in the World's Fair. The Gypsies will play twice daily and will continue their broadcasts from that city. Twenty-three musicians will accompany Horlick.

Helen Hayes, stage and screen star, in a scene from J. M. Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows," and Adele Rowland, leading lady in "Irene" and many other musical comedies, will head the list of guest artists with Rudy Vallee over WRC at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Three Georgia Crackers, a Southern hillbilly trio making one of its first appearances before the microphone, and Clarke and Verdi, Italian dialect comedians from the vaudeville stage, also will be included in the guest list. The Three Georgia Crackers, Annie, Judy and Zeke, bring a new note to radio. Recently discovered in a small Georgia town, they were brought North to the Radio City Music Hall where they created a sensation. They offer authentic mountain songs and yodeling and provide their own rural music on the "pianer," ukulele and guitar.

CHARLIE CHAN will carry on.

Despite the untimely death of Earl Derr Biggers, noted author who created the famous Chinese detective-philosopher, the Five-Star Theater adaptations of the Charlie Chan stories will be continued on the air for an indefinite period.

Biggers wrote six full-length novels in which Chan solved thrilling murder mysteries. Only two of these have been broadcast in the radio series, while a third, "Behind That Curtain," is now being presented to radio audiences in the weekly programs.

In addition to these exciting cases in which the bland Charlie followed tenuous clews to a successful conclusion, there other best sellers about the Oriental sleuth are yet to be adapted for Five-Star Theater programs, including both the first and last novels which Biggers wrote about the Chinese detective. "The House Without a Key," published in 1925, was the original Charlie Chan story, and "Keeper of the Keys," published in 1932, was the final thriller in the series. Between these two came "Charlie Chan Carries On," in 1930.

With this wealth of material ready for adaptation, the adventures of the epigrammatic Charlie can be continued for many months. The unfortunate death of the distinguished author will not affect the radio versions of his stories, as he had not participated in their preparation for broadcasting.

An original dramatization, with music, of the ancient hill-billy favorite, "The Wreck of the Old 97," will be presented by Col. Stoopnagle and Budd, with the assistance of the orchestra, chorus and cast, during the Pontiac program, WJSV, 9:30 o'clock tonight.

BOB MacGIMSEY, the "bird" you hear whistling on the Maxwell House Show Boat these spring nights, really is a cotton planter from down in Louisiana, and he is going to whistle a featured specialty number, "The Wounded Bird Fantasy," tonight (WRC, 9 o'clock).

"The Wounded Bird Fantasy," an impressionistic description of the flight of the wounded bird, is MacGimsey's own composition, and he will perform it with a full orchestra accompaniment. He frequently composes whistling solos, and he has written music for whistling that is too difficult for the violin.

MacGimsey's career as a whistler started when he was a youthful mudpie merchant on the banks of the Mississippi, at Pineville, La. He started mocking the mocking birds, and later went from bird imitations to more formal music. Whistling, however, is still just a side line with him. He also is a lawyer, and he operates a cotton plantation at Lake Providence, La.

"My Paradise," by Primi; Padilla's "El Relicario" and "Why Was I Born?" from the musical production "Sweet Adeline," will be sung by Olga, Countess Albani, during her quarter-hour recital over WRC at 6:45 p. m. Countess Albani will be accompanied by an orchestra directed by William Wirges.

Although Henry Villar, senior purser of the French Line, put into New York harbor more than a hundred times and cared for thousands of American transatlantic tourists, he never extended his trips beyond the limits of New York City until recently.

For years Villar entertained a steadily increasing curiosity about the vast land and people west of the Hudson River. He visited America, but never saw it. At last, while his ship, the Ile de France, was laid up in drydock for reconditioning, the purser took advantage of his holiday to tour the Middle West.

Villar will give his impressions of "Americans at Home" in a talk over WRC during the Woman's Radio Review at 3:30 p. m.

High School Newspaper Contest Entries Invited

Announcement of a contest to determine the three best high-school newspapers in Maryland and the District of Columbia, sponsored by the Johns Hopkins Chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary collegiate journalistic fraternity, was made yesterday by Hyman Levin, president of the chapter.

Approximately twoscore high schools have been invited to enter the competition. The contest closes May 11 and winners will be announced May 25. Practical newspapermen will be judges. A silver loving club will be awarded the winner.

Illness Delays Woman Flier.

Singapore, April 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Harry Bonney, who arrived yesterday en route to England on an airplane flight from Australia, was temporarily delayed today by a slight illness.

BALLET PRESENTED BY DANCE STUDENTS

"Paderborn" Pleases Audience of 1,000 at Central High School.

The Community Center Department of the District of Columbia opened its spring season last evening at the Central High School, where Marian Chace and Lester Shafer and their dance group were presented in ten modern interpretive numbers and "Paderborn," a medieval ballet, in three scenes, before an enthusiastic audience of nearly 1,000.

After a sprightly opening number, "Allegro Scherzando" (Saint-Saens), with Nancy Brock dancing the solo lead in the little joke, the program proceeded according to the best dictates of the Kreutzberg-Graham-Wigman school of modern interpretive dancing, which calls for extreme agility and a thoroughly ingrained sense of timing and rhythm.

Of the ten numbers on the first part of the program, "Revolt," danced to an improvisation by Starr Preston, one of the accompanists, was the most especially adapted to this particular brand of dancing, its depressing revelation of tearistic oppression most suited to the staccato rhythms. Harriet Anderson and group presented it.

In "Paderborn," conceived and staged by the group, the organization found the opportunity for a fuller expression of its real merits. Dealing with witchcraft of the seventeenth century, there is presented in the three scenes — Processional, the Witches' Sabbath, In the Cathedral—a wide variety of motifs, from the witches' incantations (perhaps more druidical than germane to necromancy) to the somber ecclesiastical movements.

Besides Miss Preston, Victor H. Neal accompanied the dancers, both pianists adding greatly to the effects of the several interpretations.

Others taking part in the evening's performance were: Harriet Anderson, Patricia Adams, Lois Balcom, Helen Beach, Avis Belt, Frances Duff, Betty Eifelt, Ann Gormley, Alice Hurlbert, Bettie Kritt, Katherine Kennedy, Joan Leasure, Kitty McMorris, Jean Miles, Virginia McLaughlin, Ella Nelson, Amalie Preische, Jane Phelps, Dorothy Ross, Gertrude Ruzicka, Hazel Richards, Ruth Raihe, Frances Rands, Katherine Sipple, Williette Sprinkle, Mabel Stoner, Louise Ward, Polly Weihe, Patricia Morris and Michael Logan.

The entire program will be repeated tomorrow night at the same place at 8:45. W. A. WHITNEY.

Means, in Court, Denies $35,000 Plot

Whitaker Likewise Pleads Not Guilty; Trial to Be on May 3.

With a luxurious growth of whiskers, cut in a fashion greatly resembling a "Van Dyke" beard, Gaston B. Means yesterday entered a plea of not guilty when he was brought into the District Supreme Court on an indictment charging him with conspiring to rob Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $35,000.

Norman T. Whitaker, who was jointly indicted with Means, also answered "not guilty" when the clerk of the court asked him for a plea.

Means is serving 15 years for stealing $104,000 from Mrs. McLean, and he and Whitaker are scheduled to be tried May 3 on the indictment alleging they conspired to steal $35,000 additional from Mrs. McLean.

Roosevelt Asks Passage Of Wagner's Relief Bill

(Associated Press.)

Tactics which for two weeks have pigeonholed the Wagner-Lewis $500,000,000 relief bill yesterday ended suddenly under White House instruction to get it passed.

The bill was reported by the House Banking Committee without further ado, and headed for passage by the House, which probably will take it up tomorrow. Floor Leader Byrns said it will be passed that day. The Senate already has approved the measure, under which relief funds for the States and their subdivisions are to be granted outright, without any attempt to extract repayment promises.

Macon's Maiden Flight Once More Postponed

Akron, Ohio., April 19 (A.P.).—The maiden flight of the U. S. S. Macon, the Navy's successor to the Akron, will not be made before Friday, Capt. Alger H. Dresel announced today after a study of the noon weather map.

The giant airship was tentatively scheduled to make her "shakedown" flight a week ago yesterday, but unfavorable weather conditions have kept her in her dock.

Four Catholics Killed In Mexican Church Riot

Guadalajara, Mexico, April 19 (A.P.).—Four Catholics were reported killed and several wounded today in a roit at the village of Santa Fe which developed when the authorities interfered with a religious ceremony.

Duce and Goering Agree on Remedy

World's Political Health Is Viewed as Necessary to Trade Rebound.

Rome, April 19 (A.P.).—An agreement in Italian and German viewpoints that improvement in the world political atmosphere is a necessary forerunner for economic betterment was disclosed in speeches today by Premier Mussolini and Hermann Goering, German cabinet minister without portfolio. Appearing at a meeting of the interparliamentary commercial conference on the eve of the Washington economic conversations, both statesmen stressed this point.

Capt. Goering took the opportunity to compliment Premier Mussolini on his four-power peace club plan, calling it "a genial initiative to eliminate political obstacles."

The Italian premier left no doubt that war debts were uppermost in his mind in connection with the forthcoming economic discussions. He declared the conviction was growing everywhere that war debts installments should be payable primarily in exchanges of goods and services.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IN this space yesterday we celebrated with some enthusiasm the captivating precocity of "Mona Baby," otherwise Baby LeRoy, costar—and make no mistake about this—with Maurice Chevalier in "A Bedtime Story," opening tomorrow at the Metropolitan. It was stated, I believe, that Monsieur Baby steals the picture, and prophesied that the public will take him to its collective heart before he has been on the screen one full minute. In this abject surrender the public will be running a very deep second to Mr. Chevalier himself.

This young actor's name, by the way, is Baby LeRoy Weinbrenner. He was chosen for his part in "A Bedtime Story" only after a comprehensive canvass of Hollywood's babyhood, in search of an infant with a profile and smile that might to some degree match—or be made to match—Chevalier's. The degree of attachment that has sprung up between the star and the youngest member of his supporting company since production was begun on the picture, may perhaps best be gathered from the news announcement that Chevalier has taken out a $1,000 life insurance annuity to be held until the 8-month-old movie actor reaches the age of 18, when it will be used to put him through college.

Maurice called on his baby costar at his Los Angeles home a day or two ago and showed that he had "gone domestic" for the first time when he announced he had a little gift for Baby LeRoy. He then produced an educational fund annuity on the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., of Fort Wayne, Ind., and elicited a shower of coos, chuckles, gurgles and ga-ga's when he remarked to his young protege, "Well, kid, you're going to college."

Baby LeRoy is the youngest policyholder the Lincoln company has on its rolls. Wait'll you see him!

When the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania comes to the Belasco on Friday night, April 28, to present "Out of the Blues," their forty-fifth annual production, certain well-known Washingtonians will recall with fond recollections the days when, as heavily bearded villains or ladies of the chorus, they performed on the same stage in the more or less distant past.

There is Warren F. Martin, for example, a former Assistant Attorney General in the Coolidge administration, who not only played in the show but wrote the "book" for one of the productions. Then there is Darrell H. Smith, Comptroller of the Brookings Institute, whose son, of the same name, carries on the family tradition in this year's show and who wrote "Maid in Germany," "The Royal Arms" and other productions of 20 years ago and also played a prominent part in their casts.

Two judge advocates of the regular Army, now on duty in this city, are old "Wiggers." Maj. F. Granville Munson, of the adjutant general's office, local chairman of this year's production, was a "dancing girl" way back in 1902-03, and Capt. William A. Rounds, of the judge advocate general's office, was a member of a famous singing chorus, as was also Bernard G. Spille, tenor soloist at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

They all will be present a week from tomorrow night to survey the work of their youthful successors with critical and practiced eye and to measure them against the standard of the "good old days" that prevailed at, or shortly after, the turn of the century.

When the Chicago Opera Co., with Maestro Alfredo Salmaggi conducting, presents "Rigoletto" in the Belasco Theater on Sunday night, with Nino Martini, famous operatic star of the C. B. S.; Joseph Boyer and Maria Serrano heading the cast, Miss Mary Verdi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guiseppi Verdi, of this city, will also be heard in a minor role.

Miss Verdi is a lineal descendant of the great composer by whom the opera was written and has lived in Washington from birth. Apart from her major activities in the Senate Office Building, Miss Verdi has found time to develop a decided musical gift. When asked if she was thrilled at the thought of singing with the great Martini, she replied, "Well, yes, of course, but the greatest thrill was when Maestro Salmaggi made me feel that I was capable of singing even a minor part in opera, particularly when the opera was 'Rigoletto,' by Giuseppi Verdi, one of my own ancestors."

Ever the list of Washington artists grows and grows and grows.

A brisk demand for seats has demonstrated with what impatience a great body of Washington theatergoers await the annual coming of the National Theater Players in their season of repertoire. From the present outlook, the ninth season of the players, beginning next Monday night, will be one of this extraordinary organization's most successful.

While the opening bill, "Riddle Me This," rather favors Donald Woods, leading man, and the male members of the troupe, Leona Powers, leading woman, and her feminine associates will come into their own with the revival of Ina Claire's former starring vehicle, "Grounds for Divorce," which was recently put on by Terry Duffy in San Francisco for two weeks and had to be extended to four.

Already Director Clifford Brooke and his assistants, Frank Peck and Karl Neilsen; Charles Squires, the scenic artist; Charles Sturbitts, the carpenter who builds the productions for Mr. Squires to paint; George Donaldson, who looks after the "props," and Walter Burke, who presides at the light switches, are "up" in their parts for opening night.

If teamwork will do it, the Nat Players are practically in!

Official Washington, including the Vice President of the United States, members of the President's Cabinet, leaders of the Senate and House, embracing the entire memberships of the two Foreign Relations Committees and the greater portion of the Diplomatic Corps, will be present at RKO-Keith's tomorrow night for the premiere presentation in the Capital of "Mussolini Speaks." This is said to be the first motion picture autobiography of a world leader ever recorded in celluloid.

The attractions to succeed those currently on view in the downtown, first-run picture houses will be as follows: Metropolitan, Maurice Chevalier, in "A Bedtime Story;" RKO-Keith's, Mae Clarke and Ralph Bellamy, in "Parole Girl," and "Mussolini Speaks;" Loew's Fox, Roland Young and Genevieve Tobin, in "Pleasure Cruise," and Benny Davis and his "Future Stars" headlining the vaudeville; Earle, Joe E. Brown, in "Elmer, the Great," and Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians headlining the vaudeville; Columbia, John Wayne in "The Big Stampede;" Rialto, Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts in "Out All Night;" Palace, Clive Brook and Diana Winyard in Noel Coward's "Cavalcade."

Oh, yeh? Don't try to tell me; I was out in it and I'll lay you 11 to 10 it was rain!

DE LANUX SUGGESTS NEW CURE FOR WAR

Give All Nations Something to Lose, His Doctrine to Insure Peace.

The only intelligently selfish thing for the so-called "powers" of the world to do is to give all countries something to lose in case of a world upheaval, Pierre de Lanux, director of the Paris office of the League of Nations, declared yesterday at a luncheon in the All States Hotel, under the sponsorship of the Washington Council of International Relations and the National Council for the Prevention of War.

"As things stand now," M. de Lanux said, "many countries have nothing to lose, and it would be very shortsighted for any one nation to attempt to raise its own standards of living regardless of conditions in other parts of the world, since that would prepare the way for the worst kind of a coalition of the less fortunate countries against the nation acting for its own good alone. We must give every one something to lose.

"To do this it is not necessary to set up new principles and theories," he continued, "but to put into practice those we already have. Most of the action taken to date has tended to 'dope' rather than cure the depression.

"The depression and the war have been the two great experiences which the world has had in common," said M. de Lanux, "and of the two the depression has most impressed America. It has taught her the fundamental fact of world interdependence."

William Doak's Sister Dies at Bristol Home

Bristol, Va.-Tenn., April 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Lula Doak McCarty, 62, sister of William N. Doak, Secretary of Labor in President Hoover's Cabinet, died at her home here today. She had been in declining health for several years.

Former Secretary Doak is expected to arrive here from Washington tomorrow and funeral services will be held on Friday.

COL. WILLIAMS BURIED.

Full Military Honors Are Given at Arlington Cemetery.

Funeral services for Lieut. Col. Charles R. Williams, Judge Advocate General's Department, were held yesterday morning in Arlington National Cemetery. Full military honors were rendered from the Fort Myer gate. Chaplain Sydney K. Evans, chief of chaplains of the Navy, officiated.

Col. Williams died at Walter Reed Hospital Monday.

LIEUT. J. R. WILMER DEAD IN MARYLAND

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 19.—Lieut. Joseph R. Wilmer, 79, United States Navy, retired, who for many years conducted a preparatory school for the Naval and Military Academies, was found dead in bed this morning at the home of Dr. J. Mortimer Hayes, of near Davidsonville, where he had been living since closing his home on South River last fall.

Lieut. Wilmer is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Frederica Ellsworth, of Sound Beach, Conn., and the Misses Ann and Natalie Wilmer, of Anne Arundel County, and a son, Perry A., of Washington. He is also survived by a brother, Perry Wilmer, of La Plata, Md. His wife died in November, 1931.

Funeral services will be held next Monday at 11 a. m. at All Hallows' Chapel, Davidsonville, and burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, at 1 p. m.

Lieut. Wilmer was graduated from St. John's College in 1874 and four years later from the Naval Academy as an engineer officer. He saw service under Admiral Shofelt on the Ticonderoga. He was transferred to the retired list in 1892 by reason of physical disability, and soon afterward, with the late Prof. John L. Chew, opened a preparatory school. His health compelled his retirement from this activity a number of years ago.

Dr. Edward L. Powell Is Dead at Louisville

Louisville, Ky., April 19 (A.P.).—Dr. Edward Lindsay Powell, 72, pastor emeritus of the First Christian Church, died today after a long illness.

Dr. Powell, a native of Virginia, was pastor 41 years before retiring in 1927, and was the author of three books, "Savonarola," "The Victory of Faith" and "The Prophets' Vision and the President's Dream."

Capt. Albert N. Wood's Funeral at Annapolis

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 19.—The ashes of Capt. Albert Norton Wood, U. S. N., retired, were brought to Annapolis today and buried in the Naval Cemetery.

Capt. Wood, who was 76, a native of Indiana, died at the Naval Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., Monday and his body was cremated in New York. The remains, accompanied by the widow, arrived here this afternoon and were escorted to the cemetery by a detachment of Marines and the Naval Academy Band.

FARLEY PLAYS HOST TO CAMPAIGN PRESS

100 Political Writers Who Covered Tour Guests at Brewery.

"Happy Days" and gentlemen of the press shared honors last night at Postmaster General James A. Farley's party in Abner Drury's brewery, Twenty-fifth and G streets northwest.

With nearly 100 political writers, who covered the presidential campaign of Franklin D. Roosevelt, as guests, Postmaster General Farley acted as host at the informal banquet, while the theme of "Happy Days Are Here Again" echoed through the old brewery to the strains of a jazz orchestra.

Impromptu songs and speeches provided highlights of the dinner, while an atmosphere of good fellowship prevailed as beer steins swung in time to such tunes as "Break the News to Mother" and "Sweet Adeline."

At the head table, where bottles of milk were served, sat Postmaster Farley, Secretary of War George H. Dern, and Stephen T. Early and Marvin McIntyre, presidential secretaries.

Entertainment was provided showing newsreel scenes during the campaign, the inaugural and subsequent arrival at the White House of Mr. Roosevelt as President of the United States.

Boys' Bands Here To Have Contest

Event to Be Staged May 4, With Baseball Game at Griffith Stadium.

All boys' bands of the District will be invited to compete in a contest to be held on the night of May 4 at Griffith Stadium, according to the Washington Board of Trade.

The concert will be a feature of Boys' Week, April 29 to May 6, and will be held in conjunction with a baseball game between George Washington University and the University of West Virginia.

To the winner will go a cup, to be known as the Board of Trade Cup. All proceeds of the contest will go to the National Capital Civic Fund. Boys under 18 will be admitted free to witness the contest and the ball game.

This is one of twelve nights on which George Washington University will present attractions for the benefit of the civic fund. The first will be April 27, when a baseball game will be played with Delaware University.

Rene Bache Rites Set in Philadelphia

Descendant of Franklin to Be Buried Today With Simple Ceremony.

Simple funeral services today will mark interment of Rene Bache, 72-year-old great-great-great grandson of Benjamin Franklin, at Laurel Hill Cemetery in Philadelphia. Several other collateral descendants of the famous patriot will be present at the burial rites.

Mr. Bache died Tuesday night at his home here as the result of an overdose of a sleeping powder taken last Saturday. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide.

For many years, Mr. Bache had made his home at 1823 Q street northwest with a sister-in-law, Miss Violet Biddle. His wife died several years ago. Of late months his sight had failed rapidly as had his hearing. Letters were found to relatives and to a publisher indicating his desire to die.

MRS. M'CARTHY'S RITES.

Funeral of Long-Time Resident to Be Held at St. Gabriel's.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bridget Reed McCarthy, who died Monday at her home, 626 Quebec place northwest, will be held at 9 a. m. today at St. Gabriel's Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mrs. McCarthy had lived in Washington for more than 30 years. She was born in County Roscommon, Ireland. She is survived by her husband, John McCarthy; five daughters, Sister M. Frances Gabriel, C. S. C., of New York; Miss Helen F. McCarthy, of South Bend, Ind., and Mary E., Margaret V. and Agnes T. McCarthy; a son, John V. McCarthy, and a sister, Mrs. John Gibbons, all of Washington.

MISS NETTIE G. BRADLEY.

Funeral Services Will Be Held Tomorrow at Residence.

Funeral services for Miss Nettie G. Bradley, 83, who died yesterday at her home, 1722 N street northwest, will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the residence. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Interment will be private in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Miss Bradley, daughter of the late Charles Bradley, well-known Washington merchant and banker, was born in Washington in 1850 and has spent her entire life here. Surviving Miss Bradley are Miss Catherine E. Heald, of Washington, a sister; Edward B. Heald, of Yonkers, N. Y., a brother, and Charles H. Bradley, of Washington, a nephew.

MISS BESSIE MASON DIES.

Veteran Government Employe Had Lived Here for 35 Years.

Miss Bessie W. Mason, a resident of Washington for 35 years and a number of years an employe of the Government, died suddenly yesterday at her home, 1448 Clifton street northwest.

Miss Mason, daughter of the late Thornton W. Mason and Ellen Virginia Mason, of Berkley County, Va., was born in Shepherdstown, W. Va. She is survived by five sisters, Mrs. R. C. Grove, of Shepherdstown; Mrs. H. E. West, of Avon Park, Fla.; Mrs. J. M. Smith, of Frederick, Md., and Mrs. H. J. Densler and Miss Sallie M. Mason, of Washington. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

A. C. Birchett Funeral Today.

Funeral services for Alexander C. Birchett, 67, sergeant of the guard at the Treasury Department, who died Tuesday, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the W. W. Chambers Co. funeral home. Burial will be at Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Book-Taught Journalists Warned to Forget Spats

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Another crop of book-taught journalists will be upon us soon and I take it that the excitement of the new deal and great confusion in Washington will attract many of them to the immortal halls of our sacred heritage, which is the oratorical term for the Washington beat. During the period of the beautiful nonsense, which waned away in 1930, most of the new journalists wished to specialize in sport-writing, dramatic criticism and book-reviewing, and persons having working jobs in these lines received many letters every spring inquiring as to the hours of labor, the rates of pay and the chances of advancement.

The frivolous or nonessential concerns of that period have now been subordinated to news and reflections from the National Capital, however, and, no doubt, the new drafts will point this way.

In that case, the young gentlemen naturally will wish to know whether canes or spats or either or both are obligatory as items of the regulation fatigue uniform and it may relieve them to hear that such is not the case. A good suit of clothes, suitable for open-air sleeping purposes would be an asset, but the old superstition that a man could be had up for first-degree nudism if he should appear for work without his stick or his anklets has no present foundation in fact. On the contrary, there is a distinct social prejudice against these trappings among the working type of journalist, as distinguished from the thinking type, and even those who go in for serious thinking are not as careful about the insignia of their rank as popular belief would have them be.

Aroused Under Coolidge.

The antispat sentiment is said to have been aroused during the Coolidge administration by rookie diplomats brought into the State Department to take lessons in hand kissing, bowing from the waist, tea-cup technique (including petits fours and marmalade sandwich on saucer), the regulation ways to snub the American traveler in an American embassy abroad, as laid down in the State Department text books. There were a good many young Harvards among them and they wore spats, of course. So presently all the others were toddling around in gaiters, too, and pretty soon the cadet corps of the State Department became just so absurd that the department issued an order forbidding anyone in the place to wear spats without a doctor's prescription. On foreign service, he may suit himself, but on returning to this country for instructions or for transfer to some other post the American diplomatic employe is supposed to button them off and to keep them out of sight until he has passed the 3-mile limit again.

All this was a serious blow to the American spat industry which never was very robust anyway, and I remember receiving a letter about that time from a spat manufacturer in Ohio who resented the sissy implication as to spats, described himself as an old all-American football man, and offered to lick the Secretary of State and me, too. Mr. Hughes wouldn't train however, so the bout fell through. I don't know why the spat manufacturer included me. I hadn't said anything about spats, but he thought I was fixing to do so.

Of course, the antispat sentiment did not originate in the State Department. It goes far back. The spat and stick were of the apparel of the city slicker or cholly boy, and the simple hay-kicker, reading the weekly Blade by the light of an oil lamp, felt his muscles and his honest manhood and reflected that overalls were royal raiment after all. The fiction of the time heroized the hairy-chested yokel to the moral and physical detriment of the well-dressed city youth, who probably took a bath every day, to the sissy if the truth were only known, and the sentiment against the spat was just beginning to abate and the manufacturers were starting to build branch plants at strategic points, when the State Department freshmen took to wearing them on their wrists and set the industry back to scratch again.

So I would say that any journalist with a '33 diploma coming to Washington in the present rush need not trouble himself as to cane or spats either way. If he has them he may wear them, but they will get him no preferment. I do hear that canes are more numerous on the State Department run than elsewhere, and I would guess that the Old-World influence is at work there. The cane became almost de rigueur in Washington just after the war, when the boys who had covered the peace conference came back from Paris, London and Rome, and—though most of the working-type journalists of that period have since become executives, lobbyists, politicians or deep thinkers bent on explaining the great significance of it all—the stick remains, to some extent, the side arm of the State Department run.

Carried as Weapon of Offense.

It should be remembered, of course, that in the Old World, where the conference boys adopted the stick, no social significance attaches to the same. It was carried originally as a weapon and seems to have become a mere form, like the necktie, than which I should be very much obliged to be shown a more useless article of apparel. But among the Americans it is a pure affectation, for this country was born in the time of the scattergun and squirrel rifle. These weapons have been conventionalized in the Thompson submachine gun, the hoodlum's automatic heater and the sawed-off shutgun. An Oklahoma Democrat visiting London would be no more amused by the spectacle of junior clerks, or office boys, swinging their sticks at noon or tea-time than they would be to perceive, if they could, his six-gun nestling at the hip.

I must allow that there are more striped pants, sugar-scoop coats and stuffed neckties, per capita, among the journalists of the Capital than you would be likely to find among the upper-case social set of New York or Chicago, but that is due solely to the fact that after a man has been detailed here a while his fine old provincial fears and prejudices rot away under the influence of temptation and invitation.

To Tea in Working Clothes.

He is invited to tea and he goes in what he calls his overalls, meaning the clothes he works in, to be peered-down-the-nose-at by young dudes from the Department of State or the Bureau of Insect Life and their pretty ladies until, after a while his good wife tells him he looked the part of a bum or rick congressman, which is worse, and warns him that he will never get a job as lobbyist for the copper trust or the Governor Generalcy of the Virgin Islands unless he dresses up to his opportunities.

So he permits himself to be dragged into the department store, which carries such things in stock, and accoutered in such a rig as would get him laughed out of town or commit him to a sanitarium if he were to show up so attired back home. Perhaps, in time, his paper will go broke or his publisher will heave him out for writing something against the power trust, or for it, and he will be glad he spent $100 on the suit of tea-clothes which made the desired impression on the right people. I am purposely ignoring those journalists who regard themselves as statesmen. They do not count.

At White House Reception.

For a Nation whose people in the main are much concerned about clothes to cover their nakedness, this one, in its Capital, has much money and thought to spend on the right sartorial thing. A White House reception, from all accounts, must be a horribly stuffy experience, and a White House dinner more ghastly, because there is no escape until the show is over, and with water, water everywhere nor any drop to drink.

Yet more than 3,000 people found the correct gear in which to appear at the formal Hoover dinners in the course of a single year and the semi-annual dinners of the Gridiron Club, which require white ties and tail-coats, have caused almost all the journalists in town to equip themselves with this otherwise useless regalia just in case they some time should be asked to go.

I have heard of one statesman, a Midwestern governor, who refused to attend a White House dinner because he was not equipped for the occasion, but I also heard that he fell to drinking with some of his fellow prohibitionists that evening, got drunk, passed out, and converted this mishap into a political coup by announcing that he wouldn't dress up like no damn dude for nobody. To the June crop of journalists, however, I should just say, come as you are and prepare to cover the county courthouse in the nth power.

NATS GUESTS AT HOME INAUGURAL OF A'S TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Philadelphia, Pa., April 19.

THE boys in the back room were whooping it up and the subject was Joe Cronin.

The trend of the remarks was that Clark Griffith, of the Griffith Stadium Griffiths, had ruined the league's best shortstop by saddling Cronin with the duties of player-manager, and the pros were louder than the cons, and much funnier.

"He's the kid manager, okay," put in one of the wisenheimers. "Kid Boots Cronin. The fellow hasn't fielded a ball cleanly since the season started and he's been throwing the ball around the infield like a beanbag. He's no Bucky Harris out there; too many nerves and too much responsibility, and the quicker they get him out of there the better off the club will be. He was a great shortstop last year and two years ago, but as a playing manager he's the tenth man in the opposition's lineup."

Cronin Presents Defense.

So this department, finding the short haul here from Washington an ideal opportunity to interview Master Cronin on the subject, presents herewith the gist of what the Nats' manager had to say in his own defense, if any defense of his actions is required.

"Bosh," began Cronin, with more than a show of indignation, "all bosh."

"I've got eight other fellows out there thinking and if they couldn't think for themselves I wouldn't have 'em on the club. When a ball comes my way, I'm the shortstop, not the manager, and I haven't got time to think about anything but fielding that ball. I can only play one position and I know it and as far as worrying about the rest of the team is concerned I don't.

This Is Another Year, He Says.

"Last year if I made the same kind of stops and throws nothing would be said about it. Now I'm on the spot. But I'm not worrying about that either. If I can't play shortstop in this league I'm willing to give up, but it won't be because I've got too much responsibility.

(Note—Cronin was voted the most valuable player in the league in 1930, and no less an authority than Connie Mack said he was the greatest shortstop in the game.)

"As far as responsibility is concerned," Cronin went on, "I don't have any more worries out there on the field than any of the other players. Eighty per cent of a manager's use of strategy takes place when the club is at bat, and I don't see how my duties are going to affect my fielding when I'm directing the team from the bench.

That Clubhouse Meeting.

"Before the game every day we have a meeting in the clubhouse. We know just what kind of balls we're going to pitch to each batter, and we know just what kind of balls he's apt to hit and where he's most likely to hit 'em. And the fellows play their positions accordingly.

"That doesn't leave me a whole lot to do. I'm only one man out there on the field, and if I take care of that job, I've done my job.

"If you want the low-down, it's this. A manager's biggest job is to keep the club on its toes, and as long as I'm manager you're gonna see a wide-awake club. Those other fellows can think for themselves out there in the field, and I'm just one of 'em. If I'm on the spot, I'm willing to take the rap, but neither that nor anything else is worrying me."

The defense rests.

Firpo Under Arrest In Purchase of Farm

Buenos Aires, April 19 (A.P.).—Luis Angel Firpo, former heavyweight prizefighter, who was arrested Monday on charges in connection with the purchase of a farm in Cordoba Province, pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing today. He said he bought the farm in good faith.

He was returned to jail, but the incommunicado ban was raised.

BAER SHIFTS CAMP.

New York, April 19 (U.P.).—Maxie Baer, California heavyweight, will shift his training quarters to Atlantic City, N. J., tomorrow, where he will complete preparations for his fifteen-round bout with Max Schmeling at Yankee Stadium on June 8. He has been working out here at Stillman's Gymnasium.

Raines Faces Zaharias Tonight

Rough Matmen Will Clash in Feature at Auditorium.

Rudy Dusek Tackles Hans Steinke on Wrestling Card.

THOSE mastadons of the mat, grunting and groaning for new fields to conquer, will come tumbling back onto the canvas at the Auditorium tonight, with Daredevil Dick Raines, and George Zaharias, a couple of behemoths whose combined beef would be well over a quarter of a ton, presenting their latest wrestling tricks in approved American fashion in the headline bout of Prof. Joe Turner's weekly slinging show.

Raines, the Terrible Texan, already has indicated to Daddy Joe that he will spare neither limb nor bone in an effort to pin the transplanted Greek's shoulders to the mat in their finish match.

Zaharias Has Good Record.

The powerful Zaharias returns to familiar scenes with much better papers of recommendation than those he turned over to Prof. Turner a few months ago. Just a few days ago he threw the erudite Frank Judson, of Harvard, in 16 seconds, no more no less—and Zaharias is proud of this achievement, contending that Judson spent a couple of hours in necking and hugging Ray Steele in a recent encounter.

Rivaling in interest the feature battle, which can not be called a battle until the boys actually knuckle one another and rub their fists all over their faces, is the main preliminary between the German grunter, Hans Steinke, and the Nebraska powerhouse, Rudy Dusek. Always a pretty rude fellow in the ring, the elder of the Dusek-Dusek and Dusek firm, has promised to wax even ruder tonight against the big Deutchman.

The Dusek-Steinke tiff may steal the show.

The semifinal of Everett Marshall and Tom Alley promises to find the fur flying aplenty. Also listed on the program are Vic Christy, who is to grunt with Marshall Blackstock, and energetic Ernie Dusek, who tests the muscles of Jim Henry.

Notre Dame Relay Team To Miss Kansas Classic

Lawrence, Kans., April 19 (A.P.).—Eleven of 12 relay race champions of the 1932 Kansas relays will defend their titles at the eleventh renewal of the carnival in the University of Kansas Memorial Stadium Saturday. The only one missing will be Notre Dame, winner of the 2-mile relay.

Among the competitors will be Glenn Cunningham, University of Kansas miler and Olympic Team member, who carried on a battle with Gene Venzke, of Pennsylvania, for indoor honors the past winter, winning three of four races.

Mexico Names Stars For Davis Cup Team

Mexico City, April 19 (U.P.).—The Mexican Davis Cup Team which will meet the United States in the opening North American zone tie will be composed of Ricardo Tapia, Alfonso Unda, Eduardo Mestre, Jorge Acosta and Esteban Reyes, it was announced by Ernesto Lopezr, nonplaying captain, today.

Lopez, after watching his men in a workout, said that while the United States was a top-heavy favorite, the Mexican Team would offer stiff competition.

The cup matches will be played on the Chapultepec Sports Club courts where a new grandstand is being constructed. A proposal to hold the matches in the National Sports Stadium was rejected.

Ray Caldwell, at 45, Finally Quits Baseball

Birmingham, Ala., April 19 (A.P.).—Twenty-three years on the firing line has taken its toll and Ray Benjamin Caldwell, patriarch of Southern Association pitchers, is through with organized baseball.

The request of the 45-year-old veteran for voluntary retirement was granted today by Manager Clyde Milan, of the Birmingham Barons and tomorrow a youngster, Willard Hayes, will take Caldwell's turn.

The old right arm is good as ever, Ray stoutly maintained, but a leg injury suffered last season has slowed him down.

The work of Caldwell, a tall gangling youngster with McKeesport, attracted the attention of the New York Yankees in 1910, and the Pennsylvania club sold him up the river for $1,500—an enormous figure then for baseball players.

Sunday Game Tickets To Go on Sale Today

The Nationals, who always seem to play their best game against the ranking teams in the league, face the leading New York Yankees for the first time this season in Griffith Stadium next Sunday, opening a three-game set here. Tickets for this Sabbath encounter, which is expected to draw a crowd rivaling that of opening day, go on sale at Griffith Stadium this morning at 9 o'clock.

Shires Balks at Minors And Is Shipped to Cards

Talks Braves Out of Sending Him to Toronto and Is Elated at New Deal; Long Storm Center of Baseball.

BOSTON, April 19 (A.P.).—For the third time in a year, Arthur (The Great) Shires, colorful but truculent first baseman, today talked himself out of a trip to the minor leagues.

Sold by the Boston Braves to Toronto yesterday, Arthur rebelled with such vim, that President Emil Fuchs cancelled his deal with Dan Howley and shipped him to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Shires, who insists he will never play minor league ball again, was thrilled by the switch to the Cardinals.

Shires' new owners probably will give him a chance to show just how much first-basing he can do and how much of his drawing powers he has retained before shipping him to one of the eight minor league farms. On the other hand, the Cards are momentarily without an understudy to Jimmy Collins, regular first baseman, and that may give Shires an opportunity to convince Manager "Gabby" Street he is of major league caliber.

When notified he was going to Toronto yesterday, Shires defied Bill McKechnie, Braves manager, and announced he would quit baseball for boxing. While attending a dinner tendered to Jack Dempsey and Max Schmeling last night, he told the German heavyweight he would be ready to take him on within a few months and suggested that Dempsey promote the bout.

Twice last season McKechnie tried to use Shires in a minor league trade and each time Arthur adroitly ruined his plans. The Braves bought him from Milwaukee in 1931, and he started last season as the regular first baseman. A collision with Joe

NET TOURNEY STARS WIN MATCHES

Sutter, Shields and Mangin Advance at Springs.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 19 (A.P.).—Moving into action after two days of postponements, Clifford S. Sutter, of New Orleans, top seeded player in the Mason and Dixon tennis tournament, who was recently chosen for the United States Davis Cup Team, stepped quickly into the quarter final round today while two other nationally famous stars, Frank X. Shields, of New York, and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., reached the semifinals.

Sutter, whose start was delayed two days by rain, advanced to the third round by the default of Walter Lipman, then administered a sound trouncing to Philip B. Hawk, New York veteran, by scores of 6—2, 6—0.

By his victory, the New Orleans star, who is third in the national ranking, qualified to meet Berkeley Bell, of New York.

Shields Wins in Two Sets.

The tall hard-driving New Yorker, Shields, swept over the only foreign entrant, Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, 6—1, 6—4, to gain his semifinal berth. Mangin had a stiffer match, but won in straight sets from Lester Stoefen, youthful Los Angeles player, 6—2, 7—5.

The draw for the semifinals pits Shields against the winner of the Sutter-Bell match and Mangin against the victor in a contest between Sidney B. Wood, jr., of New York, Wimbledon champion two years ago, and J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J.

Led by Mrs. John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, the semifinalists in the women's singles were decided. Mrs. Van Ryn defeated Barbara Stoddard, 6—2, 6—2. Mrs. P. B. Hawk, Barroness Maud Levi and Florence Leboutiller also advanced with straight set victories.

In the men's doubles, the strong Bell-Mangin, Sutterwood, Van Ryn-George Lott and Shields-Stoefen combinations advanced without difficulty.

The summaries:

Third round—Sutter defeated Dr. Philip B. Hawk, New York, 6—2, 6—0.

Fourth round—Frank Shields, New York, defeated Marcel Rainville, Montreal, 6—1, 6—4; Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, N. J., defeated Lester B. Stoefen, Los Angeles, 6—2, 7—5.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

First round—Bell and Mangin defeated Lowry and Guenach, 6—3, 6—1; Bazzs and Shafer defeated Shuford and Morgan, 6—3, 6—2; Sutter and Wood defeated Bragaw and Johnston, 6—3, 6—2; Hall and Rainville won from Gilson and James by default; Lott and Van Ryn defeated Vail and McKee, 6—2, 6—0; Griffin and Mangin defeated Ammidon and Lockhart, 6—3, 6—3; Shields and Stoefen won from Jones and Mann by default.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Third round—Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, defeated Barbara Stoddard, 6—2, 6—2; Mrs. P. B. Hawk, New York, defeated Eliza Coxe, 7—5, 6—1; Baroness Maud Levi, New York, defeated Mrs. Frank X. Shields, New York, 6—2, 6—0; Florence Le Boutillier, New York, defeated Mary King Smith, 6—3, 6—4.

Guest and Phipps Set To Defend Polo Crown

Chicago, April 19 (A.P.).—Winston Guest, the only ten-goal indoor polo player in the world, and Michael Phipps, of the Optimists, winners of the 1932 open class championship, are due to arrive tomorrow to warm up for the defense of their title in the national indoor tournament at the 124th Field Artillery Armory.

Guest has just returned from a big game-hunting expedition in Africa. He will ride with Phipps and a Chicago player to be selected today in the open and class A championship events.

Tom Watson Arrives For Chocolate Battle

New York, April 19 (U.P.).—Seaman Tom Watson, British featherweight champion, arrived from England today on the liner Olympic to prepare for his fifteen-round title bout with Kid Chocolate, of Cuba, at Madison Square Gardon May 12. Chocolate is recognized as world champion by the New York State Commission.

Watson said he packed 8 pounds more than 126-pound limit, but expected to have little difficulty paring down to the weight.

BRAVES BOW TO DODGERS IN 10TH

Brandt Beaten, 2-1, Though Pitching 5-Hit Game.

BOSTON, April 19 (A.P.).—Ed Brandt allowed only five hits and gave one base on balls, but one of the blows and the pass paved the way for the run that gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 2-to-1 victory over the Boston Braves in a ten-inning battle, played before a shivering holiday crowd of 6,000 today.

With the teams deadlocked at 1-all, Brandt walked Cuccinello to start the tenth frame. A sacrifice by Flowers and Bissonette's single advanced him to third, from where he scored on a squeeze-play bunt by Lopez.

The Braves got to Walter Beck, rookie hurler, for eight blows, but the former Southern Association mound ace from Memphis kept the hits well scattered except in the seventh when Berger doubled and scored on Holland's sharp single.

Beck Fans Five Braves.

In winning his second major league start, Beck struck out five Braves, did not give a base on balls and scored the Dodgers' first run. He doubled in the sixth and romped home on Stripp's single to center.

The teams originally were scheduled to play a morning and afternoon game as part of Patriots' Day celebration. The morning contest was called off, however, because of wet grounds. The afternoon extra-inning affair was the second game the Braves have played and lost out of nine scheduled.

P. G. A. Official Disowns Lottery for Relief Fund

Chicago, April 19 (A.P.).—Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the Professional Golfers Association, today issued what is coming to be an annual warning—that the P. G. A. has no connection with lotteries on any tournaments.

He said that a group in Shenectady, N. Y., has sent out books of tickets on a national open championship tournament lottery, to professionals, asking that they lend their efforts in selling them. The correspondence said a part of the proceeds would be turned over to the P. G. A. relief fund. Gates said the latter statement is untrue and warned the pros against selling the books.

Knee Injury Suffered by Stribling

Torn Cartilage May Mean End of Colorful Ring Career.

Hurt in Training for English Bout; Now Hobbles on Cane.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, April 19 (A.P.).—The same sort of injury that has ruined many an athletic career—a torn cartilage in the knee—may end the fighting days of W. D. (Young) Stribling, busiest heavyweight contender the prize ring ever has seen.

Back from a trip around the world that started last June and brought him nine fights along the way, Stribling was on his way to Miami, Fla., tonight to seek treatment from an old friend, Cecil Ferguson, former Giants' pitcher now practicing osteopathy. His left knee is badly swollen and he walked with the aid of a cane.

"W. L. was boxing the last round of his training for a return bout with Don McCorkindale April 6," explained "Pa" Stribling, his manager, today. "He was weaving in a corner, punching at a sparring partner when something gave in his left knee and he crumpled to the floor. We had to carry him out of the ring.

Wanted to Operate Right Away.

"The British doctors wanted to operate right away but we caught a slow boat the next afternoon and came home. If there's anything like that to be done, it'll be done right here."

Though no longer considered an outstanding title contender, Stribling, at 29, holds all records for heavyweight ring activity. Since starting as the "Georgia schoolboy" under the management of his father, with "Ma" Stribling as his trainer and second adviser, in 1921, "W. L." has fought at least 300 times from the lightweight class up through the heavyweight division.

He battled Paul Berlenbach, Mike McTigue and Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight crown; and Max Schmeling for the heavyweight throne, but never won a championship. He has fought most prominent heavyweights during the past ten years. His most prominent battles in recent years were with Jack Sharkey, who outpointed him at Miami Beach in 1929, and Schmeling, who scored a technical knockout in 15 rounds in Cleveland in 1931.

Miss Rawls Sets New Swim Record

Youngest Mermaid Queen Breaks Mark in 300-Yard Medley Event.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 19 (U.P.).—The world's youngest swimming queen, Miss Katherine Rawls, broke the world's record tonight in winning the 300-yard individual medley championship of the national A. A. U. senior woman's swimming meet. Her time was 4:14.8, which is 1.6 seconds better than the old record of Eleanor Holm.

The crowning of a new group of American amateur swimming queens, the youngest in the dynasty, began when Miss Lenora Kight, of Homestead, Pa., won the 100-yard free style of the national A. A. U. womens' swimming championships. Her time was 0:63.4. Alice Bridges, of Whitinsville, Mass., was second, and Lisa Lindstrom, of New York, third.

Off to a good start, Miss Kight, the favorite for the title, spurted in the home stretch to gain a lead of more than 2 yards over Miss Bridges, who, handicapped by a bad start, came from behind to nose out Miss Lindstrom for second place.

Dorothea Dickinson, of New York, the fourth of the entrants in the event to qualify for the finals, was never in the running.

Bass Gains Decision Over Sammy Britt

Baltimore, Md., April 19.—The bout between Sylvan Bass, East Baltimore veteran, and Sammy Britt, Connecticut middleweight, at Carlin's Park tonight, was a dull affair.

Bass put more effort into the match than Britt, but the former, who was awarded the decision after eight slow light-punching rounds, was far below his best. None of the punches delivered by either boxer would have broken a pane of glass.

Clarence Burns was given the decision after eight rounds over Sam Finazzo.

Charley Thompson scored a technical knockout over George Estrick in the fifth round. Marty Bond defeated Jimmy Reed in the opening four-rounder and Billy Powell scored a two-round knockout over Joe Traber.

Lyons Blanks Browns on 3 Hits

Simmons Makes Two Doubles in Home Debut as White Sox.

CHICAGO, April 19 (A.P.).—Allowing no opposing runner to pass second and only four to reach that base, Ted Lyons shut out the St. Louis Browns with three singles today and the White Sox won their home opener, 3 to 0.

The Sox got seven hits, five of them doubles, off Coffman and Gray and utilized three of them, one each time, to pick up their runs singly. Al Simmons, making his first league appearance as a White Sox player, led the attack with two of the doubles.

Lyons Shows 1930 Form.

Ten thousand fans saw the game, which was played in the best baseball weather Chicago has had in the week-old season. The afternoon was bright, if still a bit chilly, however, morning rains cut the anticipated attendance practically in half.

Lyons displayed more stuff than he has at any time since 1930, when he enjoyed his last big season of 22 victories. In all, he allowed only six men to reach first base, issuing only two walks, the sixth Brownie reaching base on a dropped pop fly by Appling.

The run that was enough to insure him his season's first victory was scored by the first Chicagoan to bat. Hayes opened the first inning with a double to left and, after advancing on an infield out, tallied on a fumble by Shortstop Levey.

Fonseca Singles Home Run In Third.

The second Sox run—and their only earned one—came in the third on Haas' double and Manager Fonseca's single. Levey's second error, a low throw on Fonseca's grounder in the seventh, followed by the second of Simmons' two doubles, accounted for the other score.

The victory was the revised and revivified Chicagoans' fourth in their six 1933 starts and their third straight in as many games with the St. Louis entry this season.

New Yorker Wins Shoot As Wife Shares Honors

Pinehurst, N. C., April 19 (A.P.).—C. T. Jackson, of Stormville, N. Y., today won the handicap shoot in the fifteenth North and South tournament. After a shoot-off with G. J. Creeden, of Middletown, N. Y.

Jackson, shooting from 21 yards, broke 96 clay birds out of 100 and then hit 23 more in the shoot-off. Creeden shot from 16 yards and had 22 in the shoot-off. Jackson closed strong in the regular shoot to tie Creeden, breaking a perfect 25 in his last round to Creeden's 23. Mrs. C. T. Jackson, wife of the winner and the only woman competitor in the tourney, had her best score so far, breaking 90 birds from 16 yards.

Miller Bid $5,000 To Take On Israel

Feather Title Is Planned in Seattle Stadium on July 4.

Seattle, April 19 (A.P.).—An offer of $5,000 to Freddie Miller, National Boxing Association featherweight champion, to defend his title against Abe Israel, Seattle Jewish scrapper who won a decision over Miller in a six-round nontitle bout here last night, was made today by Nate Druxman, sports promoter.

The proposed battle would be of either 10 or 15 rounds' length, at the Civic Stadium here some time after July 4, when championship bouts become legal in this State, Druxman said.

During the day it developed Miller's left hand was not broken in the second round last night, as Reilly had announced after the bout, but had been numbed by a blow.

HORNSBY ABOUT READY.

St. Louis, April 19 (A.P.).—Rogers Hornsby will probably be back in the Cardinal line-up in a few days, Manager Gabby Street said today. The "Rajah's" injured tendon has improved rapidly and he is virtually free from discomfort.

JEBY, JONES BOUT RULED NO FIGHT

Near Riot Results as Referee Ends Stalling Match.

CLEVELAND, April 19 (A.P.).—A decision of "no contest" was made at the end of the sixth round of a twelve-round nontitle bout between Ben Jeby, New York middleweight, and Gorilla Jones, of Akron, tonight by Cleveland boxing commissioners, who halted the bout from the ringside.

The commissioners said they ordered Referee Block to halt the fight because "both scrappers were stalling."

The contest was slow from the start, and Referee Freddy Block admonished the fighters at the opening of the third round and again at the start of the fifth to show more spirit.

Jeby holds the world middleweight title as recognized by the New York Boxing Commission and Jones the American title as recognized by the National Boxing Association, but since the bout was a nontitle affair the weights of the fighters were not announced.

Repeated boos from the crowd were heard from the third round on. In the fifth round boxing commissioners went into a huddle at the ringside and at the end of the frame told newspapermen that another round similar to first five would result in their stopping the match.

A riot call was sent into police headquarters when some one threw a chair over the ropes as the fighters were leaving the ring. Four squads responded to the call, but Jones and Jeby were escorted to their dressing rooms without further display from the crowd.

Cronin to Use Stewart on Mound

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 19.—The Nats made good their escape from the rampaging Boston Red Sox under cover of a blanket of rain and detrained here this evening after a short haul for their first series on foreign soil.

On the morrow, clad in the light gray of the visiting uniforms, the Nats assist the Athletics to open the American League season here amid the familiar inaugural game trappings and fol-de-rol that are part and parcel of such festivities, with Mayor Moore throwing out the first ball after the amplifier in center field has tin-horned its way through the Star-Spangled Banner.

The boys will have at each other in a three-game series, with the opening tomorrow marking the homecoming of the A's after six days on the road, which finds them at the bottom of the league, but looking up as a result of the close tussles with the Yankees.

Mackmen Have Five Defeats.

The home folks recognize more than a shred of hard luck in the five defeats against the one victory that Connie Mack's freshman team encountered abroad.

But harking back to the Nats, who fell on evil ways earlier in the week in dropping two decisions to the Red Sox, Joe Cronin's club is hanging on to the tail end of the first division with a .500 percentage and little to brag about. A check-up reveals that the Nats have taken it full on the chin in three of their last four games, and pennant talk, if any, is now at a whisper.

Time was when an escape from the Red Sox was like an escape from all the comforts of baseball's Utopia, whatever that is, but with the rejuvenated Bostons rising up and smiting our boys like they did on Saturday and Monday, the opposition the Nats will meet in Shibe Park holds few terrors, comparatively.

Manager Cronin plans to use Lefty Walter Steward, who was scheduled to have started against the Red Sox today, in tomorrow's clash with the Mackmen.

Grove Is Ready To Pitch.

Ready to pitch for the A's tomorrow is Lefty Grove, but that don't mean nothing, as the boys in our circle say. Mr. Mack will pitch whomever he feels like pitching at game time and past performances have illustrated the futility of trying to name Mr. Mack's pitcher before Mr. Mack names him himself. It may be Grove, Freitas, Cain or Joseph T. Dokes.

But, with his young men laboring at the bottom of the league, 4½ games behind the stampeding Yankees with only a week of the season entered in the standing of the clubs, it behooves Mr. Mack to put his best foot forward pronto, and the likelihood is that when Joe Kuhel plants his feet at the plate at 2:30, none other than Grove will be out there heaving 'em for the A's. What was that I said about predictin'?

Grove, it seems, is the only Philadelphia pitcher to win a game this season. He turned back the Nats in the last game of the Athletics' series in Washington, and there was nothing to substantiate reports that the great Lefty is not the same Grove of 1932, the best pitcher in any man's league, who figures to win every time he goes to the post.

Yankees' Pace Alarming.

The pace that the Yankees are setting also is, or should be, a matter of deep concern to Mr. Cronin, whose Nats were figured to make a battle out of the pennant race, if any club was to offer the Yanks any serious competition. With their three victories and three defeats, the Nats are trailing the Yankees by 2½ games at this stage of the proceedings and 2½ games in April are not less than 2½ games in late September.

It seems that the Nats aren't hitting. Despite the nine hits they collected in the finale with the Red Sox, there was no evidence of any sus-

TRED AVON WINS HAVRE DE GRACE FEATURE RACE IN MUD

Labrot Mare Leads From Barrier

Pomponius Triumphs Over 3-Year-Olds at 6 Furlongs.

Workman, Bonanza Combine to Win Baby Race.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 19.—Elmer Trueman, the Washington trainer who specializes in winners and cream-colored hats, put on a show here today for his mother who rode up on the special from the Capital. True, Tred Avon, Maryland's outstanding mare, won The Bowling Brook, the day's feature race, but Trueman sent Rustic Lady, Ilchester and Ladino postward to take places in the winners' circle.

Tred Avon competed in a field of four being tightened for the $7,500 Philadelphia Handicap on Saturday and gave a promising account of herself. Bobby Jones took the Labrot mare out in front at the barrier rise and it was a case of trying to catch her. The chief exponent of that fruitless effort was Stepenfetchit which ran surprisingly well in the sloppy going but was a length and a half way at the finish. Kincsen, which made her move on the far turn, was third, six lengths behind.

Tred Avon's mud-running ability and present form were known and she paid only 60 cents on the dollar.

Racing Conditions Are Bad.

The crowd which saw racing conditions at their worst, slumped in seats in the stands or stayed in the betting ring where the beer business played third fiddle to the coffee and hot dogs.

Trainer J. H. Stotler sent his fourth Derby candidate to the post here today and turned in his fourth victory when Pomponius took the secondary feature—the Gallant Fox Handicap—over the 6-furlong sprint distance. Again the Pompey-Coe-Bejshak influence hung over the race, although Pomponius gave his backers many anxious moments before coming up on the outside to pass Character and Rush Hour in the last sixteenth.

Pomponius was off last and trailed the field to the far turn while the speed merchants, Character and Rush Hour, battled for the lead. Once given his head, Pomponius closed with a burst of speed under a pumping ride, characteristic of Jockey Bejshak.

In addition to Pomponius, Stotler has won with Pompoleon and Ladysman from the Coe group and Parity of the Sagamore Stable.

Rustic Lady, one of Elmer Trueman's charges, cakewalked out of the maiden class in the opener, winning eased up from a field of twelve non-winners. Labrot's Gramarye was second and the favored Kay C third. Mintie and Suspicious set the pace at stages up to the far turn where Rustic Lady took command, never to be headed. She was second choice and rewarded at a $9.80 mutuel.

Bonanza Takes Race.

The swift and sure colt, Bonanza, under the expert handling of Sonny Workman, moved up in the stretch to take the second race from Junal, the pacemaker. Par Value was third. Bonanza was a good thing, dropping from 30 to 1 to 2 to 1, and paid off at an $11.60 mutuel. At that Workman was forced to go to his whip to shake up the youngster. The customers were jolted by the $38.60 show price on Par Value.

Ilcheater made it two in a row in the third race and furthered the Trueman training prestige. Integrity, a long shot, was second ahead of Happen. It was only a romp for Ilchester under the guidance of Alfred Robertson. They forged to the front and came home mud free some three lengths. Dark Amber stayed with the pace to the far turn and then folded. Ilchester was an even money favorite.

Towee appeared to have the sixth race locked in the bag at the quarter pole, but Ral Parr's Ladino came up with a closing rush that ended the contest. Mac Sennett, a long one, prominent from the start, was third.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RUSTIC LADY, $9.80, $5.20, $3.00; GRAMARYE, $9.60, $5.20; KAY C, $2.80.

RUSTIC LADY shook off SUSPICIOUS after the initial furlong and, displaying a liking for the footing, drew clear midway of the turn and was never seriously menaced thereafter. GRAMARYE, stoutly handled for the entire journey, challenged strongly when entering the homestretch, but could not trouble the winner. KAY C., slow to get going, was rushed up on the inside to reach contention, but was held safe for the final drive. FAIR CLARK came to the outside in the last half-mile and made up some ground. SUSPICIOUS weakened steadily after four furlongs. TIPHAINE went well. MINTIE had brief early speed.

SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. The Gwynn Oak. Purse, $800; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:05. Off at 3:15. Winner, W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BONANZA, $11.60, $7.00, $6.00; JUBAL, $4.80, $3.40; PAR VALUE, $3.60.

BONANZA, alertly handled and breaking fast, was outrun for the first furlong while under urging, swung to the outside for the final drive and, disposing of JUBAL, drew out steadily approaching the finish. JUBAL, a rapid beginner, took command after the opening sixteenth mile, saved ground, but was unable to stay when challenged. PAR VALUE, forced to circle his field, showed excellent speed and raced better than the chart shows. BRIGHT HAVEN lost considrable ground to reach a forward position and could not threaten the leaders. MAD EAGLE broke from outside at the start and was held safe. ANNARITA was away well and had no excuses. CHIMNEY TOP was outrun. SAUNTER showed speed until entering the home stretch.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:45. Off at 3:51½. Winner, Mrs. E. Trueman's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ILCHESTER, $4.00, $2.80, $2.60; INTEGRITY, $15.80, 7:40; HAPPEN, $7.20.

ILCHESTER, partial to the going, was sent into a brief early lead, moved clear when leaving the backstretch and, kept in the firmer footing thereafter, was never seriously threatened. INTEGRITY, kpt within striking distance and under strong pressure, saved ground and closed with excellent courage. HAPTEN forced a steady pace in the early racing and held on gamely under punishment. WISE COUNT broke slowly, was rushed into a forward position, but faltered from his early efforts. AEGIS began slowly and was unable to reach a prominent position while being taken wide. DARK AMBER was in tight quarters in the first three furlongs and tired thereafter.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. The Gallant Fox Handicap. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:20. Off at 4:28. Winner, W. R. Coe's b. c. (3) by Pompey—Wigwam. Trained by J. H. Stotler. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:14 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—POMPONIUS, $9.40, $4.40, $2.80; CHARACTER, $4.60, $2.40; RUSH HOUR, $2.60.

POMPONIUS, lacking early speed, moved up fast leaving the backstretch, swung to the outside of the leaders at the stretch turn and, finishing resolutely, was up in the final 50 yards. CHARACTER, quick to get into full stride, displayed good speed and continued stoutly when challenged. RUSH HOUR, hard ridden on the entire trip, angled to the inside during the final drive and fought it out gamely. OKAPI had good speed for five furlongs. SUN CAPTOR was in close quarters when rounding the turn and tired. CROWNING GLORY, breaking from the outside, raced close to the pace until reaching the home stretch.

FIFTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. The Bowling Brook Purse, $1,000; allowances. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:56½. Winner, S. W. Labrot's br. or sr. m. (5) by Sir Greystee—La Mulron. Trained by W. Irvine. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:42, 1:47.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRED AVON, $3.20, $2.20; STEPENFETCHIT, $4.20; KINCSEN, no show mutuels.

TRED AVON moved into an easy lead going to the first turn, was rated under restraint until challenged, was put to mild punishment during the stretch run and had enough left to stall off STEPENFETCHIT. Latter squessed back when rushed up on the inside of TRED AVON at the first turn, went to the outside thereafter, made a strong effort approaching he homestretch and continued stoutly. KINCSEN, kept closer up than usual, made a serious threat when securing racing room on the inside midway of the backstretch, but was held perfectly safe thereafter. OLD MASTER was under urging throughout.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:25. Off at 5:31. Winner, R. Parr's ch. g. (4) by Ladkin—Cuba Bell. Trained by E. Trueman. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:14 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADINO, $4.80, $3.00, $2.40; TOWEE, $3.80, $4.00; MACK SENNETT, $9.40.

LADINO, at home in the footing, followed well placed and, coming around his field with a rush in the final quarter-mile, wore the leaders down to open up at will nearing the finish. TOWEE, showing good speed and going in this best form, forced LADINO into submission but was unable to stall off the winner. MACK SENNETT rushed hard from the start, shook off PROTEUS while saving ground, but tired in the final drive. LADFIELD, broke slowly, was rushed hard into a forward position, but was not good enough. PROTEUS tired early. MEXICO went evenly. BRIGHT BIRD stopped badly.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 6:00. Off at 6:04. Winner, S. L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THURSDAY, $5.40, $3.80, $2.80; PLUTARCH, $10.20, $7.40; GRAND BABY, $4.00.

THURSDAY sprinted into an easy lead when settled on the backstretch, saved ground and held PLUTARCH safe. Latter, well up from the beginning, was unable to reach the winner when put to a hard drive. GRAND BABY worked his way up gradually and finished with good courage. VERITY BALLOT was easily best of the others. SYRIAC was never a factor and raced wide in the late stages. ECSTASY lost ground all the way. MAINSHEET broke slow and raced poorly. REDCLIFFE stopped badly.

AT THE POST.

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE, APRIL 19.

Well, friend, I have a pair of workouts to report. Mike was up early this morning and saw Repaid work a mile in 1:47 3-5. The derby second choice was breezing, but Mike don't like his looks. Says he hasn't filled out much. I saw Equipoise, with Workman up, step the mile in 1:43 4-5 in preparation for Saturday's Philadelphia. The Whitney's post destroyer showed excellent form. Two winners for the boy—Tred Avon and Thursday. The latter had Jimmy Sullivan, the Washington boy, in the saddle. BILL.

FIRST RACE—MISS MERRIMENT did well for me Monday when she took the place at a good mutuel. Meets a more experienced field tomorrow, but will have her race track under her. MACADAM is pretty far down the list, but was a fair sort in Florida. RAGTOWN BELLE for the rest.

SECOND RACE—POMPOSITY has that Coe-Pompey stamp that has been so prominent hereabouts. His last effort was a good race behind War Glory at Pimlico. Looks like the goods. SWINHAVEN was something of a bust as a 2-year-old, but may hold the place safe in this. STAND-OUT for the show.

THIRD RACE—SOEUR BLANCHE was a huckleberry in the mud at Latonia, and now that she has a race under her belt we may see her true colors here. Might have a struggle, but I believe it can be done. GOLDEN FATE and BEL ORA for the rest.

FOURTH RACE—SARADA makes her debut tomorrow and is reported in excellent shape. Shouldn't miss in this. INLANDER gets my second call. There's a reason. WAR STRIPES to take care of the others.

FIFTH RACE—PILATE is a year older but is as speedy as ever, I'm told. Ran a tightener the other day and appears ready for the question. CURACAO and FINITE seem to have the place between them.

SIXTH RACE—POLAR BRUSH has changed hands since that last clever effort, but should win again. MANYA, out the other day, may be the second one ahead of REVONAH, which stopped suddenly the other day.

SEVENTH RACE—WORTHINGTON did not get the best of racing luck here. Is at top form and may beat NIGHT PATROL and ROYAL RUFFIN in the going.

THE POST'S CONSENSUS AT HAVRE DE GRACE

Trueman Due To Reduce Stable

Trainer to Cut to Six or Seven of Best for Pimlico.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 19.—Elmer Trueman, one of Maryland's best and most popular trainers, who began the current racing season brilliantly Monday when he won dashes of three-quarters of a mile with Ral Parr's 3-year-olds, Ilchester and Corrymeela, does not intend to carry any scrub stuff this season. He said at Pimlico this morning that before he came down from Havre de Grace, where Ilchester and Carrymeela did their winning stuff Monday, his stable will have been cut as to numbers from nineteen to six or seven. He has gotten rid of two oat manglers since he left the Parr farm on the Washington boulevard, near Laurel, for Havre de Grace.

Horses he is thinking now of keeping are Acautaw, Ladino, Ilchester, Corrymeela, Mad Eagle, Shenvallée and High and Mighty, the last-named a 2-year-old by High Time from Mystify.

Star Porter Has Tricky Underpinning.

Trueman is afraid that Parr's good-looking 3-year-old, Star Porter, son of The Porter and Starella, which won at Pimlico last spring, will have to go. This fellow has shelly feet. He can mizzle right along for a spell, but soon sores up and eases off. This is a pity. The Porter has not sent a better-looking horse to the races.

Trueman is inclined to think that he is handling a filly of Oaks dimensions in Corrymeela, a daughter of Colin and Kathleen and an own sister of the one-time brilliant Jock. Corrymeela is hardly as big as Jock was while he raced, but she looks a good bit like her buddy. A quarter crack cramped her style most of last season, but she proved good enough at Bowie November 23 to win her juvenile valedictory, a dash of three quarters of a mile in which she defeated ten other maiden fillies in 1:13.

Illusive, a daughter of General Lee, belonging to Miss Mary Corning, of New York, and trained by Capt. Philip M. Walker, was some 2-year-old last season. She won six of fifteen races and finished second and third a number of times.

Illusive Has Beaten Some Good Horses.

Caterwaul, Wave On and Poppyman beat Illusive in the Twentieth Eastern Shore Handicap at Havre de Grace, which paid Caterwaul $30,000, the General Lee filly herself whipped 16 colts and fillies, Ladysman, Kerry Patch, Ballos, The Dark, Golden Way, Head Play, Rush Hour, Misguide and Acautaw among them. Jock was something of a distance runner.

Corrymeela is gaited for distance running, too. Shenvallee, a daughter of Bright Knight and Sisaga, is a superb half-sister of Gonesway. She is an untried maiden. Mrs. Trueman claims her. Acautaw is about ready to win.

PUBLIC PARK TOURNEY GOLFERS STAGE BATTLES IN RAIN

Four Players Left in Rock Creek Open

Malloy, Connolly, York, Bennie in Semifinals.

Tourney Ends Today, With Finals Due in Afternoon.

By DAVE HERMAN.

BRAVING a driving rainstorm and playing their shots through the muck and mire of the water-soaked course, George Malloy, sorrel-topped public links ace; John Connelly, H. C. York and Ralph Bennie yesterday forged into the championship flight semifinals of the Rock Creek open tournament, and will resume their battle for titular honors in matches this morning and afternoon.

Connelly Beats Misku, Downey.

Connelly, one of the more youthful stars at Rock Creek, trained his heavy artillery on Joe Misku in the morning match, winning 4 and 3. In the afternoon he eliminated one of the ranking favorites, John Downey, 1 up, after losing three of the first four holes, and rallying to win four in a row after being four down at the turn.

Both Harold Bowers and W. Hurd fell before Ralph Bennie, athlete deluxe, by 2 and 1. Leading 1 up going to the tenth, Ted Burrows, "Uptown" tournament finalist, defaulted to H. C. York in the opening match, refusing to continue in the face of the torrential downpour. York later beat Seay, 2 up.

Finals Listed This Afternoon.

In the semifinals beginning this morning at 8:30, Malloy faces Connelly and York opposes Bennie. The finals are slated this afternoon. Competition in four other flights will wind up today. Volney Burnett, who failed to make the championship grade after losing in the draw, entered the semifinals of the second flight, winning from Paul Heston, 1 up on the nineteenth, and M. Esch, 3 and 4.

Results follow:

FIRST FLIGHT.

George Malloy won by default from R. Sibley; Matt Walker beat L. K. Downey, 2 and 1; John Downey beat W. E. Coleman, 4 and 3; John Connelly beat Joe Misku, 4 and 3; W. W. Seay won by default from John Baer; Ted Burrows defaulted to H. C. York after leading 1 up end of ninth; W. W. Hurd beat E. Saunders, 4 and 3; Ralph Bennie beat H. C. Bowers, 2 and 1.

Second round—Malloy beat Walker, 1 up; Connelly beat Downey, 1 up; York beat Seay, 2 up; Bennie beat Hurd, 2 and 1.

SECOND FLIGHT.

Volney Burnett beat Paul Heston, 1 up nineteenth hole; M. Esch won by default from Charlie Williams; L. W. Falk beat George Marlow, 3 and 2; H. Allen beat B. Campbell, 1 up; J. Robertson beat Dave Bent, 1 up nineteenth; C. W. Keene beat Chick O'Daniels, 4 and 3; S. C. Runswick beat Larry Day, 2 and 1; Bob Marks won from W. Prendable by default.

Second round—Burnett beat Esch, 5 and 4; Allan beat Falk, 2 and 1; Keene beat Robertson, 4 and 2; Runswick beat Marks, 4 and 3.

THIRD FLIGHT.

P. C. Wimsatt beat P. E. Wall, 4 and 3; C. C. Heath beat A. Oliveri, 1 up nineteenth; A. P. Hare won by default from O. Dodge; T. Wallace won by default from A. Martina; H. Wilbourne beat R. Lewis, 5 and 3; S. R. Evans won by default from J. Messick; Dr. Cruthers won by default from J. O'Donnoghue; C. F. Bean beat J. Schultz, 3 and 2.

Second round—Wimsatt beat Heath, 4 and 3; Hare beat Wallace, 5 and 4; Milbourne beat Evans, 1 up nineteenth; Bean beat Cruthers, 5 and 3.

FOURTH FLIGHT.

J. Enright won by default from E. J. Stolack; W. Jarvis won by default from I. Lightfoot; F. Guttenplan beat C. H. Kerstein, 5 and 4; C. Kessler beat E. Johnston, 4 and 2; H. O. Harrison beat F. Y. Trundle, 1 up; C. B. Trundle won by default from P. Donaldson; C. Vernon won by default from Earle Bean; O. L. Wilkins beat J. H. Jarman, 1 up.

Second round—Enright beat Jarvis, 5 and 4; Kessler beat Guttenplan, 5 and 3; Harris beat Trundle, 3 and 1; Vernon beat Wilkins, 3 and 2.

FIFTH FLIGHT.

W. C. Garges beat Buddy Sharkey, 2 up; L. Beyers won by default from Oscar Fagan; G. R. O'Brien won by default from C. Shifflette; G. Sutton beat Dan McGrew, 3 and 2; F. Phillips beat Claude Lawrence, 6 and 5; Clyde McCauley won by default from H. Yost; T. Thompson and George Clark defaulted, and R. Bowman and K. Heffner defaulted.

Second round—Beyers beat Garges, 2 and 1; Sutton beat O'Brien, 2 and 1; Phillips beat McCauley, 1 up, 19th.

Baer Trains for Schmeling

CARAS IS CUE VICTIM OF PONZI

Bows, 250 to 173, in Pocket Billiards Exhibition.

JIMMY CARAS, the Wilmington youngster, who nosed out Andrew Ponzi for second place in the last world's championship pocket-billiard tournament, has been finding the going mighty rough in exhibition matches since Ponzi beat him in Baltimore Tuesday night and yesterday won again, 250 to 173, at Lewis & Krauss parlors.

The match was played in blocks of 125, with the matinee one ending with Ponzi in front, 137-120. This proved of considerable interest. Ponzi hopped out in front, 95-54, and Caras then came through with a cluster of 68, scratching after making a difficult break shot with only 2 needed to run out his string. Ponzi then came back with an unfinished run of 42.

Ponzi Has Fine Run Of 86.

Starting the night match, Ponzi ran 2 and then fouled, but his next trip to the table netted him a run of 86 and the decision. Caras ran 26 in this block, but again a scratch after making his break-shot ruined his chances of copping.

Large galleries witnessed both blocks and all were impressed with the exceptional speed with which the two performed. In many of these matches, much time is lost in figuring out shots and in stroking, but Caras and Ponzi stepped up to the table and did their stuff with little or no hesitation. At the conclusion of both blocks, Ponzi gave an interesting exhibition of trick and fancy shots.

N. C. STATE'S NINE HOST TODAY

Cooper Expected to Hurl Against V. M. I. Nine.

Special to The Washington Post.

RALEIGH, April 19.—Its winning streak broken by Wake Forest, North Carolina State College will attempt to get back in the win column when it meets V. M. I. here Thursday afternoon in a Southern Conference baseball game. The game will be played on Freshman Field at State and will begin at 3:30.

State has not been beaten in Southern Conference ranks this spring, leading the loop with six victories. One of these wins was a 11-to-3 victory over V. M. I. recently in Lexington.

James Cooper probably will do the pitching for State tomorrow. He was used in the first game between the two schools and pitched effective ball for seven innings, allowing six hits. He was taken out of the game at that stage.

Their 12-1 defeat by Wake Forest in the annual Easter Monday game was the first set-back for the Techs this spring. Junie Barnes was on the mound for the Deacons and it was his fifth consecutive win over State.

Coach Chick Doak's players did not hit Barnes frequently enough to win a game, but loose playing in the infield and outfield on the part of the State players, gave Wake Forest a number of its runs. Seven costly errors were made by the Techs during the afternoon. Wake Forest gave Barnes perfect support.

Following its game with V. M. I. State will meet Duke Saturday in Durham in another Big Five and Southern Conference test.

Doyle New Chief Of District Tennis

Plans for Tourney Made of Meeting; Starts on May 13.

Louis I. Doyle, who formerly headed the organization, last night was brought back to the office of the president of the Washington Tennis Association holding its annual meeting and election at Wardman Park.

Mr. Doyle succeeded Winfree Johnson, who, in keeping with an honorable custom of the association, was elected as honorary president.

Other officers named were Alan Staubly, vice president, and Bill Shreves, secretary-treasurer.

A "new deal," calculated to strengthen the tennis association and stir up greater interest in District activities, was mapped out, and is expected to bear fruit before the season goes into full swing.

Plans for the staging of the "City of Washington" championship on May 13 at Rock Creek Reservoir courts were discussed, while the first week in September was suggested as a logical time to hold the annual interleague championship, won last season by Treasury of the Departmental loop.

Pawson Wins Marathon By Mile

Cops Boston Classic in New Record Time of 2:31:01 3-5.

By BILL KING.

BOSTON, April 19 (A.P.).—Buckling a brisk and biting wind all of the way, Leslie Pawson, 28-year-old Pawtucket (R. I.) millhand, outraced the strongest of his 221 rivals by almost a mile today to triumph in the thirty-seventh running of the famous Boston A. A. marathon in the record-smashing time of 2 hours 31 minutes 1 3-5 seconds.

Starting off in Hopkinton with the group bunched in third place, Pawson, who has been invincible in this section's 10-20 mile racing during the past two years, set his own pace and was never worse than third passing any of the six checking stations. He trailed for almost 18 miles and, just before meeting the punishing Newton Hills, his short but smooth strides swept him past Walter Hornby, of Hamilton, Ontario, the early leader, and then John Dagloria, of Albany, N. Y., who surged to the front at the halfway mark.

Steep Grades No Bother To Pawson.

Once Pawson hit the steep grades, which he mounted without slackening pace, he had the race won and the contest was for the other seven races on the prize list.

More than five minutes after Pawson sprinted to the finish line in front of the B. A. A's backway clubhouse, Dave Komonen, experienced Toronto marathoner, broke the tape, 500 yards ahead of his fellow-townsman, Dick Wilding, who clinched third place.

Another Canadian, Harold Webster, of Hamilton, Ontario, placed fourth and was followed by the great New York Finns, Willie Kyronen and Albert "Whitey" Michelson. The fourth Canadian to place in the first ten was Walter Hornby, of Hamilton, who led the field to the third checking point, but killed himself during the uphill going to finish in seventh place.

The most spectacular spurt of the entire race, made during the last 200 yards, carried the 44-year-old Clarence Demar, who has won this event 7 times in his 14 starts, to the tape 5 yards ahead of DeGloria and into eighth place. Hugo Kuppinen, of New York, another veteran of this punishing race, placed tenth.

DeBruyn, 1932 Winner, Far Back.

Paul DeBruyn, of New York, last year's winner, ran in eighth place for almost 15 miles. Although a bit overweight for such an enduring test, he said he was in splendid condition until he drank some cold tea.

The victor had only a small blister on his left heel to mark his hurried journey of 26 miles 385 yards. His amazing time clipped 2 minutes 7 1-5 seconds off the record set by Johnny Miles, the last Canadian winner, in 1929, and was also 34 2-5 seconds faster than the Olympic marathon record made by Juan Zabala, of Argentina, under ideal conditions last summer at Los Angeles.

Pawson, who turned in record-breaking victories in his other races this spring, a 10-mile event in Boston and a 20-mile test in nearby Medford, has made two other Boston marathon starts. He finished eighth last year and was nineteenth in 1931.

He intended to celebrate his victory by attending a Boston theater with his parents and his fiancee, Betty Brooks, one of his Pawtucket coworkers. But tomorrow will find him tending his loom in the textile plant where he has been employed for several years.

Boxing Exhibitions At "Y" on Saturday

Spirited bouts are expected to result from the exhibition boxing matches to be conducted jointly at the Central Y. M. C. A., Saturday night by the George Washington Squared Circle Club and a team from the "Y." A wrestling exhibition also is on tap.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, who had been invited as the honor guest at the athletic carnival at the "Y," yesterday informed Chairman Gilbert E. Hyatt that a previous engagement in New York would prevent him from attending.

In addition to a three-round exhibition between heavyweights Zuzu Stewart, George Washington football star, and Curtis Varah, of the "Y," the following matches between "Y" boxers will be staged.

CARDS TAKE SHIRES OFF BRAVES' HANDS

Stripp of the Dodgers put Shires out of the game with an injured leg early in the season. He came back before he was in shape and McKechnie was dissatisfied with his play.

When Baxter Jordan was purchased from Baltimore, Shires was benched in his favor.

St. Louis, April 19 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals late today announced the purchase of Arthur "The Great" Shires from the Boston Braves, and Manager "Gabby" Street admitted he didn't know "what we'll do with him."

Headquarters of the St. Louis National League Club declined to amplify the bare announcement of purchase, as to price or Shires' future with the club.

The Cards already have two first-basemen, Jimmy Collins and Pat Crawford. Columbus of the American Association, a St. Louis farm, has been crying for reinforcements and sport writers speculated on his possible transfer to that club.

This seems doubtful, however, on the face of the bad boy's statement last night that he would quit baseball and go into boxing as a career.

The announcement followed a report that Shires had been sold to Toronto of the International League. He was quoted as saying he would take up boxing in preference to serving more time in the minors.

Paul Battles Sarron at Portner's

Former Titleholder to Face Dixie Puncher on Tuesday.

A FIGHT that bears the earmarks of a Madison Square Garden attraction will be served up to cauliflower customers at Portner's Arena in Alexandria next Tuesday night when Tommy Paul, former National Boxing Association featherweight champion, stacks up against the Dixie sensation, Pete Sarron, in the ten-round feature bout of the weekly fistic program.

Ranked among the first five leading featherweights in the country, Paul, regarded as a willing mixer and a strong two-fisted puncher, has fought the best in his class and hopes to get a crack at either Freddy Miller, the N. B. A. titleholder, or Kid Chocolate, recognized as the world's champion, late this summer.

Paul Won N. B. A. Crown.

Five feet 4 inches, tipping the beam at 126 pounds, Paul, a native of Buffalo, won the National Boxing Association crown on May 26 last year by beating Johnny Pena, in a ten-round scrap at Detroit. While suffering defeats at the hands of such sharp-shooters as Fidel LaBarba, Lew Feldman and Baby Arizmendi, Paul has decisioned, among others, Tony Sciolino, Buah Graham, Frankie Wallace and Young Geno. His record sparkles with outstanding triumphs and performances.

Sarron needs no introduction. His decisive victories over Frankie De Angelo, Benny Schwart and Miki Gelb, Hungarian champion, boosted the Syrian slugger's standing in the ring ladder. Ranked sixteenth in February, the swarthy Birmingham boy today is enjoying a place somewhere near the top of the third group, which should be about tenth from the champion.

Since invading these parts and coming under Jimmy Erwin's management, Sarron has endeared himself in the hearts of fans. A whirling dervish, Sarron is offered a great opportunity to go places and do things if he gets by Paul successfully Tuesday night.

Beaten only twice in his career, Sarron has weathered the storm of a number of outstanding fighters. He lost to Fidel LaBarba last year in a decision that was roundly booed.

A bang-up supporting cast, in which middleweights will be presented, has been arranged.

STEWART MAY FACE MACKMEN TODAY

tained attack. Joe Kuhel, Luke Sewell and Cronin, himself, are the chief offenders, and with the Nats' manager occupying the sweet spot in the batting order that he does, his lethargy is doing the team no good.

Heinie Manush, Fred Schulte and Goose Goslin are maintaining respectable averages, and Buddy Myer is showing signs of hitting the ball on the nose, but, if memory serves me rightly, no four-man team ever won a pennant, or even came close. Unless Sewell, starts bouncing a few hits off his bat, the name of Cliff Bolton is quite apt to make its appearance in the Nats' line-up, and Cronin may yield the clean-up position to Goslin or Schulte.

Hitting the Headpin

With Lorraine Gulli smashing the pins for a 132 high game and a 374 set, Kingpin last night put in an indisputable claim for championship honors in the Ladies District League by winning two games from Columbia.

Georgetown fell before Lucky Strike in three straight, as Anne Williams turned in a sparkling performance with her 141 individual game and 349 set.

Rendezvous whipped Arcadia twice, but the latter team's winning game marked the highest team game of the night's proceedings. Miss Edenton, of Arcadia, contributed to the cause with a 140.

Bill Woods took Mount Rainier in tow twice, while Capt. Mary Cox shot 133 and 320, and Recreation won two from Meyer Davis, Mamie Payne gathering in high honors with 119 and 330.

Columbia spilled Georgetown in two games in the Men's District League last night. Shaeffer's 356 featured.

Beaver Dam and Petworth broke even. Clarence Purdy had a 129 and 365.

Identity won the pennant in the A. G. O. League, beating Adjustants twice. Bill Penfold's 141 and 378 set the pace for the new champions.

Ellis, of National Savings and Trust, shot a 142 and 380 to win honors in the Bankers League. American Savings and Trust No. 1 posted a 547, and Washington Loan and Trust No. 2 1,597.

An important meeting of the District League will be held tonight at 7 o'clock at Lucky Strike. All holders of franchises in the league are requested to attend.

Women's Memorial Tourney Scheduled for Tomorrow

Rain Delays Play for Field of 111; Seniors Prepare for Competition; G. W. Plays Temple Golfers.

DUE to unfavorable weather conditions, the important Phyllis Keeler Miller Memorial Championship scheduled today at the Washington Golf and Country Club, has been postponed until tomorrow morning, it was announced last night by Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely, chairman of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association tournament committee.

The water-logged course resulting from the ghastly downpour of yesterday bore no indication that it would be suitable for play today, even if the weather cleared up, it was stated by the chairman, and it was decided to carry on with the same pairings and starting times as announced in Wednesday morning's paper. While the women were keenly disappointed since they had been looking forward with great interest to the first outstanding event of the season, they will be happy in the thought that the tournament will not be fought on a soggy layout.

A crack field of 111 feminine players is entered. Each of the ten clubs affiliated with the association is well represented and a warm battle for the championship won last year by Mrs. A. S. Gardiner, jr., is in prospect.

A two-day tournament over the week-end, an eighteen-hole medal handicap, will usher in activities for the Chevy Chase Senior Golf Association. Preceding the event Saturday, the annual meeting will take place in the assembly room of the clubhouse at 12:30 o'clock.

Senior contestants may split up their play over two days, playing a nine-hole round Saturday and another nine Sunday, it was announced A putting contest also will be staged.

The annual senior ringers tournament begins Saturday and closes on October 31, and the date for the Morven Thompson Memorial Cup contest will be announced later. To the members turning in the three lowest net scores during the season the Senior Association Cup will be awarded.

Postponement of the White Elephant golf tournament scheduled at Manor tomorrow was announced yesterday by the chairman of the Women's golf committee.

While a match with the University of Pennsylvania today is still pending, George Washington's golf team will engage Temple University tomorrow at Philadelphia.

Three other matches, all scheduled in Washington, will find the Colonials meeting North Carolina on April 27, University of Richmond on April 28 and Delaware on May 19.

Bill Coleman, captain, who paced the Colonial golfers in the recent qualifying trials with a brace of 79's; Earl Kniebley, Jim Sutter and Craig McKee will compose the varsity line-up.

Keefe's Bowling Team Front-Line Champion

Capt. William J. Keefe's team last night won the interpost bowling championship of the Front Line Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Washington at the Temple Alleys, with the team piloted by Capt. W. P. Boehmo second, and the team led by Capt. H. F. Volkman third.

With a 395 set for three games, Capt. Keefe carried off high individual honors.

Pentathlon Swim Booked at Y. M. C. A.

The Central Y. M. C. A. will stage its annual pentathlon swim tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, with the following events listed: Fifty-yard free style, 100-yard back stroke, fancy diving, 100-yard breast and 160-yard medley.

With every participant required to compete in every event, medals will be awarded first, second and third places.

Among the entrants are Mullady, Briggs, Marmion, Johnson, Moncure, Becker, Rouse, Birdsong, Wells, Driver and McCormick.

INDIANHEAD CHALLENGES.

With bright prospects, the Indian Head Cardinals ball club will practice Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Monument Grounds diamond No. 2, and all candidates are requested to report. James (Huck) Hattle, pitcher, recently signed with the club. For games call Indianhead 67.

Lafayette Racqueters Play G. W. Here Today

Despite a 7-to-2 setback at the hands of Johns Hopkins in Baltimore Saturday, the Colonials hope to bound into the victory column and are pinning their hopes on the sturdy shoulders of the Sherfy brothers, Raphael, ranking No. 1, and Lawrence; Ted Pierce, who will replace the injured Ranby Robinson; Reuben Moore, Clyde Smith and Ken Murayama.

Pitcher Reggie Mapp Farmed to Knoxville

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., April 19.—Reggie Mapp, erstwhile V. P. I. pitcher and one of the best baseball players ever seen in Augusta County League, has been farmed out by the New York Giants to the Knoxville club of the Southern Association, this league being "next door" to the majors.

Reggie's many friends in Staunton and county are hoping that he will go back up next season.

GOODACRE NINE PLAYS.

The Goodacre Juniors will clash with Clarendon Athletic Club Sunday at 1 o'clock on the Washington and Lee High School diamond. Goodacre players should report at Camp Meigs at 11:30.

Georgetown Nine Off On Trip

Opens Jaunt Against Temple in Philly Tomorrow.

HOPING against hope that its season's debut will be successful, Georgetown University's baseball team, 13 strong, will embark for Philadelphia tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock to engage Temple at 3:45 in the afternoon.

Weather permitting, the Hoyas will hold a workout this afternoon, as Coach Sheedy will endeavor to smooth over any rough spots that might appear on the surface.

Hot on the heels of the Temple game, will come a contest with New York University Saturday at Ohio Field. A return game with Temple will take place in Washington next Tuesday. Nealie, star of last year's freshman team, will hurl against the Violet nine.

Play St. John's Nine Sunday.

Sunday the Hilltoppers swing out to Dexter Park on Long Island to face St. John's of Brooklyn. Carpenter is expected to get the mound assignment against Buck Freeman's club.

Flashing much better hitting and fielding ability than last year, Coach Sheedy looks for a successful season for the Hoyas.

April 21, baseball, Temple University, at Philadelphia, Pa.; 22, baseball, New York University, at New York City; 25, baseball, Temple University; 28, baseball, West Virginia University; 28, golf, Holy Cross College, at Princeton, N. ANNUAL DOG SHOW OPENS TOMORROW

Entries Are Said to Assure Outstanding Exhibition of United States.

The entries received for the fourth annual National Capital Kennel Club Dog Show tomorrow and Saturday at Washington Auditorium indicate that the event will be the outstanding dog show held in the United States this year, excepting the Westminster show at Madison Square Garden last February, it is announced by the American Kennel Club licensed superintendents managing the show.

Joseph O'Hare, president of the National Capital Kennel Club, said that the dog show here Friday and Saturday is the only one in the country which has received more entries than were listed last year. More than 1,000 entries have already been received. The quality of the Washington show will probbaly surpass the Westminster show, Mr. O'Hare said.

Entries with famous pedigrees and outstanding champions in dogdom will compete for the several hundred prizes to be awarded and the highest honor which will be conferred upon the winner—the best dog of the show—by Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt at 9:30 p. m. next Saturday.

All dogs will be at the auditorium by 10 a. m., tomorrow for judging which begins at 10:30 o'clock. Dogs will remain until the closing hour of the last day, with the exception of puppies, which need be brought only on the morning of the day they are to be judged and may be removed from the show at the closing hour that day.

Judging has been scheduled for 10:30 a. m., 2 and 8 p. m. both tomorrow and Saturday. Features of the show will be the children's classes Saturday afternoon and the parade of the champions Saturday at 7:30 p. m. All champion dogs in the show will parade from the Almas Temple to the auditorium, accompanied by more than 500 Shriners and the Shriners' Band.

Proceeds will be given to the Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine fund for hospital for crippled children. Several members of every Shriners' Temple in Washington are entering dogs in the show, Mr. O'Hare said.

Excise Sugar Tax Urged by New Orleans

New Orleans (U.P.).—An excise tax on imported refined sugar will be enacted by Congress if the plans of combined New Orleans interests are materialized.

A levy of 50 cents per 100 pounds in addition to the present duty of $2.12 was asked by the New Orleans Board of Trade, Young Men's Business Club and Gen. Allison Owen, president of the Association of Commerce, in telegrams to Louisiana's representatives in Congress.

"Competition of imported refined sugar is threatening Louisiana refineries," read one of the telegrams. The tax was urged "as a protective measure and a just means of deriving needed Government revenue."

Flat Rate for Medical, Burial Fees Adopted

Franklin, Ind. (U.P.).—A new flat rate for medical and burial fees to be paid by county trustees for services has been adopted here.

Allowances of $12.50 for services rendered in each maternity case will be paid. Burial rates were fixed at $10 for infants, $30 for children and $60 for adults.

Old Bartenders Replace Boston Soda Jerkers

Boston (U.P.).—Because the average soda clerk knows nothing about the art of drawing beer, more than 100 bartenders of the days before prohibition have found employment again, according to figures of Bartenders Union, Local 77.

John J. Kearney, business agent, said the old-time bartender was almost alone in his knowledge of drawing beer with a proper collar.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MR. TWITCHELL, THE PERFECT DICTATOR.

"I THINK I have the makings of a great Old World dictator," declared Elmer Twitchell.

"Why?" asked the Inquiring Reporter.

"First of all, I have a perfect mustache for it," insisted Elmer, pointing to a comparatively recent growth.

"Not quite perfect, but with a little trimming and care it might help," admitted the I. R.

"And I can glare very fiercely," added Mr. Twitchell.

"You always were a good glarer."

"Yes, but I have improved my glaring 60 per cent," said Elmer. "How long is it since you have seen me glare?"

"Oh, it must be three or four weeks."

"I'm improved tremendously since then," said Elmer. "Would you like to have me glare for you?"

"By all means."

"How's that?" demanded Mr. Twitchell, coming close to the Inquiring Reporter and glaring in his best manner.

"It's most impressive," admitted the I. R., "although I think you force the eyeballs a little too obviously."

"Know how I improved my glaring?" asked Elmer.

"No."

"Concentration and practice," he snapped. "I put in four hours a day trying to outglare myself in a mirror. I finally got so I could make my own reflection wince."

* * * *

"WHAT else makes you think you are qualified for a dictatorship?" asked the Inquiring Reporter.

"I've got the perfect voice for a dictator," said Elmer. "I can outyell anybody I ever met. I always was noisy. I come by it naturally. My father was a train caller."

"Quite a background," admitted the I. R. "What are your other qualifications to rule some Old World country?"

"I am very good at bigotry," explained Elmer.

"Wouldn't you hesitate to raise racial issues?"

"Not at all."

* * * *

"WHAT about your education?" asked the I. R.

"I have no education," confessed Elmer.

"That will help," admitted the reporter. "And what is your general knowledge of history and philosophy."

"I don't know a thing about 'em," said Elmer.

"That clinches everything," sighed the I. R. "As a candidate for a dictatorship you should rate 99 per cent."

"Ninety-nine my eye," concluded Elmer. "I want 100 per cent or nothing!"

SKEPTICAL.

Elmer Twitchell says he doubts that the national headache can ever be cured by Government control of digestion or a lot of bond issues to provide funds for Federal easing of hatbands.

New York has a new police commissioner, James S. Bolan. He appears to be so conspicuously efficient and honest that immediate steps will probably be taken to have him removed from the office and named chairman of a pretzel board.

The people of the Tennessee Valley's reaction to President Roosevelt's proposals is probably that they are glad somebody has at last decided they need something besides mammy songs.

LOST.

Hi—We have all been urged to stand behind the President. I have done so as a good citizen, but I find I am now so far behind him that I not only can't tell where he is going but I don't know which way he went.

Yours,
PERPLEXED.

Woman Recovers Bag In Chase After Thief

Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, 714 Twenty-first street northwest, opened the front door of her home yesterday afternoon just in time to see a colored man taking her traveling bag containing clothing valued at $100 from her automobile. She screamed and started in pursuit of the thief.

He did not stop, but dropped the bag after the chase had continued for about a block.

Cab Driver Robbed of $3.

George R. Litz, 1938 L street northeast, reported to police that he was robbed of $3 early yesterday by two colored men who entered his cab at Fourteenth and L streets and told him to drive to 1762 Willard street northwest.

RECRUITING STARTS FOR D. C. FORESTRY QUOTA OF 500 MORE

Virginia Is Allowed 5,000, West Virginia 3,500 and Maryland 3,250.

The District's quota of jobless men to be enrolled in the reforestation army is 1,000, of whom 500 have already been enlisted, it was announced yesterday by Robert Fechner, director of the Conservation Corps.

Maryland's quota is 3,250, of whom 1,000 have already been recruited from Baltimore. Virginia, which has not yet sent any men to the corps, will be allowed to fill 5,000 vacancies from its unemployed. West Virginia's quota of jobs in the total 250,000 is 3,500 men, it was announced.

The present policy of taking only men between 18 and 25 who have been receiving relief is to be continued. The officers in each State who will have charge of selecting that State's quota was also made public yesterday.

Recruiting Will Continue.

The recruiting in Washington will continue to be under the direction of Leroy A. Halbert, supervisor of the Emergency Relief Council. Paul Beisser, secretary of the Advisory Unemployment Relief Commission, with offices in Baltimore, will handle this work in Maryland. In Virginia, the recruiting will be under the direction of Arthur W. James, chairman of the Virginia State emergency relief committee. West Virginia's enrollment will be handled by Maj. Francis Turner, director of the State's unemployment relief administration.

Only 25,000 men have been enrolled, but the enlistment of the remainder will begin in a few days, Mr. Fechner said. Men are being selected from the rolls of those already receiving relief because these men have been out of work the longest and need jobs most. Young men are being selected because many of them have not had jobs since leaving school and it is this class of men that the President is most anxious to put to work.

Private Work Pending.

Enlistments are being made for six months, and men may reenlist for a similar period at the conclusion of the first term. It is not expected that the work will continue for more than two six-month terms. Mr. Fechner said, although he said some authorities believed it might be necessary to keep the men for two years.

It is generally planned to put the men to work in the same State in which they are enrolled, in national forests if possible, otherwise in State forests. President Roosevelt has asked the governors of the States to inform him if they will be willing to pay the Federal Government not more than $3 per acre for reforestation work done on State forests. Arrangements for reforestation work on private lands have not definitely been made.

Music Studio Ban Invoked by Zoning

Teacher in Residence Area Ordered to Show Cause Against Ousting.

The operation of a music studio in a residentially zoned area is not a "home occupation" within the meaning of the zoning act, the District Commissioners ruled yesterday on the basis of an opinion furnished by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

Acting on complaints made against a studio conducted by LaSalle Spier at 2235 Bancroft place from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily, the Commissioners instructed Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the board, to notify Spier of the ruling and to advise him to show cause why he should not be prohibited from operating the studio in its present location.

This was the first time that the Commissioners had made a ruling on the classification of a music studio in relation to the zoning act.

Southwest Group Asks D. C. Use of Extra Cash

A resolution requesting Congress to authorize the use of surplus funds in the Treasury to the credit of the District for "urgent District needs" was adopted at last night's meeting of the Southwest Citizens Association at the Fairbrother School.

The group appropriated $20 for the Associated Charities Gardens in the Southwest section of the city. Lack of fire escapes at the Jefferson School, Sixth and N streets southwest, was attacked.

CAPPER DENOUNCES CUTTING OF SCHOOLS

Also Tells Petworth Group District Lags Badly in Rent Reductions.

Drastic retrenchment and economy should not be practiced in the administration of public schools, Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, told the Petworth Citizens Association last night.

Speaking on national representation for the District of Columbia, the Kansas senator set forth the reduction in the school budget and high rents as two factors that did not figure in plans for Washington of the future.

"District schools have a sound administration," the senator said, "and I believe that our schools generally are a vast improvement over such as we had a comparatively short time past. But there are several noticeable bad spots, and these must be excised from the system. I am committed to the principle of a model public system for Washington, and I have done my best to obtain the assistance of Congress in liberal treatment of the schools."

In discussing rents in the District, the Senator pointed to the drastic necessity for a further reduction of rents in the immediate future, declaring that Washingtonians are "paying boom time rents out of a depression income."

A study of rents in 19 cities in the United States shows the District to be in many cases 40 per cent and more behind the others in reduction of rents, the senator said. Detroit has reduced rents 78 per cent, and the reduction in the other cities has been nearly as great. Washington heads the list with a reduction of only 16 per cent, Senator Capper revealed.

Patriot's day and the anniversary of Paul Revere's Ride was the subject of an address by Jesse C. Suter, vice chairman of the Citizens Joint Committee on National Representation. Paul E. Lesh, District of Columbia Bar member, addressed the association on national representation, asking that the "Nation's Capital be brought into the Nation."

Industrial Savings Capital Rise Voted

Stockholders Unanimous for Adding $100,000 for Reopening.

Stockholders of the Industrial Savings Bank last night voted unanimously to increase the capital stock of the bank by $100,000 as part of the program toward reopening of the institution as a national bank.

Already $45,000 has been subscribed toward a goal of $200,000. The citizens reorganization committee of the bank will meet tonight to plan for subscription of the additional stock.

SIX MEN ARRESTED IN BOGUS BILL DRIVE

3 Taken Here and 3 in Baltimore Linked to Race Track Counterfeit Scheme.

Three men were arrested here early today in connection with an alleged scheme to pass a large number of counterfeit $5 bills at the Havre de Grace race track, which was believed frustrated with the arrest of three other men and seizure of 65 allegedly bogus bills in Baltimore yesterday.

The men arrested here are Harvey Smith, 24, and Irving Smith, 30, both of 1119 K street northwest, and John M. Belvin, 27, of Baltimore. They were taken into custody for investigation by Policemen Henry M. Jett and C. A. Berry.

Those arrested at Baltimore are L. B. Wilson, of Raleigh, N. C., and L. H. Holsclaw, who gave his address as the 500 block of Ninth street northwest, Washington. The third man said he is Jesse C. Foster. He was taken into custody by Baltimore police, while the other two were arrested by Maryland State Policemen Menash Katz and C. R. Parker.

Bartholomew Bratton, a Secret Service operative, who questioned the men in Baltimore, said they apparently had passed a number of bogus bills and were on their way to the race track when arrested on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard.

It was reported that Secret Service men were attempting to locate the counterfeiting equipment used by the men both in Baltimore and Washington. Belief was expressed that a ring with elaborate equipment had been formed to flood the Maryland tracks with counterfeit money during the spring racing season.

Two Kite Groups Complete Tests

Preliminary Victors Are Announced; Finals Are Set for May 20.

Results in two of thirteen preliminary kite-flying meets to determine finalists for the championships of the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia, scheduled for May 20, were announced yesterday in the Takoma-Manor Park and Seaton Park contests.

Contests at Anacostia Park and Banneker Recreational Center, scheduled for yesterday, were postponed until Saturday because of rain. One contest will be held today at the Taft Recreation Center.

Presbytery Ends Capital Meeting

Three Elders and Three Ministers Elected to General Assembly.

The annual two-day spring meeting of the Washington City Presbytery was concluded yesterday with the election of three elders and three ministers to the General Assembly.

Ministers chosen were the Rev. Preeley Rohrer, pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church; the Rev. W. F. Eagleson, of the Sherwood Church, and the Rev. Isaac Steenson, of Clarendon, Va.

The laymen selected were James H. Beattie, of the Lewisville Presbyterian Church, McLean, Va.; Charles E. Johnson, of the Garden Memorial Church, and William Jardine, of the Eckington Presbyterian Church.

Lieut. Hanley's Funeral Today.

Funeral services for Lieut John L. Hanley, Coast Artillery of Indian Head, Md., who died at Gorgas Hospital, Canal Zone, on April 9, 1933, will be held this morning at Arlington National Cemetery. Full military honors will be rendered. Father Kennedy will officiate at the services.

TWO ARE IDENTIFIED BY FOUR WITNESSES IN HOLDUP OF BANK

Man and Woman Say Cahill and Raifel Aided Robbery of Mechanics'.

Two men arrested Tuesday in Philadelphia as suspects in the robbery of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank branch, Eighth and G streets southeast, were yesterday positively identified as two of the four bandits who participated in the armed holdup of the bank April 6, according to word received here last night.

The two men, John Cahill, 36, and Abraham Raifel were picked up by Philadelphia police on descriptions sent out from Washington, after witnesses had picked out several pictures from the rogue's gallery here and said that they resembled two of the four who took more than $7,000 from the bank branch.

Detective Sergts. Floyd Truscott and Frank O. Brass will probably return to Washington this morning with the four witnesses who identified the men, but they will have to return to Philadelphia tomorrow or Saturday for a hearing in the office of the United States Commissioner, when a decision will be made as to whether or not the men can be returned here immediately to answer the charges.

The witnesses are two employes of the bank and two customers who saw the holdup.

Dale L. Miller, a bookkeeper of the bank, was called as a witness yesterday. Police said he identified Cahill as one of the robbers. Mrs. Laura O'Brien, of Washington, a customer, testified Cahill ordered her inside the bank at pistol-point during the robbery.

Detectives said they suspected the other two men sought are in hiding in Philadelphia.

Two Women Are Hurt In Automobile Accident

Anna M. Lovett and Katherine Clark, both of Crestwood, N. Y., were seriously injured late yesterday when a taxicab in which they were riding collided with the car of Laurence R. Toothman, 43, of 740 Third street northwest, at Delaware avenue and D street northeast. The cab was driven by Pedro T. Pratt, 42, of 1107 Tenth street northwest.

Miss Lovett was treated at Casualty Hospital for a possible fracture of the right hip and bruises and Miss Clark for a possible skull fracture and concussion.

Meningitis Strikes At Training School

Two Inmates Removed to Garfield, Dr. Fowler Announces.

Two suspected cases of spinal meningitis have been discovered at the National Training School for Boys on Bladensburg road, Health Officer William C. Fowler stated yesterday. Both cases have been taken to Garfield Hospital for observation.

Dr. Fowler said that all boys who had been in contact with the suspected cases have been isolated and that he did not anticipate any additional cases nor have the maladies of the two boys in Garfield been diagnosed definitely as the epidemic variety of meningitis.

The first case developed on April 14 and the second last Tuesday, Dr. Fowler said.

More Rain Likely In District Today

Cloudy Skies and Continued Cool, With Showers Is Forecast.

More rain may be in store for the Capital today.

Cloudy skies, continued cool and possible occasional showers was predicted by the Weather Bureau last night. Beginning tomorrow the temperature will rise, and warm weather is in view for the week-end, the bureau said.

It has rained 11 days out of the 20 this month, records of the bureau show, and the total precipitation to date was 5.20 inches at noon yesterday. No records have been set, however. The temperature rose to 61 degrees for the high reading yesterday, and dropped to 42 at 10 o'clock last night.

Harry Haynes Wins Parole From Lorton

Former Banker to Quit Reformatory June 12, After 2 Years.

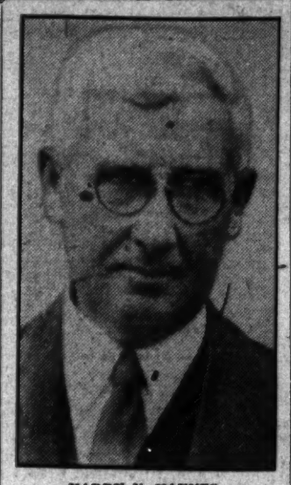
Harry V. Haynes, former Georgetown banker, was granted a parole yesterday, effective June 12, from the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va., by the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole created less than a year ago.

Sentenced to four and a half years for embezzlement, Haynes has served almost two years of the term and has been eligible for parole for the last three months. The board has been making an intensive investigation of the case during this period.

The parole was recommended by Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of penal institutions, who said that Haynes had been an excellent prisoner. Information was furnished the board that Haynes' family is in destitute circumstances and that the former banker has been promised a job as soon as he is released.

Numerous letters, some of them from bankers, have been received by the board in behalf of the parole. The board is composed of Isaac Gans, chairman; Dr. Loren B. T. Johnson, and Dr. Emmett J. Scott.

Haynes was at one time a prominent member of the District of Columbia Bankers Association. He was indicted in May, 1931, on counts of false book entries, misapplication of bank funds of credit and abstraction of bank securities.



HARRY V. HAYNES.

His trial opened on May 11, of the same year, and through the efforts of Leo Rover, as prosecuting attorney he was found guilty on June 5. The trial was featured by bitter arguments between the defense and prosecution and stirred unusual interest in banking circles throughout the city.

Haynes began his sentence of four and a half years at Occoquan June 17, 1931.

THOMAS TO AVOID BRIDGE PLAN ROW

Chairman Elmer Thomas of the Senate District appropriations subcommittee will wash his hands of the controversy over rival designs for the Calvert Street Bridge over Rock Creek.

"That is an engineering matter, and I don't think the subcommittee should go into it," he said yesterday. "Our function should be to appropriate funds for the bridge, and let the Commissioners determine the structural details."

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee, and another member of the Thomas subcommittee, said he favored a masonry bridge of the type proposed by George Oakley Totten, jr., local architect.

The issue developed when Mr. Totten protested to the committee that the Commissioners at a cost of $60,000 had substituted plans for a single arch steel bridge for the multiple arch masonry design he prepared in 1917.

Senator Thomas yesterday indicated he personally is in favor of liberalizing the provisions of the District bill in line with recommendations made by the Commissioners. The Commissioners' amendments provide for both Calvert street and P street bridges over Rock Creek, $1,000,000 more for schools, and authority to shift funds within certain departments.

Fire Squad Saves Man In Gas-Filled Kitchen

With the gas jets of the range open, Jesse C. Miller, 32, 2123 I street northwest, was found in an unconscious condition on the kitchenette floor of his apartment late yesterday. Revived by the fire rescue squad, he was taken to Emergency Hospital and later transferred to Gallinger Hospital.

A note was found in which the man bade good-by to his mother, and said his brother, Raymond, with whom he lived, could explain "all."

Agencies to Cooperate On Child Health Day

Reports received at the second meeting of the May Child Health Day committee yesterday at the office of the Council of Social Agencies indicated that medical and dental societies, public schools, playgrounds, parent-teacher associations and many civic groups will cooperate in the annual event.

An elaborate program of examinations and activities are being arranged for the day. E. J. Henderson is chairman of the committee.

WARDMAN DEADLINE ON CLAIMS JUNE 30

Hearings Placed in Hands of Sinclair in Concern's Receivership.

Justice James M. Proctor, of the District Supreme Court, yesterday signed an order requiring all persons, firms or corporations having "claims or demands against the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., or the receivers, or against any property in the hands of the receivers," to file their claims on or before June 30.

For the purpose of having these claims adjudicated and a report made on them, Justice Proctor appointed A. Leftwich Sinclair, auditor of the Supreme Court, a special master. Mr. Sinclair was empowered to hold hearings, take testimony, make findings of fact, and adopt conclusions of law, so that when his report is received by the Supreme Court it will enable the court to act with dispatch.

The order was directed that formal notice be sent to all creditors and claimants, directing them to appear and file their claims. Justice Proctor directed that while June 30 was the final date for the listing of the claims, the court might, under certain circumstances, permit creditors to file later than that.

The law firm of Douglas, Obear & Douglas appeared on behalf of the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., which is one of the corporate trustees of the defaulted bond issue that sent the Wardman properties into receivership. The two receivers now acting are Julius I. Peyser and Joseph P. Tumulty, Thomas P. Carson, the third original trustee, having resigned two months ago.

Guild to Hear Dr. Ryan.

Dr. John A. Ryan will be the guest speaker at 8 o'clock tonight at a meeting of the Catholic Evidence Guild at 1814 N street northwest. Dr. Ryan will speak on "Papal Encyclicals on the Conditions of Labor."

Students to Contest With Kites.

$840,000 PARK FUND ISOLATED BY ACTION OF BUDGET BUREAU

Business foresight of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission has acted as a boomerang to the program of park playground developments planned for the District and environs.

Cracking its powerful whip, the Budget Bureau has isolated $840,000 of the commission's funds in the Treasury as a part of the administration economy program.

The money, authorized in 1932 for the purchase of park lands and for sections of the proposed and needed Northeast playground, was held by the commission pending an expected decrease in land values and the thus ascribing capability to buy more lands.

Capper Regrets Action.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, Republican member of the Senate District Committee, last night characterized the action of the Budget Bureau as "unfortunate," declaring that "land is as cheap now as it ever will be."

The Kansan said he planned an early meeting with officials of the Park and Planning Commission to discuss the situation created by the Budget Bureau impounding the group's funds.

Ten employes of the commission have summarily lost their jobs as a result of the Budget Bureau's move. All of these were directly concerned with work on the projected George Washington Memorial Parkway, which for the time being is scrapped by the move.

The Fort Drive project, a plan to link up by motor road all old Civil War forts in the vicinity, is also abruptly arrested by the Budget Bureau's step.

More Jobs in Danger.

A number of once unemployed, now working in the proposed Maryland Valley development, may also lose their work as a result of the move.

Part of the $840,000 was expected to be loaned the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission under the provisions of the Capper-Cramton park purchases act. Deferment of these expected advances may halt work being done in the Maryland Valley sections in anticipation thereof.

The $840,000 impounded is part of $3,000,000 appropriated last year to remain available to the commission until spent. Many regard the Budget Bureau action as high-handed because of the District's statutory obligation to pay the Federal Government $1,000,000 a year on money advanced for park purchases.

Garages Proposed Under City's Parks

Congress Member Asserts Jobs Would Be Made, Beauty Unmarred.

Construction of underground parking garages beneath public parks in Washington's congested sections was proposed yesterday by Representative Loring Black, jr., (Democrat), New York, a member of the House District Committee.

Representative Black said he probably will introduce a bill to carry out his idea. He plans to make the garages self-liquidating, through fees assessed for parking privileges by the District Commissioners. The project would be financed out of District revenues.

"The underground garages would not detract from the beauty of the parks," he said. "That has been demonstrated by the Senate's underground garage, in the park adjoining the Senate Office Building. If constructed now, new work could be provided for unemployed laborers."
